

The New Paradigm

Volume 3

Nov. 1998 through Oct. 2001

Janu is the Gatekeeper to all attunements. In this series, he always introduced the Master Noeth Atule. Thus, Janu's comments are included only if they expand upon the topic of the day.

These attunements are presented chronologically, so that the reader may experience some of what occurred in my development. However, they fall into three categories: general information about the New Paradigm, the Technology of Consciousness Development, and Developing the Vehicles of Consciousness. The last two were frequently more in the nature of a "guided meditation," assisting my development for understanding and presenting the New Paradigm, rather than laying out the New Paradigm per se. This listing groups the attunements by category, for ease of locating what may be of interest to you, or following the progression of development in your own journeys.

| | |
|---|-------------------|
| A new and unified life | Nov. 30, 1998A |
| Experiencing the genius of life | Dec. 31, 1998 A |
| The Genius of Life | Jan, 29, 1999 B |
| The many paths of movement each will take into the next phase of life | March 1, 1999 A |
| The assimilation of the elements of life into the collective of life | March 31, 1999 A |
| Removing the cobwebs | May 3, 1999 A |
| The evolution of humanity in the next life wave | May 31, 1999 A |
| A new attitude and a new life | April 3, 2000 B |
| Preparation of humanity for many opportunities that are coming | May 4, 2000 A |
| Understanding time | March 5, 2001 B |
| The changing Orders of Life | April 4, 2001 B |
| An unlimited model of understanding | August 24, 2001 B |
| The Technology of Consciousness Development: | |
| Engaging the seed thought that frees you from crystallized human models of perception | July 1, 1999 A |
| The "Element of Reprise" | August 1, 1999 A |
| The Science of Consciousness continues with the realm known as the Penundra Argo-centric community | Sept. 1, 1999 A |
| Layered or delayed revelation | October 1, 1999 A |

| | |
|---|--------------------|
| The "End Times" | November 2, 1999 B |
| A Masters' Movement | Dec. 1, 1999 A |
| The Great Council announces the arrival of the new life wave of potential as of September of this year | February 2, 2000 A |
| Developing the vehicles of consciousness: | |
| The New Paradigm: its purpose and developing the vehicles to engage it | Mar. 6, 2000 B |
| Developing the auric vehicles | June 13, 2000 A |
| Continuing to develop the birthing of the next auric field | July 29, 2000 A |
| Pulsing the subtle bodies with light entering the crown chakra to quicken them | August 31, 2000 A |
| Merging the past, present and future purposes of our existence | Nov. 2, 2000 B |
| Activating the New Paradigm reality wave into the world | Dec. 5, 2000 C |
| Understanding the benchmarks or standards set forth during the progression of life | January 2, 2001 B |
| Conditioning the vehicles with specific colored lights | February 6, 2001 B |
| Transforming our vehicles to conform to the new life wave | July 19, 2001 A |

A new and unified life

November 30, 1998A

NOETH ATULE: We continue, then, with our series of communications and would bring to you at this time the understanding of the reality called new life by our brother that lies immediately in your path. What is "new life," then, but that which brings forth a measure of the innate completeness or fullness of the reality of the one life and its elements. You are, as long as you choose to perceive your being, an element of the one life. In time, you will move in the direction of, through maturity and awakening of consciousness, identifying with being as the one life. For even as your world's faiths or religions identify with their differences, there is a subtle and nebulous understanding that a reality exists in which they all have their being. So it is with individualized consciousness. The movement into "new life" of which we speak refers to that which is common to all of the elements of life. The new paradigm, as you have termed it, is this reality. The elements of our discourses lead to that ultimate conclusion and reality.

The new paradigm is a unified life that honors and cherishes all of its elements. This is the theme for all we convey at this time. In the "new life" your differences are seen as strengths, not as belonging to some other element of life or being. When elements of life unite in this reality there are no deficiencies to describe differences in worth, one element to another. Your brothers in the larger understandings of the reality of which we speak appreciate all of you and welcome you to appreciate them in the same way. Their strengths are yours. Their genius is yours. Their capacity for love and acceptance is yours.

Through this awakening into a more unified reality, will you find the completeness that is expressed by the collective oneness of all that is. Freedom, in the largest sense, cannot exist in your experience without this, for freedom, dear one, is the freedom to be all that you are. And all that you are is all that life is. When you allow another, in truth, in light, in love, to be in your heart and you in theirs, you begin to experience this freedom.

Experiencing the genius of life

December 31, 1998 A

JANU: It is our understanding that our brother will come this day at this time with a new focus or element of understanding, triggering many awakenings into what is to come. The hope of new life that springs from the heart of so many will be answered in the times to come. For many, life has become stale and without hope and without vitality, and their creative genius lies dormant and seeks once more to engage the movement of life in a fuller way. Each one must come to realize that they, too, possess the genius to create.

NOETH ATULE: I am Noeth Atule, greeting you once more in this way of communication, giving you a glimpse of what we have referred to in our last communication, that being the new life experience of true freedom through emergence into the reality of life that embraces itself across its spectrum, its realities. To journey, as you put it, in this way is a freedom and completeness in engagement of life, which includes you, dear one, that cannot be achieved without it. We would have you understand at this time that to engage life in this way forever changes your perspective of who you are. No longer is it sufficient to perceive yourself as a thing apart, a piece of life. You realize and experience and journey as the life that you engage, that you discover, that you recover in your memory and in your being.

We will journey this way for some time this day with you, bringing into your clarity of understanding the intimacy of life and the illusion of the separation of distance and form. The New Paradigm, as you have called it, is this new life reality. The genius of which our brother has spoken this morning is the genius of life itself. Not genius that elevates or separates you one from another with awe, admiration and all the other human tendencies, but the genius that finds its reality in the universal university of life. True genius, our brother, is the embrace of the wisdom and the intelligence that exists throughout all life, not separate from any part of it. True genius finds its foundation in life awakened to itself. As you experience, accept, and embrace that all you seek to discover is truly you in this way, the limitations, as you describe them, of individuality will pass away.

The new model we develop through these discourses for the new life is built upon this understanding. One can begin to experience the truth of this on any scale for, as we have said, the genius of life exists in every element of it. Can you find it within your capacity and openness to embrace a new truth, to discover and embrace the genius of a stone or a tree or a bird or a comet or the air you breathe? The rest of life can be embraced through the genius of any of these. Even individuality has its genius and its connection to this universal field of creativity.

Observe with clarity and simplicity the influence placed, the result inspired with another, when you honor and acknowledge their genius. Be about liberating life in this way. Honor the new life, the genius that you are, which is all of life. Do you not accept that the creator of this universe possesses genius? You are its genius. Be one with it and, through this, you appreciate and are one with its genius in whatever captures your interest.

Now genius, dear one, finds an infinite variety of expressions. Let not the diversity cloud your perception from the genius behind it, for there is no creation without it. You are experiencing, at this moment, the transcending of the limitations of individuality and gaining the experience that the appreciation of life in this way unites you and eliminates all barriers.

The Genius of Life

January 29, 1999 B

NOETH ATULE: I am, we are, Noeth Atule, shining the light of truth once more into and upon this opportunity for what some would call Divine Expression, and we may as well. The expression for this opportunity at this time comes dear to us for it embraces and magnifies the genius of your life and your light. What we offer at this time is the truth, the reality, and the embrace of the true Family of Light of which you and we are all a part.

