Integrity

June 23, 2003 A

NOETH ATULE: It is understood, our brother, that the engagement of these models of understanding will soon overtake that which has existed for so long in human record. There will be a trilogy of understandings, this being the first in this seventeen year grouping, others to come after that time of 2014. This first in the series brings the attention or focus of humanity to a new frontier, a new threshold of consciousness and engagement of life that must be appreciated to even begin to understand the next two. These presentings comprise a model of understanding to reorganize the diversity of human interests and attention.

To begin with, for today's understanding, we marshal our resources to convey a peaceful dialogue with you that will become a mainstay of excellence in human integrity and conduct. The exclusive nature of the next threshold which is on your doorstep, our brother, calls into play an integrity of thought and emotion and conduct much of humanity is unused to. What is the nature and character of such integrity? one might ask. It begins with a conviction as to the natural sustaining power for life that is built with a foundation of purity and clarity of vision, a knowledge of the timeless structures of life that exceed the longevity of lesser realities.

Integrity is not a vehicle for criticizing the condition of others. It is, rather, a fundamental principle that the root of all life is principled and with purpose. The challenge to the observer is to discover this in all observations, including those focused upon self. Integrity is a theme that runs through life and brings about clarity and purpose that is contiguous with the Source of all life. Integrity refined continuously moves with that which is the Source of all. Integrity does not challenge or limit diversity, for all potential, all possibilities are sourced on this theme. Integrity reveals the connection between all purposes, all capabilities, and all venues of life. Integrity is not a rigid way of life, but an honest one that allows one to see the truth everywhere for the integrity is already in harmony with all truth, all patterns of life, and all that is to come.

This New Paradigm which we present can be appreciated through fundamental integrity and the next in the trilogy will assuredly be revealed. One who chooses integrity as a developing theme from day to day chooses the richness of that which is to come. Beginning this understanding in this way, we remain Noeth Atule, your brother.

The lucrative theme of life

August 19, 2003 A

JANU: We begin, then, this afternoon broaching the subject of the New Paradigm. Reaching then into that which began as a quest for Divine guidance and became the solution for the movement of life as it is portrayed throughout the universe, you see. The easy qualities of life proceed unerringly toward the destination and goal that began as a moment of inquiry, a pinpoint of light in the human estate.

These paradigm instruction sets reveal to the open mind a path of engagement for yet another threshold of life. Move with us, then, now, into that which is held by the Master Noeth Atule for these purposes.

NOETH ATULE: Lucrative, our brother, is the theme that is the character of this quest, for those who value life and its treasures of understanding and experience. We are Noeth Atule with you at your side at this time. And would broaden the scope of our presentation to include an understanding of those treasures of life that await the journeyer who would embrace them.

This New Paradigm reaches into this coffer, displaying the shining moments that await. The fabric of life will be understood and engaged in such a way that new tapestries can be woven and changed and written by human potential and life's response. Humanity no longer a thing separate from life, but realizing that it is life and all that it can be.

In this new model of life, human imagination is the catalyst for creation and manifestation. The treasures to come are waiting for the enlightened human consciousness to create them. Not with hammer and saw but with integrated heart and mind and spirit. What treasures, then, can you imagine even at this time that would honor life, enrich it, and bring joy and fulfillment to the opportunities that lie ahead?

The discovery of other worlds, cultures, technologies, movements of life in the physical universe, although vast, do not compare to the light from one consciousness's realization of its true estate. For this light invigorates the universe and the beyond. Let your imagination, then, begin the journey of creativity.

The registry of time and events and the movement into fearlessness Sept. 2, 2003 A NOETH ATULE: Let us proceed, then, with today's understanding, marching along in time to the cadence of the movement of life, as we see it and as you will live it. Today's understanding deals with the registry of time and events marching headlong into that which justifies a continuation of life in the pattern of its origin. This registry of which we speak belongs to that order of life that begins to reach into your destiny in such a way as to bring about no fear of change. Let us lessen, then, such fear with the understanding that fear is what grounds you, roots you into that which you have already accepted and keeps you there to complete your journey. A journey for many is completing itself and the fear no longer serves. The registry, then, picks up on this and brings into your consciousness the light of understanding that brings enthusiasm to embrace change.

