Janu served as the gatekeeper to all attunements, but his remarks are only included if they added to an understanding of the topic. The Brotherhood of the One Light provided most of the information. Occasionally, a glyph was indicated as being bogus, incomplete, or inappropriate for this study, and was skipped. A diagram of the skipped glyph is presented, but in much smaller size, if it was mentioned in the journey itself. This will enable the reader to discern the glyph upon which to focus, without losing context. The Table of Contents includes only the focal glyph, which explains the missing numbers.

The patterns should be seen as a portal or key to journey into or through in order to engage the multi-dimensional reality and gain the understanding represented. The reader is encouraged to take his/her own journeys through the glyphs as the experience of a glyph is multi-dimensional and may be different for each individual.

There was a five-year gap in the process of doing these journeys. Thus, confusion resulted in which glyphs had already been addressed. As a result, three were repeated. These serve to illustrate the reality that the 'meaning' of each glyph is not rigid, but can differ with individuals or with the passage of time for one individual. These are presented one after the other, rather than in chronological sequence, to preserve the sequential nature of the patterns presented as well as illustrate this point.

T-151: Unlocking inactive patterns of memory and consciousness

Aug. 16, 2004 C

JANU: What then would you have knowing of in this time of change? That that exists manifested prior to this moment, for therein lies the foundation for building lives in new ways. These glyphs represent humanity's foundation building and represent the substance of your archive.

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: We are saying again that which documents, from our perspective, the collective consciousness of the human journey. These glyphs, when utilized for awakening to that which has already been established, will bring about a very rapid upsurge in the blossoming of humanity. Today's glyph and offering represents a much-needed boost, if you will, much like a flashpoint on this journey of understanding and awakening. Let us examine, then, this pattern.

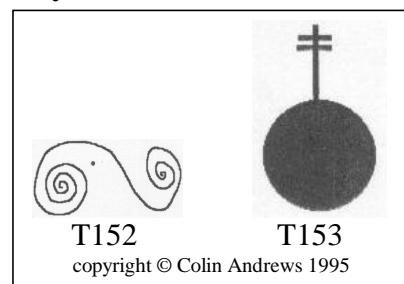

This pattern is much as a clockwork, a grid, facilitator, and a master key, or should we say collective of keys, to unlock or initiate inactive patterns of memory and consciousness. How does one engage, then, what seems like such a complex pattern? It is accomplished through the movement into who you are and have always been. What this means is a willingness to accept the patterns of being and truth that have been inactive, dormant if you prefer. The clockwork and grid references in this pattern refer to the triggering mechanisms of all your innate grid energy pattern called upon by your desire for, and acceptance of, your awakening to these.

Let us reach, then, now, into the full dimensional reality of this glyph and you can sense your energy grid and the keys responding. Let the locks open. Let each portal of light coalesce into the reality that reveals your archive. Your personality, your ego, your wisdom, your capacity for every emotion, level of intimacy with all the venues of life expands. You are so much more than this one sojourn. Once initiated, one can continue to draw on the archive of all you have accomplished. Make that connection when opportunity justifies it and life will have full meaning and purpose.

T-153: a challenge to bequeath to humanity its own destiny

October 18, 2004 A

JANU: Superimposed, then, upon the memory of times when such glyphs spoke directly to the heart and minds of humanity, there was a sound that echoed loudly above the din of human consciousness and this sound pleased those who would hear it, as it began its vigil across time. This is a brief touch upon the history of glyphs. You may well inquire as to its meaning at another time.

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: The first one being a haphazard attempt at undermining the validity of those that bear merit, we shall move to the second of your choosing, 1-5-3, as we proceed.

This glyph represents the surmounting of a challenge to bequeath to humanity its own destiny. The angle of engagement of this pattern as a gateway to your consciousness, for your consciousness, has to do with configuration within this glyph. To begin, then, the dual process point of origin then is within the fields represented by the crossbars on the staff. These fields represent the pressures of duality in your dimension. The staff represents what some call the Kundalini, but it is more than that. Let us adjust then the relationship between the base's sphere, which is your anchor in duality, and the vehicle of consciousness around which the planes of duality ascend. Do so at this time.