Now then, what does this mean, our brother? In the view of what is to come, which is the purpose for these discussions, the grand importance of this understanding and reality is that all you do, all you are, and all that you are realizing, benefits all of life. This is of grand importance, for it lends and extends meaning and purpose to every moment of your existence. It empowers and invigorates and awakens those who find little grand purpose for their existence. We will journey today in this direction of understanding and embrace of the reality of this larger family of life.

You are experiencing, and will extend your experience (of), the intimacy of love, the genius, the infinite variety and diversity of this family. The Family of Life, dear one, is not limited to individualized entities who sojourn such as humanity. It includes worlds, galaxies, the dimensions of life, the so-called hierarchies, the invisible ones, the formless ones, the archetypes of life, the builders and planners, and life itself that is embodied in all of creation. Now, this sounds grand and lofty but make no mistake, our brother, this includes your neighbor and the insect at your feet and the wind in your face. Extend the reach of your comprehension and acceptance of the meaning of family. As you expand beyond the limitations of human identity, you allow yourself the freedom to be one with a member of the Family of Life that knows no such identity. The intimacy of the embrace across all creation awakens the full potential, the full memory, the full capacity of your nature.

This is not accomplished, dear one, for you alone. As you achieve this in truth, you enhance this opportunity across the spectrum of life. Achieve this so completely and so universally that your beingness becomes magnified with the diversity of the genius of life. Engaging these perspectives, these realities, frees you to embrace life completely. Meeting life on common ground, in this way, eliminates all contrived barriers to direct knowing. You will enjoy life's vast richness that extends past the imaginings of those who stand alone in their lives. This is an important part of what lies ahead in the new wave of life. The journey of separation is over.

As you experience a growing number of contact opportunities with the genius of many, this stands as testimony to your growing embrace of the Family of Life. You are being welcomed in a relationship with life true to that of which we address at this time. Be steady in the direction you have chosen.

The many paths of movement each will take into the next phase of life March 1, 1999 A NOETH ATULE: We join you this afternoon in your time to commence with a discourse or presentation on the subject we have visited so often, that being the enhancement of understanding through consciousness awakening for those who will embrace the next level of life on your doorstep. Today we will discuss the nature of this new level that awaits you.

There comes a time when all life moves forward, if you will, en masse. There are what appear to be individual exceptions although, in the larger view of life, they are integrated into life's movement. Many have asked if all progress simultaneously during these changes. We would have you understand this: the movement forward in the journey of life does not present itself identically for all species and all individuals within that chain. So those with a narrower view would say that some are left behind while others move forward. This is not the case. The movement forward appears differently through choice and preparation by those who embrace them. By "them" we mean the many paths of movement. Some will seem to disappear from your view, and you from theirs. Some will reappear to you, as you achieve their new station in life, and they achieve yours. The structure of life is vast and complex enough to allow for unlimited possibilities in these changes. Even so, there is order and tradition, yes, and even new venues of opportunity being created in an ongoing way.

Now, how does this speak to current attitudes and perceptions and the interest and desires of those wishing to embrace change? Understand this clearly, that all of these opportunities are correlated to the awakenings, the activations of, and refinements of elements of your being and consciousness in order to engage the changes of choice. This is not an external journey, although there are external counterpoints. To attempt to engage new life experience without the necessary elements of consciousness and activation of elements of being that are your nature, you would not even perceive them. Witness your lack of perception at this time, for these opportunities for change have always existed.

So, the New Paradigm understanding that is being presented over these months and years is an introduction to reconfiguring your perceptions of life and reconfiguring the arrangements of your consciousness and true nature to prepare you for what lies before you. Now, as we have presented before, understand that this is not accomplished in a vacuum, so to speak. This is accomplished as an integrated part of larger life, the larger you and the larger family of life, as well as the creation or universe through which we gain experience. And, yes, universes and beyond.

It is time, dear brothers and sisters, to shake off, so to speak, the sloth of long endured patterns of life and awaken from the slumber, by comparison, into new adventure. The human experience, the sense of individuality and separateness, the struggle for survival and power, the constant reaching for identity and purpose, must no longer describe your self-awareness and self-perception, your relationship with life no longer being limited to these. Even humanity itself will be redefined, no longer seen for what it examples in your day. The new adventures are characterized by cooperation, intimacy of awareness and concern for all, a collective identity, history, and tradition being developed. The creation of technology and other understandings motivated by a desire to develop humanity, the human experience, not personal wealth and power over others. Everything will change in the new millennium.

The seeds for this have already been sown and we are sowing them today through you and in you. The New Paradigm understanding builds a foundation for a new role for humanity that serves the evolution of the interests of the collective spirit that embodies it. Humanity's journey through life is directly connected to so much more of life than it is currently aware, and that will change as well, in terms of its awareness. We of the Brotherhoods of Light announce these things to be heard and known.

The assimilation of the elements of life into the collective of life

March 31, 1999 A

NOETH ATULE: We are acknowledging the conditioning of that which you present, being your consciousness constructs and vehicles of expression in such manner as to make possible not only the pattern alignment of that which I am but those who accompany me at this time. Realize that these identifications of individuality are for your common reference and do not necessarily describe the completeness of our relationship as a body of life.

Now then, let us proceed as we may with this series of understandings. And it is time in this progression to embark upon a new level of understanding that being the assimilation of life elements into the collective of life itself. Now then, by this we mean that a characteristic or element of the journey you are embarking upon is an awareness of the assimilation or integration of you and your contribution to life, woven into the fabric of life as a conscious addition to its synergistic whole or reality. Humanity in its current stage of awareness does not fully understand or experience the full nature of life. The sense of individuality and uniqueness still dominates the identity, the decision making, the thought processes, the emotions, and conclusions.

All in the body of life are nurtured by, and nurture, the rest of life. It is even so that, should you choose to do so, you can elevate your awareness of and refine your nurturing gifts to every element of life. You are at once the body of life and the unique gift you are to its being. Your existence and ongoingness is a function of the rest of life, and conversely so. The assimilation we referred to a moment ago speaks to this process of returning to a more complete relationship in understanding and in engagement with the body of life. You can, by virtue of the dynamics of this reality, experience the completeness of the universe and through this realize that you are consciously, intimately connected and involved with every part of it. It is time, on this path of paradigm understanding, to experience and include in your understanding the true nature of life.

We are more one than you know. Any perception of hesitancy or caution in demonstrating this to you is a function of your level of awareness of being one with the body of life and life's awareness of your capacity at the moment to experience it. The new paradigm, the new life wave of potential, will bring those of humanity who can embrace it into an awareness of and engagement of the body of life in this way of understanding. Service, then, means continuing life, enriching life, and being life. Those who open to this living reality will welcome the experience as they are prepared to leave behind any need to advantage themselves, from their limited perception, over their comrades or any other part of life. In this larger reality of life, these become disadvantages, dear one. They lock you into the egocentric path of individual survival and ongoingness. When your strength becomes the strength of all of life, you understand that the strength of others is yours, and yours is theirs, by the nature of life itself.