The New Paradigm understanding brings this about by such method and manner and it is time to understand the dynamics of consciousness that contain, that release one into change. When one realizes and embraces the dynamic of their existence that they are a universal being with connection to all realities and universes, the confines of finite existence no longer hold sway. The new model of understanding for the New Life Wave brings one into position to embrace life in this way. Let there be, then, more and more revealed into your consciousness and your experience that dissipates all fear of change.

As you can see, this pattern has existed in many areas of your life in a way that fear of change seems reasonable. As you release the grasp of this, the consciousness automatically, or should we say naturally, embraces a more complete awareness of life and its movement that never ceases. This is the lesson for today. Consider it well, for it opens a doorway into expansion and freedom.

Appreciating humanity as one entity and the destiny it reveals Sept. 30, 2003 B
JANU: I am Janu speaking, focusing then this afternoon on a journey of some eloquence, as portrayed by the Master Noeth Atule. Today's summary represents that which is to be understood by humanity in time to come.

NOETH ATULE: We are proceeding, then, along this line questioning the future of the human journey through a new paradigm of understanding and embrace. Full and rich with the promise of life, we partake of the quest and embrace that which is needed along this journey. There are many opportunities to grow into a more complete estate. This paradigm alone stands as but a moment in the flow of life, although its employment shall survive beyond your concept of progression.

Now, when I say these things, I speak to all of humanity. When you learn to appreciate collective human life as one entity, you will see its destiny more clearly, a destiny that includes all peoples. For life to look back on itself and to know its own truth, it must have a consciousness rooted in its wholeness. This paradigm structures you in consciousness to touch its wholeness, see its destiny and embrace life fully.

Humanity will eventually leave your current world, for it no longer represents a field of opportunity at that point that the collective human has need of. For this to take place, humanity must render itself free of the limitations of isolated existence with only a story of life described by individuality. We of the Collectives of Life, have a collaborative response and connection with opportunity and service. Movement through creation, as you would term it, is by choosing an affinity with a particular reality and the experience begins, as you have just demonstrated. When collective consciousness includes the reality of other species and other worlds, other dimensions, other universes, the range of experience expands with it. The New Paradigm for the next life wave of potential includes this quality of life. See how easy and natural it is to visit any reality. Your own Earth environment responds to the same principle in the same way. Be sure to include it in your journeys.

Intimacy and the flow of life

October 20, 2003 A

NOETH ATULE: We are the Master Noeth Atule, bringing you into this understanding in a new way for you, for this paradigm understanding is much more than has been presented thus far. For humanity will experience and perceive life in a new way, which includes an intimacy of senses that brings into clarity life, the movement of life in all of creation, from the blade of grass to the song of the bird to the busyness of the insect to the cry of a child to the rising sun to the breeze that caresses and the storm that rages and fragrance that communicates more clearly than words.

This journey today is a taste of this. You will experience moving more gently through life, touching others more gently and carrying with you the essence of that through which you have passed, rich with lingering memory of contribution and gain. You will be more connected with life, intimately. Anger, frustration, condemnation, fear are the product of disconnectedness. No longer the need to clutch so tightly at any part of life, any material thing, for more awaits you than you could ever hold. And holding does not serve that which you appreciate, for it has its freedom as well to move through life. Engaging life in this way prepares you for more than you can imagine, for life is <more> vast and rich and long lived than one world can reveal. That which moves into your experience has touched life and brings that touching with it, to add to yours as it moves on its way, as do you. This is the flow of life. Enjoy it, our brother, as we continue.

The elements of humanity's future

October 23, 2003 A

JANU: Yes, good afternoon, my brother. I am Janu speaking, heralding this moment as contemporary to that which defines momentum in life. Today's journey takes us on an adventure that climbs into the more rarified atmosphere of human destiny, that includes pre-positioning of the elements of humanity's future. Today's diagnosis of those elements begins with our master's presentation at this time.

NOETH ATULE: Yes, I am Noeth Atule, recounting the understanding that portrays the next human adventure. Our brother and master, Janu, portrays the essential truth of these discourses in an excellent way. Today's understanding of this new paradigm brings about a forecast of the elements of destiny. Let us examine, then, that which will manifest but already exists inter-dimensionally.