(Extended pause)

Transformation occurs when ascending this vehicle of consciousness and the planes of duality extend and become counter-spinning, co-existing orbs of light. And in that moment you are free from the anchor of duality and can perceive your destiny.

T-155: a design platform for human potential

October 29, 2004 A

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: Yes, happy times, then, lie ahead for humanity, our brother. We are the Brotherhood of the One Light, bringing with this opportunity to enlighten humanity as to its own nature and destiny. We bring these to you under the auspices of the Heads of State, so to speak, that dwell in the realms.

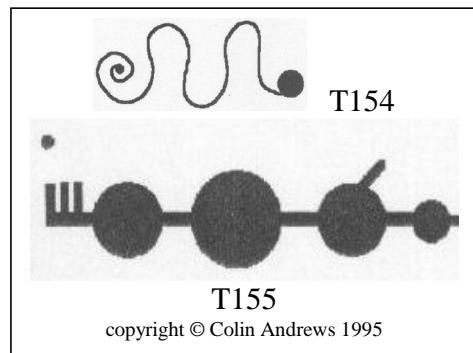

Today's glyph will not be the first alternative, 1-5-4, but the second, 1-5-5. One-five-four's grasp of reality is diminished by the human endeavor to participate in the sequence.

One-five-five, then, reaches into the pocket of human potential as a behind the scenes reality yet to be manifested as the stage is set for such by those in the forefront of which we have explored.

The makeup of this glyph develops the rigorous tendency to formulate plans for the future of humanity. It is a design platform for human potential, up to a certain point. As the foundation is laid through various human achievements that become a catalyst for the activation of this platform. What it affords is an awakening of human creativity with multi-dimensional consciousness and the rewards of responsibility. The next platform after this one will engage humanity in relationships with other worlds and cultures. Let us take a brief glimpse then, as we take a journey through this glyph, of the possibilities for creativity awaiting humanity.

Globally, then, allow and acknowledge the formation of the universe of collective consciousness consisting of human experience and enlightenment. And the Light reveals this platform for creativity. As you can see, you have touched the potential in human consciousness that is the foundation for universal thought, the Oneness Reality of being, humanity's connection with each other and all of its surroundings. And woven throughout is the Breath of Life.

Assimilate this, our brother. Woven throughout your being, a foundation for creativity in service to, in harmony with, all of life. Do you understand, now, that the purpose for engaging life is no longer for the self of the personality, but the self of universal life of which the personality is a part, you see? This is the shift in consciousness of which we speak, and the new human creativity. Enjoy the light, the peace, the understanding, the freedom as we linger with you for a moment.

Editor's Note: The glyphs T156 and T157 are examples of how a glyph can have a different meaning to different individuals or at different times. Seven years had passed between the first exploration of the glyphs and the second.

T-156: the self-governing union of gender within the human vehicle March 18, 2005 A

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: We are aglow with expectancy as this continues to build towards an understanding as to the nature of the human journey, along with its destiny. Each moment of understanding brings with it a new threshold on which to base the next journey into understanding. Today's glyph is such a threshold.

The one you have chosen brings into your reality the notion or understanding that each one, in your humanity, brings with them--an annoyance to some--that which regulates gender-specific issues that perpetuate the gender spread or dichotomy that continues to yield a platform for creation. That say, by example, that "we come to you as bringers of a truth. But this truth is deeply rooted in the philosophy of organic chemistry." But the human condition, the human existence, is much more than that, so the platform of understanding must include the range of gender reality and mutual examination.

In time, as humanity evolves, this range, this gender range platform, will exist consciously within each individual. Therefore, the need for the male and female gender spread will change. This glyph is patterned after the self-governing union of gender within the human vehicle. The confusion of understanding between male and female in your species will give way to it in time. There are those now in your midst who have achieved this.

The effect of engagement of this pattern, this glyph, will cause a shifting in your receptors for inflow and expression. The movement or motion of this pattern is more in the direction of color shifting. One may proportionally attach themselves to this shifting and be made aware of the journey in consciousness from a gender into union, as each color is revealed. Become that.