The new paradigm of understanding is true freedom gained by supporting and enriching all of life, including your neighbor, dear one. Not in the illusions of separation and false advantage, but in the truth of their being. One must see life with new eyes, a new heart, and new understandings. There are many other beings throughout the universe who are themselves reaching for this understanding. And as you manifest and enrich life with it, you increase their opportunity for similar experience. Now you see the synergism of life in operation.

Please continue to proceed with what has begun. Our lives, our existence, our service to life is enriched by this process. We continue in this way of understanding, and are, and remain, the Enlightened Ones of Andromeda.

Removing the cobwebs

May 3, 1999 A

NOETH ATULE: The collective of humanity, and by that we mean humanity's collective consciousness and experience, must, shall we say, succumb to the urgings of the spirit within to shake off old patterns that become cobwebs, clouding the vision into new opportunities. These cobwebs no longer serve the movement of humanity. Old patterns behave in this way and it is time to clean house, so to speak.

This day, we will converse in the area of understanding we would describe as the relaxation of your hold upon a way of living and thinking and feeling that has become the cobweb of your place in life's journey. These patterns have a stickiness, like a cobweb, that hold you and bind you. Once this stickiness served to retain the patterns of your understanding for the purpose of full exploration of life within their parameters. The new frontiers of life engagement are not retained by that cobweb of old or previous concepts. All that is retained is you. So, you become stuck in the cobweb of patterns of life that have run their course and the spirit desires to move on.

Now then, what of this relaxing of this hold on you? This is accomplished through the assimilation of the arguments that have been put in place by you as your larger being to engage this portion of living you have enjoyed for so long. To assimilate these arguments, the true nature must provide for you an environment of release. It is imperative that you open dialogue with, and we are not limiting this to vocabulary, but dialogues of the longings of the heart and the love of life with your true nature, that these arguments for living be absorbed by their creator. This you do not do alone, dear one, but in concert with the authority for these arguments. It is the divine within you that is the source of being for you, on your threshold of being.

Now, some might confuse the so-called veil of forgetfulness with these cobwebs. This is not so. The veil of forgetfulness is one of the arguments put in place by your true nature. Or should we say, an aspect of it. Remember that always is presented the team approach to living, the collective, the we, and when we speak of your true nature, we speak of it in this way of understanding. It is a collective. It is a "we". And it functions in concert with all of its elements, your human identity being one. Many look for a magic formula or technique to accomplish their desire. The magic in this transition experience is the purity of the desire, in your attention, your thoughts and feelings, to be free to participate in and serve life in a new and larger way.

To the unawakened, this would suggest a leaving of one reality for another. But to the awakened it is the desire to expand their awareness, not to depart from a part of life, but to include more of it. We of the Andromedan understanding move in this way, through life. Your existence and journey is part of ours, and now part of yours. We welcome the addition of the brotherhood of humanity, the human experience, in this larger way.

The evolution of humanity in the next life wave

May 31, 1999 A

NOETH ATULE: For this morning's journey, we will take you on an excursion into the future potential of life as embodied in this new wave reality. Here is what is in store for humanity and others as this unfolds.

There will be a growing evolution in the direction of consciousness development, to include direct contact with many more realities of existence than you are currently aware of. This will become, for you, a life reality even more intimate to you than your current three dimensional experience. It is imperative that you open to new models of life behavior and involvement that embrace an affinity for connecting with and interacting with many other life realities. This includes beings, worlds, lifeforms without form as you perceive it, energetic realities, and the creative forces of life. You will, in fact, move into universal beingness and leave behind the smaller points of reference that have shaped your experience thus far.

In addition to this, you will learn new language. There is a universal language that communicates between worlds and star systems and, to a degree, across dimensions. This is not the language of your common speech. It is the language of thought and energetic patterns, combinations of which produce communication by the medium of light. Now, light must be understood as a reality that extends far beyond your optical relationship with it. You must begin embracing the light reality of your own being, your own thoughts, feelings, and touch life, including each other, in this larger way, developing not only the ability to transmit understanding in this way but to receive it as well.

You are a Light being and always have been. The illusion you live must give way to this truth. There are many worlds and beings who have lived this way since before the arrival of humanity and there are many yet to achieve the human experience. The adventure, in many ways, for humanity has just begun. This is complicated for many to relate to for they still identify as the human journey and not the Light beings they truly are. You may ask: What is the importance of the human journey, when your Light reality transcends it? The importance is that it brings into focus the full spectrum of creation as the manifested destiny of the realization of the source of life.

This new paradigm series encourages this union of realities to bring about the continuation of the movement of life. There will be developed in this new life wave the exploration of your universe and eventually others with and without technology. The material approach to embracing life will continue to serve its purpose but will be seen as a component of a larger technology which includes a more complete development of consciousness and the revealing of its universal involvement in contacting all of life. The understanding of technology will expand far beyond current perception, where it is separated from non-material realities at this time.

Engaging the seed thought that frees you from crystallized human models of perception

July 1, 1999 A

NOETH ATULE: Now then, for this morning's focus we will enhance our introduction of our last encounter, that being the development of the technology of consciousness as pertains to the human experience. We challenge the current make up of human consciousness into the decrystallization of long standing patterns of configuration that have held the human journey to the physical world. It is time to change and change we and you must. Let us get started then on this journey.

We will perform an exercise together at this time to shake loose fixed concepts and restrictive patterns. Travel now to the heart of your being as a human being and begin the process of destabilization of these crystallizations. This is accomplished by letting go of dominant human physical survival patterns. It will no longer be satisfying to find comfort in human survival to the exclusion of the larger truth of not only who you are but of the nature of the rest of life. Now, we are not contemplating the extinction of the human reference but relaxing its grip as a reference for all you survey and experience.

There is in existence within the human nature a seed thought, best described as such, that may be revisited and become your conscious thought. This seed thought remembers the pattern of existence that transcends the human one. Allow yourself, at this time, to enter into a thought that brings you a greater sense of completeness, integrity, ongoingness, and connection with all of life. Do this as we speak.

You're beginning to perceive the crystalline structures that have anchored your consciousness into the human drama. You begin to experience the fluidity of your nature and its changeable configuration beyond the limits of the physical envelope, you see. These revelations and activations of your true nature will allow for engagements of new possibilities in the next life wave for adventure and discovery. Continuing the process, you find now that your awareness of thought expansion is becoming freer, no longer bound to thought conventions of the human journey. You can touch more of life with awareness.

This kernel of thought, of seed thought, has been with you always. You will migrate from the perspective of the human observer of life to that of a universal presence observing the human journey and many others. As you can see, even the centering in the physical for your journeys is subject to a new perspective, a change.

The "Element of Reprise"

August 1, 1999 A

JANU: Yes, good afternoon, my brother. I am Janu speaking and we have before us once more the eloquence of our beloved brother, the Master Noeth Atule. His wise counsel will prepare you for further adventures even beyond this current focus, you see. These beginning steps in consciousness movement and development are the building blocks so essential in a life of freedom and expansion.

NOETH ATULE: We would counsel you this day on this beginning phase of what has been termed the development of the technology of consciousness, in such a way as to bring about a completion of this journey in suitable preparation for that which lies before you, or ahead.

Now then, returning to the current topic for development, the seed thought within the being introduced during our last encounter and its almost miraculous ability to restructure or reorganize the patterns of your consciousness into the fuller dimension of your existence. Let us proceed further then in this direction and embrace another level or aspect of this seed thought.