The first tertiary effect will surmount the problem or challenge or difficulty of pursuing reasonable behavior on the part of the masses by those leaders who are already part of the future of human destiny. This effect can be understood in whole or in part as the benign influence with potential for amplification. Its pattern or character exemplifies a caring for humanity on the part of the masses through its enlightened leaders, bringing into focus for all to see and embrace. Estranged humanity, devoid of this concept, will no longer further its hold on forward movement, for humanity, through the cycling of rebirth, will purge itself of these influences, leaving them to find influence in other venues, you see. This is accomplished not by arbitrary doctrine or influence but by choice of consciousness, for all are loved and dine at the table of life in their own way. This is a natural process and sanctioned by those overseers of human destiny.

When one reaches into the cauldron of life, this dynamic must ensue to bring clarity to the journeys of life. The New Paradigm understanding includes natural selection to achieve the momentum that brings about the achievement of thresholds of consciousness and engagement. We are the Masters of Life, regardless of chosen path and relationship. The freedom of choice and the results of that choice live as a constant reminder to the beauty of creativity and its unlimited destiny.

Intimacy

November 21, 2003 A

JANU: Yes, greetings, my brother. I am Janu speaking, welcoming you this afternoon to an opportunity to free the mind and the spirit, if you will, into recognition of that order which brings about lasting reverence for the true nature of life. We begin by accumulating the facts on this subject, those known quantities or elements that bring about this understanding and cohesion.

Let us not race ahead, then, of the natural flow of this. The one who brings about such understanding is available at this time and the attention is focused.

NOETH ATULE: As you can see, our brother, we are Noeth Atule, assuming then the climate of opportunity to speak through and with you on this subject, illuminated by your master and benefactor, Janu.

What then is there to be said and understood of such a subject? The elements and the cohesion thereof of the True Nature of life brings reverence through understanding and intimacy thereof, for if certain presumptions of understanding are true then these elements are the foundation of the complete expression of the potential of life, which is on an order, or scale, of the Prime Imperative for the system of life of which you are a part. The New Paradigm is but one element and speaks to such expression and reverence by way of an intimacy of understanding, acclimation, expression, and oneness with all of life.

It is true, and a challenge for humanity, that consciously individuals are yet [to be] one with themselves, for their patterns of identity and expression are limited to a focus of their physical existence, with that that is unseen held in contempt for, at times, the difficulties of living. The New Paradigm is an opportunity to refresh, return to, the grander estate of being that is not separate from these things, these identities, but is master of them.

Intimacy, then, is an element of life that adds cohesion to the other elements. Intimacy unfolds freely when there is a peaceful acceptance of who you are, truly, and the true nature of any other part of life, you see. Intimacy exposes common ground, harmony, similarities, common interests, and mutual benefits. Intimacy is an element of life that must be known, lived, and shared in the new understanding that is to come. Intimacy includes all that you are, as opportunity to find peace and acceptance within your own being.

The understandings you achieve in this way, the patterns of harmony and balance and completeness, are those that you will find are common to life throughout your universe, for the Divine Imperative imbued life, all of life, with these qualities. The vast diversity of the expressions of life, these elements of which we speak, will always remain as the path of return to the source of life's being, its diversity, its purpose. Intimacy, then, is to be explored and understood and will heal the fragmented life of so many.

The eternal traveler

January 9, 2004 A

JANU: Today's journey displays the interrogation of self in the context of the focus of life as befits human destiny and your own, meaning the 'eternal traveler,' for we all journey through life in our own way, but collectively we embrace life as a forerunner of its destiny.

NOETH ATULE: I am he that speaks to the enquiry as to the nature of life bestowed upon humanity through its own prerogative. The New Paradigm understanding embraces the catalysts of life as one reality leading to another, for the New Paradigm--the new Life Wave of Potential--for humanity is its chosen destiny for its duration, the duration of that Life Wave.

The human scale of inclusive awareness will, and must, expand beyond known concepts of your current philosophies and sciences and theosophies, for truly will be realized in this next wave, universal understanding of the diversity of life and its collective reality. Each life wave of potential moves, not through time, but through destiny and the rigors of those who fulfill it. For your current, or should we say recent, excursion into the experience of the unity of what you call the Eternal Now unites all understandings in the face of all diversity. Humanity will, through or by virtue of embrace of the next wave of potential, find its true estate in life as a manifesting, creative consciousness that participates directly in the creation of the universe.