For today's encounter we will examine and employ that element which has the authority to revitalize or recharge your consciousness or your bodies into more vital relationship that can communicate on a more energetic level than is required by an isolated human point of view. Let us now then embrace this element and we shall call it the "element of reprise."

As we journey in this direction you have begun already to notice the reorganization and revitalization of your vehicles of consciousness. Now comes the miracle of the Breath of Life, revitalizing your more universal beingness.

You are correct. What you are experiencing is the re-establishment of your frame of reference, your identity as a spiritual being, for this seed thought in the core of your being is so constructed by your True Nature as a reference for your human journey as to communicate into your human life the manifestation of the qualities and the authority of your True Nature. Allow this to proceed for a few moments and we shall observe.

(extended pause)

That is correct. Allow the transformation of your human life into that of your eternal life. Nothing lost, everything gained. This all transpires solely by the authority of your True Nature, as decreed by the Creator of life.

(extended pause)

In your zeal to proceed, do not let go of your human connection, for your service to life still remains connected with it. Leaving the physical body is not the challenge or the opportunity for you. It is full consciousness while in the physical body that is the victory.

(extended pause)

This first phase of transformation has reached a plateau of stability and we will pause at this time and continue at our next opportunity. Thank you, our brother, once more for continuing that which will serve many in times to come. We are Noeth Atule.

The Science of Consciousness continues with the realm known as the Penundra Argo-centric community

Sept. 1, 1999 A

JANU: Yes, good morning, my brother. I am Janu speaking. We have before us this morning that presenter of your knowing, the Master Noeth Atule. He brings to you this morning an adventure in understanding that pertains to this current phase called "Developing the Technology of Consciousness," and, yes, could be called "the Science of Consciousness."

Our adventure this morning shall include a journey to an area of life that knows of that which this series brings to the consciousness of humanity. We go now to our dear brother and that of his understanding for this time.

NOETH ATULE: Yes, greetings, brother. I am Master Noeth Atule, greeting you this day with a journey as announced by our brother Janu, an excursion into the realm known as Penundra Argo-centric Community. This name has been fashioned out of the adventures of this community for the purpose of reminder of their tradition of life.

Now, the reason for this journey is to establish a route, a reference, for resolution of any confusion or uncertainties that may persist as your adventure into the new life wave of potential continues. These beings have embraced such change with consciousness well adapted to embracing it effectively and fully. Let us now journey, as has been prepared, to this area of life and establish this link within your being for reference. We proceed at this time.

(extended pause)

As you can experience, the preparation of the last two journeys makes this possible, that being the decrystallization of the human experience through the seed thought in your being and the revitalization of the vehicles of expression, meaning your subtle bodies.

We have arrived in this sector. We will now conform to their protocol of life which includes reforming to their pattern of communication. This we accomplish by assuming a posture of equality in our true natures. And with this we do agree. As you are understanding, their perception of the self-perception of others of non-equality precludes any communication by virtue of no common ground, you see. Now then, let us be one. They are amazed at the heart of a human with such affinity for oneness survives in a vehicle of isolation and perceptions of inequality. They do remember shadows of this in their past but it is almost myth and legend. They do offer their service as reference for your movement into true equality as life changes for humanity, for in your human reference to spirit is not divinity equal unto itself and abides as the essential nature in all life?

So now you have learned and experienced another element, as demonstrated by these, of the seed thought in the true nature of your being we shall call "equality." With gratitude, we bid farewell to our new friends, holding them in the beauty and the freedom of equality and return to our former moment of reality.

Layered or delayed revelation

October 1, 1999 A

NOETH ATULE: At this time, we will proceed with movement in the direction of layered, or what some would call "delayed," revelation as a program in the nature of consciousness. And by this we mean the underlying order or structure imposed upon the journeyer, the discoverer of the truth of life, by the members of those who journey with similar interest. Consciousness then being understood as having structure imposed for purpose to regulate certain factors such as intimacy of involvement, ordered progression of revelation, non-interference with the order of another's discovery journey, and an interface for collective benefit and assimilation by the system of life itself.

These layerings are defined by various momentums of understanding and assimilation by the beingness of the journeyer, you see. The layerings are well-defined and are subject to interpretation by the council of those who oversee such. What this means to you, brother, is that your awakening process has order, purpose, and serves life. The science of consciousness compels this understanding of layered awakening. In this way of development, the journeyer progresses, in some ways empirically and, at the same time, collectively, without collapsing the order of life. This is all by agreement and ordained long ago. And your progression, in the hands of those who have agreed to assist you, exists within this reality. Learn of its structure, its order, and the evolution of consciousness that it affords. We speak to you now, no longer as the neophyte full of wide eyes and wonder, but more as one growing in responsibility and concern for the movements of life.

We will proceed at our next opportunity with this foundation of understanding and you will grow to understand its wisdom.

The "End Times"

November 2, 1999 B

NOETH ATULE: Let us proceed with today's exercise in the manner of coming together through these measures taken in the technology of consciousness. The group revealed at a previous meeting demonstrated success at achieving the transformation from one paradigm to another with clear benefits. This we endeavor to achieve through these discourses for humanity. Today's focus will remain on the subject and move now into that which might be called the "endtimes."

This concept challenges the finite mind of duality for it perceives finality in this transition phase of the awakening of humanity. The "endtimes," then, speak of, in this context, the letting go of or transformation of perceptions of reality to such a degree of completeness that it no longer appears as an evolutionary process but a quantum leap that feels like the end of life. And it is, dear one, from one point of view. To move into this new paradigm of life, this new wave of potential, it is natural for this experience to transpire. One might acclimate to this change by focussing upon the change as a continuation reality experience, bridging the transformation from previous understandings of reality to the new ones, you see. The "end of times" is what is meant by this, is what this means.

There are those who grow weary at the apparent strain and struggle to understand life in motion, the unsettled nature of the unfoldment of their existence. This is brought about by lingering unduly in that which lies before the implementation of change. Change as a focus for your existence, on all levels, is a revitalizing, recuperative, regenerative component of life. Its nature, at its core reality, is to bring that needed to life's forward motion that it become possible, you see. So the "end of days," "the endtimes," really means the beginning of change.

The technology of consciousness exploration is far from complete without this understanding. This recurring theme in our presentations and your journeys with us will acclimate you to moving your life in this way. These preparatory steps of core memory recall, decrystallization of human identification, revitalization of the subtle vehicles, is preparation for change, the "endtimes."

A Masters' Movement

December 1, 1999 A

JANU: I am Janu speaking, beginning this contribution to this series, the New Paradigm. The Master Noeth Atule concedes that there will be, in time, a masters' movement to a new threshold of understanding decreed by the givers of life's patterns for redemption of all journeys. This masters' movement will be described by a hierarchical shift in the coming decade, focused around a lunar event for your world. This movement describes the next chain of events for entrance into the domain of the new paradigm and the next wave of potential.

NOETH ATULE: I am Noeth Atule, speaking at this time, welcoming you to this encounter, preparing for that which is to come in the next millennium. These are auspicious times from your perspective and those of many others in other realities. The unfoldment of a new epoch in the forward movement of life is not revealed uniformly across the universe but matches the capabilities of those it touches. For many it will be unnoticed, for others a journey of surprise and delight, and for others long expected and prepared for. The end times of which we spoke during our last sitting was described in such a way as to prepare those in your area of the universe for the experience that reflects the collective consciousness of humanity at this time.