It is written, our brother, in the fabric of destiny that you do so, for the universe creates itself, as do you, for you are one with it and it is the manifest consciousness. It is you and you are it. And in time this will be realized and humanity will understand its reason for being. You are a traveler, a journeyer that moves throughout the universe, not limited to one world, or one species, or one time, and, in a much larger understanding, one universe. Be at peace with your lot in life, for it is vaster than you realize. You wonder as a species as to the diversity of life in the universe. That diversity is known and engaged by those who have awakened to their True Nature. Move then on a tide of life as you have created it and ride it into your destiny, which is rich beyond your imagination.

As fellow journeyers, we bring you these understandings. Good afternoon.

The light dynamic of the New Paradigm

Jan. 15, 2004 A

NOETH ATULE: Be aware, then, Child of the Light, that we speak as Noeth Atule of this great understanding that speaks to the movement of life that begins with Light. The understanding of light in this greater reality is within the New Paradigm understanding and reality moving upon you and through you. The light of which we speak has always existed as a source of creation, that that is created. Its presence has always been. This light principle restores manifested life moment by moment. It is akin to what you call your "Light Body." Light is more than some inert energetic reality, dormant. It is in constant expression.

Light is better understood, at least in the beginning, by its results, what it affords more than what it is. For comprehension on that level is a Light Body experience requiring no words. It is rare for humanity to walk in Light, or any other reality, that is appreciated only by being one with it. When your Light body expands, or should we say intensifies, it draws upon its source of universal light. This is facilitated by the awakening of consciousness, as the desire to become more aware of and more engaged as a universal being taking part in and contributing to all of life.

This light dynamic of New Paradigm existence is each one's signature and reveals who they are. This is true for all of humanity, all of life, and worlds and suns. The universe is a Light that is dynamic and vital and is known by larger venues of life. This New Paradigm opportunity, when engaged, moves human consciousness into a more complete relationship with its True Nature. As a Body of Light, no longer will humanity be limited to choosing the elements of its destiny based solely upon physicality. You will perceive the light of another and an honesty and openness and intimacy will be realized. Behavior will change dramatically, for deception, manipulation, and power over each other or another, will become irrelevant.

Eventually, our brother, the individual and collective humanity will awaken beyond the need for physical bodies, for through these opportunities of these Life Waves of Potential, this is the natural course, as consciousness awakens to its full estate. But life does not end there, dear one. It becomes even grander. But moments of grandness can be yours in your day, as you embrace these larger truths as real possibilities. Continue to claim your power to fulfill your dreams and your missions in life, mindful of the source of true power within you.

Sovereignty

April 5, 2004 A

JANU: I am Janu speaking, serving then this afternoon the opportunity to proceed along these lines of discourse relating to the predominant culture of understanding for this New Paradigm series. To broach then this understanding, the move from what has been servitude for many in their life expression to sovereignty, which characterizes the New Paradigm reality of which we speak. Please understand that servitude plays no role in these proceedings or this subject. On the other hand, sovereignty does. The supreme characteristic of this new model is personal and collective sovereignty, each standing in their own true light.

NOETH ATULE: We are Noeth Atule, climbing then into new heights of understanding for you and with you. The understanding referred to by our brother Janu, speaks to a core understanding or reality of this new wave of life. Sovereignty, then, examines self-awareness, existence, service, contribution to life in a way not understood by servitude. Sovereignty engages life as co-creator, as one with, as life and that consciousness become one life. Sovereignty feeds the hunger for true freedom bringing miraculous changes of full expression of potential and maturity that lies within the nature of all life. Sovereignty predisposes consciousness to engage realities beyond the beginnings of possibility to reach new orders of life that hold in the balance the First Principle of life.

This new threshold for many will bring about changes that will re-order your society, your governments, your relationship with nature and each other, and, in time, the rest of your universe. Sovereignty expresses the freedom of being and only this state of consciousness truly accords that freedom to the rest of life. This opportunity reveals the truth of oneness and connectedness. Examination of life, then, becomes potentially complete for one consciousness engages another in such freedom that it finds no cause to be other than that it chooses. Sovereignty is to be understood, embraced and lived more fully as a progression of consciousness and elevation of the completeness of expression and being.