We of this Council of Light beseech humanity to bring about an awareness of that which is to come. In some ways the arrival has already begun but much is yet in store to begin. Many speak of the coming new age, yet understand so little of what this truly means. We, of the Andromedan understanding, have patterns of memory and knowingness that embrace these changes. Therefore we speak with some authority in our preparatory presentation.

The technology of consciousness understanding compels movement in this direction, for it precedes an altering biologically, genetically, energetically, and the patterns that govern embodiment so completely that in some ways you are recreated in the likeness and the image of the life to come. What then will you appear as, in this new vista of life? The Masters understand that this transition is not determined by willful change of the individual but by the quality of your consciousness, being so prepared that it can resonate with this new life. Such is the reason for these discourses. Life does have texture and pattern and form and movement. The currents you generate on your journeys are by no means random and without purpose. They are shaping your consciousness in a new way. You are shaped by your relationship with life, your choices and involvement on all levels, and you can cast a vision for this new shaping and your new beingness and your new life. Command that it be so and it shall be. This is the movement of masters of which our brother has spoken.

A transformation of self to engage life on a new level

January 14, 2000 A

NOETH ATULE: In a comfortable way of exchange, we shall proceed as has been suggested into a new level of understanding for this series. What we will be engaging at this time is a plateau of understanding and experience that embraces the idea and reality of engaging more intimately, and therefore more successfully and completely, those who embody life and the creations of life and ultimately life itself. There are many new thresholds for achievements in relationships with life yet to be discovered and experienced by the human journey. This, in a way, is a transformational experience, each one. For what is transformed is your awakening and your consciousness and your relationship with life.

For this morning's journey, exercise if you will, we will embark upon an experiment of this nature and, as a metaphor for understanding, it will be as engaging a higher gear in your vehicles of transportation. Whole new possibilities, you see. Whole new realities of acceleration and relationship.

Now then, let us proceed. We will engage at this time a level of preparation that has been made within the integrity of my being for your introduction. You'll understand then the advancement and evolution of the human experience is not limited to understanding but for transformation to be included as well. For the transformation yields an opportunity for the understanding to manifest and create wisdom in your being. What is transpiring in this moment is the transformation of the shell of your being to allow the passage, the absorption, and the transmission of other frequencies of life, other realities.

(Extended pause)

Yes, brother, your understanding of this will continue to expand and you have become connected in a new way to this flow of life. We will speak of this matter at another sitting and continue the process. Until then, hold this transformation in trust, inviolate, until we continue.

The Great Council announces the arrival of the new life wave of potential as September of this year

February 2, 2000 A

JANU: This New Paradigm series will extend into the future as described some time ago and is being adjusted to the ever-changing climate of consciousness of humanity and its environment.

NOETH ATULE: From this Great Council, we would and shall proceed with the announcement that there will be coming soon to your world that which depends upon your climate of acceptance and assimilation to proceed with the next orders of life for your world, you see. That which is coming beckons to you to prepare in the name of the Great Council. This movement of life will be in your midst come September of this year. 'Tis a short time when considering this scope of changes that are in store. We of this Council of Light have summoned you at this time to begin with this understanding. Let there be no negativity of fear to impede your comprehension.

Now then, as to the matter at hand, let us begin the description of that which is coming. We shall begin with the receptors in your vehicles that will trigger awareness of these energies, these energetic patterns, for they will touch you in such a way as to bring about a fourfold increase in the awakening of your consciousness to the new realities of life that await you. These receptors, then, exist dimensionally speaking adjacent to the chakra construct of your energetic reality or bodies, if you will. These receptors stand as living proof of your more complete nature as a universal being, for they connect you with the movements of life that begin even at this time to bring about the changes needed.

Let us now visit these receptors and discover their location and sensitivities. We begin now with those located immediately behind, from your reference, the chakra, for they stimulate chakra awakenings or increased activity and you will be relating to these movements of life as an awakened vehicle of consciousness. Never let it be said, then, that from this perspective your true nature will ever be lost. We counsel you in this way that you bring understanding to those who drift away from their own integrity. We now activate these receptors to proceed with the chakra quickening at this time. As you can see, they create their own field around the chakra.

(Extended pause)

You are becoming more firmly established in the flow of enlightened understanding of the expanded reality of life.

(Extended pause)

Thank you, our brother, for this opportunity to demonstrate our understanding.

The New Paradigm: its purpose and developing the vehicles to engage it Mar. 6, 2000 B
NOETH ATULE: We will proceed at this time, grasping as we may a comprehension of that which will be instilled in others as to the purpose of this new understanding. The New Paradigm, then, reflects a new model of understanding that will move through your life wave in the coming months and years. This is the first we have talked of the time frame for this occurrence. We would have you know that the first stages have already arrived and will be noticed by greater numbers. To embark upon a project of this magnitude takes redefining some of your perceptions of living and rearrangement of these. In many cases, there will be the necessity to divest yourself of many empirical understandings, which are no less valid in this lifewave but would limit you in the one to come.

For today's journey, let us embark upon a thought journey of due process of this new lifewave. It will bring about, in due course, a reorganization of your vehicles. The reorganization will accelerate the awakening of the human mind to larger possibilities. The new wave will, as well, provide opportunities of engagement for all forms of life according to their consciousness, nature, and capacities. By this we mean, an entire world can find itself on a new journey. Physicality as such will evolve but for many the change will not be seen as change, for even if time itself changed its meter, who would notice but those who have a reference for perception not centered in that parameter of life. Through these discourses, one will be able to establish a reference of perception not centered in your current lifewave of potential. Therefore, the changes will be noticed and consciously engaged.

How, then, does one establish this new frame of reference. It is accomplished by moving with the nature of your being that is free to do so. The nature of your being that is more than human. Let us then continue this process as we have begun in the last two journeys of the re-organization of your vehicles into a virtually completely different relationship with life forming, as it were, a consciousness construct that will form the basis, with refinement, to engage the opportunity prepared for with these journeys.

In a sense, you are building a second system of vehicles, retaining the original to your dimension, making the transition available at will when needed. We will begin then with an elongation of the Auric Egg leading to a density shift in your vehicle. This finer density makes possible the manipulation of subtler energies or forces for the formulation of that which is needed to engage and initiate the manifestation of a new range of possibilities in the new lifewave potential. Once sufficiently achieved, along with other modifications, you can journey directly into, in advance, this new wave of potential and explore its possibilities.

(Extended pause)

We will leave it at this, at this time, thanking you for the opportunity to proceed.

A new attitude and a new life

April 3, 2000 B

NOETH ATULE: To journey in this way of preparation brings one closer to an approximation of that which is to come. We announce at this time that there will be coming to this Earth of yours a beckoning to those to hear this call and engage their inner resources to bring about a dimensional shift in global thinking and hierarchy of thought.

For today's journey, let us partake of the less apparent teachings to stand upon in the face of this change. A reorganization of your vehicles to accommodate a subtler composite, facilitating these journeys, will be taking place in a widespread fashion around your world. These come at a time when your world, your planet, is also experiencing such changes and they are linked, you see. Today we will touch upon the change needed in your vehicle construction, moving into the next life wave.

First of all, we experience a change in what you would call attitude about the nature of life and its predominant qualities. This modified attitude sees life fundamentally differently with materiality being very transitional and temporary. This new attitude has no fear on issues of longevity and survivability. This new attitude brings about a kinder perspective and a gentleness as to the role of each element of life and carries a vision of the impact each one has on a multitude of life relationships. This attitude cherishes the motion of life and allows one to experience the flavor of it. This attitude opens to the reality that sees future and past as one truth.

The New Paradigm understanding, then, embraces life in a way that leaves behind the trials and tribulations of your current environs of poverty, disease, and mental and emotional aberrations. Embraced fully for the first time in the current human journey will be true spiritual freedom and a symmetry of living. To this end, we serve life.

Preparation of humanity for many opportunities that are coming

May 4, 2000 A

JANU: Let there be, then, pronounced attention placed upon that which comes inspired by the movement of life. We would have you know that there will be coming a series of these discourses that will pronounce the timing of things, events to come, changes to be made. For preparation and involvement in a new wave of life is neither a chance or random occurrence. It is borne of careful planning, the efforts and consciousness of many, and the timing of the many venues of life and their influence to these changes and by them.

NOETH ATULE: For today's discourse we shall include those steps needed for the coming one who will proceed with the announcements described by our brother a moment ago. These steps include preparation in consciousness by those who benefit from this coming, the organization of thought, to some degree the structuring of society. We are speaking of your world and its population at this time. There are other considerations which are not of your world's concern at the moment.

To continue, further steps include the alerting of humanity of other species, you call Kingdoms of Nature, as to humanity's intent and perception of the direction of the movement of life for your world and the marshaling of those in those kingdoms who have the ability to attune to the organization of, the coordination of, the collective consciousness of these kingdoms. Humanity must learn to treat the intelligence of these as a significant component in their future, and by that we mean the future of humanity. Humanity must awaken to the reality that they never were, in their nature, separate from these other kingdoms, for your world moves as a complete reality.

Other steps include serving the Earth in a more deliberate way, to imprint the so-called grids and energetic structures in and around your world with the intent of humanity to be a conscious force for the benefit of your world. There are so many in your vicinity positioned and prepared to be of assistance. We are such but not yet fully in your vicinity, you see. For the timing is not right yet. Our work together with these discourses contributes to a degree to that preparation of closer involvement.

Other steps for humanity to consider will be the preparing of consciousness in your world for future contacts with other intelligent species soon to make their presence known, subject, of course, to these preparations. There is a vast contingency involved in your world at this time of those who are not of your world. They will bring about or facilitate the connection we speak of between human and other world consciousnesses. So many economic and political and social structures in your civilization would shudder should these presences be more direct. The one who comes and justifies these steps has the responsibility of the organization of certain conditions that will bring about, as you would put it, the lifting of the veil, the opening of the eyes of consciousness for your world.

There are so many opportunities on your horizon, one would be confused by their diversity and scope. The New Paradigm then includes this movement for your world. And please understand that all of this leads to the engagement of the realities that await you in the next life wave. There is genius imbedded in every consciousness. The awakening process and these discourses are designed to align genius with harmonious and ethical application, for genius without consciousness of the truth of the oneness of life usually serves only itself, at the expense of others; therefore creating disturbances in the movement of life that impede its collective forward motion.

Developing the auric vehicles

June 13, 2000 A

NOETH ATULE: Now then, let us proceed with that which has been begun during our last communication, the preparation, the developing of those vehicles needed for the transition into the reality of this new understanding. Proceeding then at this time, we shall continue with the development of the Auric Egg which will, in time, demonstrate a series of these configurations one after another, end to end, leading into finer realities. For today's journey, we will proceed to develop the one of your current experience in your world. We will refer to this as the "Root Egg" in these discourses, each one with a marked difference in function and character.

Now then, proceeding as we must, allow your consciousness to envelop your current auric field, bringing about an electrical stimulation on the surface, thus providing stimulation to the subtle vehicles awakening to a new purpose, that being opening a connection relationship with vehicles of the next auric vehicle. For this to come about, one must make these preparations and entertain a larger reality and a more complex existence than previously understood. The counterparts in the second egg, or auric field if you will, of this field is not so constructed as identical to the first. Still, there is a connection.

(Extended pause)

You are correct. It is wise not to get too far ahead of this process, missing that needed for its continuation. The focus of attention at this time is the collective reality of your current auric complex. Uniting your vehicles in this way leads to the quickening of understanding of the living nature and its vitality, of your connection with life as essential for the existence of your experiences.

(Extended pause)

The grid formation that assists this construct will extend some 50 meters in every direction around your vehicle. Now, this perspective of size and position is illusive in the finer realms and becomes irrelevant. Blue and green hues now feed the early stages of this development, leading to oranges and bright red playing their role as well.

We thank you, our brother, for your attention at this time.

Continuing to develop the birthing of the next auric field

July 29, 2000 A

NOETH ATULE: For this morning's continuation and adventure in understanding and engaging the truth of life, may we proceed in the manner of developing those auric fields as we have begun. We will proceed at this time with continuing that established in our last meeting, the energizing of the auric field of your current sojourn and its components.

The electric field, you have mastered it to a degree in surrounding your field, is performing nicely and as you have noted, stimulating the elements of your field in such a way as to bring about a pronounced change in your awareness of them. We will continue to amplify and accelerate this process at this time, leading then to another, a next stage of development on this particular level, that being the birthing of the next auric field.

Now then, with our attention well placed on what is at hand, let us continue by engaging your current field consciously and ever more fully. The electric charge will change hue, intensity, and pattern as needed. Now, as you can see, there is a corresponding charge on each of the chakra, responding to this master field, if you will, master charge. This quickens the column of light at the center of your chakra and will, in due course, awaken what has been called the Kundalini. This process is an awakening of your energetic reality to such a degree that many techniques, the results of which, are mastered at once.

You are correct. This will intensify your ability to scan, with clarity, the entire human journey up to this point. What you are seeing are memory glimpses in the human memory patterns. They are not of your own making but have their existence.

As you can see, the visuals are becoming clearer as you hold to this focus of activity. Your experience becomes the combined faculties of all the chakra as they emerge into full expression. Not everyone is prepared for this experience.

We thank you for your attention at this time, continuing at our next opportunity. We will proceed from this point so your preparation prior to our journeying together is essential. Thank you once again, brother, for your attention.

Pulsing the subtle bodies with light entering the crown chakra to quicken them

August 31, 2000 A

JANU: Now then, as to the preparation for this encounter, let us continue then with that which has been set in motion in the preparation of your auric field with the surrounding electric field, stimulating the archives of memory patterns of commitment and indulgence of the greater mysteries. You will hear a slight tone when the threshold has been achieved to continue this.

NOETH ATULE: Let us proceed, then, this evening at this time to engage a rapid procurement of the refinement needed to gain the nuances of understanding and achievement to electrify, if you will, this course of development.

Now then, proceeding nicely, we will engage at this time the crown chakra of your configuration and open it or awaken it into a more activated state, not just for the awakening and movement of consciousness through it from your perspective, but the allowing of that needed to enter your lower vehicles for this process. We will do so at this time. Let us place our attention there, holding this vortex of life reality in abeyance of other distracting influences until we achieve a pulsing of light gently nudging your energy centers into a more quickened state. We do so now.