Achieving individual and collective consciousness

April 27, 2004 A

JANU: Adjacent to this understanding there belongs the parallel rift in the continuum of life, from the norm of your history and memory to the norm of other life realities. Be aware that even this paradigm understanding is but a moment in a larger life, complex in realities and possibilities. This path to understanding and life engagement is but one.

NOETH ATULE: I am, we are Noeth Atule presenting then these arguments for life and living to mount to, to yield to that which is the argument for life itself. This thrust of knowing presents an embrace of life that yields to a wisdom that is both fluid, eternal, and expanding. For today's moment on this journey let us present then that which our brother alludes to: the larger tapestry of life that includes this new paradigm understanding.

The shifts in consciousness by all elements of life, including human, together represent not only a diversity of life but a collective, a composite, a body of life that touches on the fringes of other universes and realities that, for the most part, are unaware of each other in the individual sense. The challenge and the opportunity of the New Paradigm Understanding is to embrace this scope of life, to touch the body with awareness yet maintain individual integrity, function, and purpose. For the human mind to grasp the significance of this relationship is for it to become conscious as a collective creator that is at once the individual consciousnesses of all elements of life and, at the same time, is the body of life. To move with and through life in this way brings about changes in relationships, patterns of destiny, fulfillments of potential and opportunity, a timeless quality to being and relating to all life paths.

How does one then focus upon the investigation? A seemingly inert and lifeless pebble, yet perceive it and understand it, including your daily tasks, as part of a collective of life that has meaning and movement and connection to who you are. The New Paradigm Understanding encourages liberation of the human consciousness to touch life with such intimacy not possible when one's individuality seems more important than all others. When one touches life in this new way, many new paradigms are within your grasp and even the theorized boundaries of your universe cease to be boundaries, for life knows none, you see. Only perception makes such a claim. We will move through these circles of life with growing clarity. We are Noeth Atule.

A summary

May 31, 2004 A

NOETH ATULE: Rich then is this summary of life as modeled through these paradigm understandings and we shall look into that which has been achieved, that which awaits, and the miracle of life, for it is one, you see, to be understood, achieved, appreciated, and lived.

Our summary then begins in the noble quest to further the human consciousness and spirit. This New Paradigm understanding achieves this as humanity awakens through proper guidance into its destiny, into its future, into its potential. We assume from the onset that there will become fertile ground even as the tilling begins. For the tilling has just begun, my brother, through that which has been achieved thus far. For you are discovering that a cosmic perspective and understanding of life is, at the same time, that which embraces your entire universe and others, and also the understanding and realization of your being. They are one and the same for they have the same source, the same nature.

To summarize further then, let us begin by examining the richness of life that is the human experience and that which vitalizes it. Humanity's journey into its sense of individuality has the purpose of bringing into each one's experience a growing appreciation of potential and responsibility and contribution, for as you discover your own contribution, you discover those you have gained from, from the rest of life. To achieve this understanding brings one freedom into the completeness of being. The destiny--the true destiny--of these understandings is the expansion of the true light of the human journey. On your doorstep lies the truth of the reason and purpose of human destiny that transcends all obstacles in your perception, to hope and joy and anticipation of a magnificent future that gains the enrichment of, awareness of and interaction with the diversity of life you are yet unaware of.

The New Paradigm understanding embraces this and supports the opening of channels of connection and embrace with the rest of life. You bring these to you for it is time and you have the capacity and the emerging maturity for these understandings to take root. You have yet to realize fully the significance and reality of the connection between all degrees of understanding of all beings, all cultures, all worlds, all realities. Each serves and benefits from the other. You struggle as a species with disease, famine, warlike behavior, struggles for elusive power and dominion. These are the pursuits of the struggle for isolated survival. The universe is rich with those who are not blinded by such points of view. It is time to break the cycles of repetition and move on. These understandings will bring you into a new vision, a new commitment and an opening of your awareness. Let us proceed then with this path of understanding and open to new vistas beyond that achieved thus far. Welcome, our brother, into new freedom.