You will, in due course, be aware of your subtler vehicles to such a degree that they will present as real to you, as substantial in their reality as your physical vehicle is at this time. Of course, their tone and nature will be quite different. The crown, then, being that center most suited for being the doorway for change or quickening of the other centers.

As you can see, there is the development of a radiant field centered or born of the crown vortex, expanding to envelop, to touch, the rest of the centers. They, in return, each expand their radiance in response, uniting then each one's purpose into a synergism of life that becomes as one light. When completed, your Light Body becomes more complete. This facilitates the thresholds to be achieved as we progress. Practice this often, developing an ease in the management of these flows and their coordination. It is one thing, dear brother, to be instructed in the philosophical understanding of the nature of the New Paradigm. It is quite another to experience the changes needed to engage this philosophy and what it represents. This preparation is a necessary part of the larger purpose here, you see.

Merging the past, present and future purposes of our existence

Nov. 2, 2000 B

NOETH ATULE: I am Master Noeth Atule, as of your understanding, prepared at this time to embark upon a continuation of that which we have set in motion, you and we. That being the coming together of those factions or elements of your being into a more focused arrangement for the conveying the understanding and the implementation of what is being addressed in this series. To continue today with this we would ask you to help bring about within your consciousness a focus of one hand holding another, representing a firm grasp on the exchange of past, present and future purpose of your existence. For the more complete individual is complete in this way and the new paradigm includes this, you see. For completeness does not leave behind that which has been gained, but merges that into the potential to be realized. That is the focus of today's exercise, this merging. Let this symbolism be the focus for the realization of this.

Along with this experience comes a surfacing of the memories of associations as well as the connecting with those who will play a role in the unfolding of the destiny. For an expanded understanding, the New Paradigm reality includes the previous ones, of which there are many, and, combined, they form the perception that is cast upon the waters of the new. We bring about these changes at their correct moment for reasons you have yet to fully appreciate, but will, our brother.

Your destiny in the human octave was never separate from the larger destiny that includes so many of your association, not only of this world but of others as well. We would have you know this, at this time. This merging includes that as well. As you can see, in the unfolding imagery, symbolizing life having one sip, a sweet taste, however, many side effects not indicated by the flavor, you see. Meaning that there is much to consider in these adventures that will bring about the depth, the richness of this merger. You must see life in a larger more inclusive way than the many moments of diverse experience, for in this perspective all is merged for refinement of your true nature.

Activating the New Paradigm reality wave into the world

Dec. 5, 2000 C

NOETH ATULE: We would begin, then, at this session, by including a measure of temperance to that which defines us. By this we mean, the intensity of that which we are and have achieved must of necessity be modified and organized in such a way as to bring about an acclimation on your part to the limits of your capacity to accommodate. This will all become clear in a moment for we shall shine upon you a beacon of light called understanding that will include your path as you have chosen on this particular journey, meaning the New Paradigm understanding.

Now, having made these arrangements as described, we shall proceed at this time to embrace that which has been prepared.

Today's journey is set in that which might be called the refinement of energies and subsequent configurations or patterns, molding then your thought body or mental body as a conveyance into the confines of your vehicles in your dimension, bringing you to an effective conduit activating the New Paradigm reality wave into the consciousness of your world. We would have you know at this time that the Earth consciousness is a suitable vehicle or receptor for this movement. We have assigned, or we should say utilized, a portion of your nature for this conduit activity. It is time, as we would put it, dear one, to begin activating the density of your realm with the seeds of this transition into new understanding for all of humanity and all of Earth life. Embrace, then, with us your natural world, holding as a focus all that it can achieve. The New Paradigm understanding will blossom in due course into a so-called labor of love for all who choose to engage and enjoy it.

Today's activity has been prepared for through these recent opportunities to prepare your vehicles and there is more to be achieved. Please examine, as you will, that which is being accomplished and realize that this path of discovery and service includes more than just understanding but participation. Thank you, our brother, for this opportunity to speak with you and to move with you in life.

Understanding the benchmarks or standards set forth during the progression of life

January 2, 2001 B

NOETH ATULE: The Noeth Atule understanding brings forward a dimension into consciousness that precipitates a long standing awareness of the benchmarks, to use your terminology, of the standards set forth during the process of the progression of life. These standards include the thresholds of reality to be engaged for each current of life. These standards guide your journeying and your experiences to the degree that they present a meaningful compilation of life experience to gain wisdom into that which is to come. The standards progress in numerical order should you choose to perceive it in that way. You are now in the Seventh House of understanding which will begin to include the Eighth and to some degree the Ninth.

What this means to you, my brother, is that there will be changes taking place in the arrangement of the relationships between your vehicles of expression for the human journey. There will be pronounced activity and aggravation of those patterns or disturbances in those structures as you are aware of, meaning the self-destructive patterns of disagreement with the integrity of your being. We shall include a number of these changes for your assimilation and enhanced regulation of your desire for change. You have asked for these in your statement of preparation for this journey. We acknowledge and comply with what has been set in motion.

The transformation process described by these benchmarks in the standards of life's progression mean just that. You are in truth recreating your consciousness, your reality, your identity, your relationship with life on a masterful level, leading to your victory as life itself. Those qualities of being you aspire to seem vague and distant, due to the masking qualities you wish to transform. What becomes clear to you has already existed so, in one sense you are transforming into that which you have already always been, a free being that lives in loving oneness with the movement called Life. This we will see becoming in you as you choose to see it.

Conditioning the vehicles with specific colored lights

February 6, 2001 B

NOETH ATULE: We commence this understanding at this time partaking of the elements of truth that are visited upon you at your request. That which is at hand for this session speaks to the matter of absorbing the elements of life understanding into your consciousness so that your vehicles can align themselves without distress or confusion to the patterns of life of this new life wave, this New Paradigm. There is a recognition pattern for each of your vehicles. They begin with, and range from, a finely focussed or pointed starlight of white light ranging through the colors of green, a light green with a touch of yellow, then blue of deep color, then red with a slight pink hue, then gold with an ochre cast, then white of a clear nature or crystalline, and then black. These comprise the elements needed for these adjustments and the balancing, you see. At first, accomplish one at a time. And then begin enveloping each one established with the next one in order, forming a co-existent reality which is the nature of your vehicles.

Accomplish this at least seven times before our next encounter, the results of which shall be registered in your auric field and unmistakable.

The preciseness of these changes will be repeated during subsequent preparations for the object of this series of understandings. Embrace these elements of change for your vehicles, for they will guarantee the harmony you seek throughout that which is to come.

Understanding time

March 5, 2001 B

NOETH ATULE: For today's awakening we shall include a foray into the journey of time, for understand that time means the ordering of life and we shall acknowledge this order that time refers to. The timing, then, of one's appearance on the different scenes of life begins with the order that is presented for the journeys of life and these shall include the changes that are to come for your benefit. We shall include the flavor of life that is our presence and understanding.

Time is not unique to your realm of life, only your perception of it. Time, then, has its reality in the flow of life and therefore is present in the new paradigm, for time in the larger understanding is the order of life. And where is there not order, dear one? Although its form may not be apparent to all observers, time excels and is majestic as a reality and an understanding for embracing life's movements, including your own. Time casts upon life a vision for outcome for relationships and for synergism. Time is the regulator of life and holds within its reality the keys to understanding purpose and goals and the infinite variables and interplays of the currents of life. Time in other realities is honored as the messenger, the harbinger. It reveals the codes of life and their destiny. Time is a living presence and communicates through all realities and knows no limit or preference. Time is in motion, as is all of life. It is fluid and crystalline, with its many facets of the reality of its presence. Time is the vehicle of order for the imperative of life and, therefore, is the vehicle of purpose as well.

This understanding transcends the limits of your current paradigm and must be embraced for the transition into the next. Time is a wonderful study with much to reveal, for the order of your own existence is testimony to its reality.

The changing Orders of Life

April 4, 2001 B

NOETH ATULE: For today's understanding we shall pursue a continuation of that which has begun, namely the Orders of Life as suggested by the understanding presented on Time itself. The Orders of Life will continue in the New Paradigm but they too will make this change, for the Orders of Life are what are progressing, and they are the points of engagement for the new lifewave of potential. The New Paradigm model was developed to embrace this new wave and all that is inherent in it. This model has been begun as a result of the developments of life that are catalyst for each new wave, you see.

Those who will attend to that which is on your horizon do so clinging to, to some degree, the hope that there will be new life. Their understanding of what "new life" really means in this movement has yet to embrace its true reality, for "new life" means a new sense of identity, a new sense of purpose, a new sense of adventure and promise, and an intimacy with the source of that life. Subliminally for many, the hope of a new life includes that which they cherish or wish were made right in their present journey. These will and must be left behind in their current understanding for the new life is completely new.

To describe this new life is to describe that which has yet to flower. The seeds are there, the arrangements have yet to be realized. This new model of understanding, the New Paradigm, will bring about such enhancements to the delivered intents of consciousness on the part of the journeyer in life that there will seem to be, on each new breath, a rebirthing and the joy for living. I will go further even than this by stating that there will be no desire to return to old ways, for once engagement begins, the old identity ceases to have meaning, which is as it should be for full engagement. How many, then, are ready to make such a change? We shall see.

The development of the New Paradigm model, then, continues with the development of understanding and preparation for a change in identity. One significant change in identity is from that of laborer or traveler in life to that of creator of life, for even life is a creation and you will understand this in the new wave. The essential building blocks of life are a creation and life has the power within its design to re-create itself. This is the magic and beauty of the gift of love from the Source of Life. Now, then, you see, your identity moving from your current estate to that of the creator of life.

The precession of the equinoxes of life

June 25, 2001 A

NOETH ATULE: For today's understanding and journey let us proceed into the reality of what some have called the "Noetic Sciences." There prevails among the stars, meaning universal reality, a common denominator in the movement of life that we shall refer to as "the precession of the equinoxes of life," as common phrase for your current understanding. These so-called "equinoxes of life" are turning points, points of rotation, points of evolution, points of coordination, and points of time adjustments in the larger scheme of life. Their significance at this juncture in our discussions has to do with your prevailing theories of understanding the mechanics of your universe. The balances of movement through your universe are adjusted by these moments of rotation, these so-called equinoxes, and they pattern life in such a way as to bring about an urgency of coordination that continues an overriding theme to this system of life you call your universe.

We would have you understand at this time that there will be a realignment through coordination during this next paradigm or lifewave of potential, as we have described it, that will bring about an evolutionary shift in the quality and character of light, to be announced in further detail at another time. Knowing this will bring about a corresponding coordinated shift in evolution of your thought and consciousness and destiny of life. This understanding will prevail in the months to come, for you will see that the priorities of today will not be the priorities of tomorrow.

Transforming our vehicles to conform to the new life wave

July 19, 2001 A

NOETH ATULE: We have summoned for this meeting those elements of life that will bring forward the climate of understanding, to begin with that needed for the hallmark of this collective understanding. There is forming at this time a construct, you may call a grid, if you choose, that will bring a more complex balance and equilibrium to this attunement process, bringing a number of connecting points for this understanding and the realities of your being. There will be a shift now in the flow of life which will reorganize your consciousness, restructure it. Be patient for a moment.

This restructuring, as you're becoming aware of, forms a pathway, conduit, or tunnel if you will, into the reality that is to come for you. You are experiencing, to a lesser degree, the nature of reconfiguring oneself to move through the realms of life as do those not embodied, you see, although embodiment does not preclude this experience. There is a point at which understanding that which completes the new paradigm message that one in your realm of knowingness must make at least temporary transformations to engage it. Your vehicles are being altered at this time, by your agreement, to refine these connections.

You will achieve, in due course, a focus of connection that will convey, or emanate, this new life wave reality as if a beacon. Not to suggest the only one. This will be a transitional beacon for those preparing for this journey. These qualities are being added at this time. There are many layers of reality that can and must be configured in your beingness corresponding to the growing number of foci of involvement on your journey, the new life wave of potential being but one, bringing many facets to the jewel of your being, all functioning simultaneously. This brings one beyond the confines of a limited human journey into more universal beingness, you see.

Embrace this as a developing paradigm or model of consciousness and beingness and the number of facets are generally without limit, but they are in symmetry, equilibrium, and uniform connectedness, describing a growing consciousness, Light body if you will, but forming a presence, a life presence beyond any of these.

Today's journey is an exercise in realizing that needed to fully access the new life wave, for less will be the exploring or manifesting of one element of this wave and more the manifesting of multiple elements at the same time, with symmetry, balance, bringing into reality, then, what would be described from your current position in life as a new being, a new life. This transformation is what awaits humanity and we see this and it is so.

An unlimited model of understanding

August 24, 2001 B

NOETH ATULE: We would begin this day's exploration into this understanding of that which is to come and assist in the preparation of your world for its future and its destiny, continuing to unfold according to plan that is older than the beginnings of your world. For today's element of understanding, let us proceed by recounting that which pertains to past dilemmas of the human culture, beset upon by the elements of change. This New Paradigm, which we are addressing, this change on an order of magnitude that pales many others, you see, for the change is not incremental but sweeping across the spectrum of human consciousness and must be seen in the light of encounters with other worlds and species, for this brings to the fore of awareness a scope of the diversity of life and the spectrum involved in this new model of understanding.

One of the main challenges for the human embrace of that which is to come is the identification with a limited model of understanding, for all else is attempted to be perceived from that limitation. What is involved, then, in this embrace of a more open and expansive understanding of your True Nature? We would begin by beholding the mystery of life itself and its core reality or principle that liberates all of its expressions. This principle is one of the presence of pure being that creates without effort, that identifies with all of life, including the human journey, but does not see itself as limited to being human, you see. In time, you will understand and perceive life from this perspective: that your true identity is intertwined with all that is. Human beings fear this expansiveness in identity for they fear the loss of that which they hold as their True Nature, although limited, you see. Having a more fluid relationship with life brings to point true identity. The more you realize that all of life is you, the freer you become, one with all of it, and understand all things.

The New Paradigm model, dear one, you see, speaks to this. And yes, this includes who we are and your beloved Janu as well. We are each other and absorb the same breath of life and express it, as well. Attune, then, dear one, to the spectrum of life called the New Paradigm and we will see much more of each other. By definition, you see. We leave you, then, with this understanding, moving in the direction of a larger and fuller Light. Let us be one, grateful for who we are.