T-156: Life progression revealed August 29, 2012

THE BROTHERHOOD OF LIGHT: We are the Brotherhood of Light speaking once more on this subject of understanding, the crop circle or glyph phenomenon encountered at this time. This particular anomaly persists in the revelation of the human journey in the area of progressed understanding.

What is meant by this is that human understandings always precede engagement of life's possibilities. The progressed scenarios of which we have spoken before are testimony to this. How then would one engage and act upon a new possibility without a moment of insight, so-called imagination? This process of revelation of life is an automatic process wherever life exists, realizing its potential. Not just humanity, you see, but all of life.

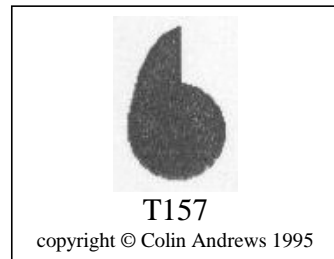

This glyph best represents an opportunity to embrace this reality more fully with an expansion of conscious realization of these potentials for engagement in creation. Less the perception that humanity stumbles through life, bumping into its opportunities and challenges; when seen aright, this process reveals all beginnings, nuances, and changes. Let there be a growing understanding that your next step in life need not be uncertain and full of the unknown. As you place your next step, observe the Light of it and its revelations and the growth within you of a greater confidence to proceed, and wiser choices to realize your goals.

Moment by moment, second by second, life reveals its potential and opportunities to the conscious observer, the co-creator of that life. Why would there be secrets, then, our brother, to serve what end? The future is in the moment. Grasp this concept and make it your own. Witness the truth of your journey.

T-157: Fixed understandings of truth exist in the winds of change

March 24, 2005 A

JANU: Enamored though we may have been with the wonders of life, as revealed on these journeys, let there begin then a study in earnest of that which promulgates what might be called sectarian religion. These glyphs and their revelations speak to an understanding that that which is based not on faith or belief but on innate knowing and firsthand experience.

Today's glyph will spark controversy for it is known that a sense of security in humanity is based upon traditions, whether valid or not. The new order of human consciousness will be quite different. Let us turn our attention to the masters of today's understanding.

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: Today's understanding begins with an understanding that our brother Janu has introduced, being an emerging from what has been a religion in the affairs of civilization to its alternative, a more enlightened, universal, connected, free and loving approach to the Truth of Life and its origins in the moment. This glyph represents such and is the key to this transition. It is patterned in such a way as to bring about a re-ordering of consciousness to stimulate openness with integrity of purpose and quality of understanding. Let us do so by embracing its pattern as a stimulant to this. Please proceed to embrace this glyph's reality.

As you have perceived, even your co-called metaphysical understandings, conveyed in the media of the times, must give way to a larger understanding that is open and free yet understands the origins of what has gone on. In the vast field of universal life, there are countless journeys by many consciousnesses to grapple with the questions of life and have formed structures of thought, faith and belief to suit their ends, their purposes. Life is peppered with these but they exist in the winds of change and ongoingness. They attempt to describe immutable truths that are mutable, for they are in flux as well.

The universal mind is one with universal change. Therefore, the unlimited mind is not one that is united with infinite, fixed truths, but with infinite possibilities and movement, seeing nothing as permanent. Even the face of life is in motion. The greatest wonder and vitality and clarity and understanding is becoming one with life's flow and change and realization.

Temper your physical journey with the freedom of this understanding and you will fulfill your possibilities, moment by moment. Experience this as a real and living presence with each breath.

T-157: The human journey, diversity, focus, and purpose

Oct. 8, 2012

JANU: This pattern represents a continuing look at the nature of life as it concerns human destiny. From the human perspective or point of view, the nature of life is a vague reality having to do with the needs of the day. What this glyph represents, or opens the understanding to, the memory of human purpose as nurtured by the nature of life from many perspectives, not just the needs of the moment, you see. Now, the needs of the moment, as understood from the more profound perspective, are addressed by this reality, this nature of life.

Let us speak to, then, this nature that's appropriate to the moment, on the human journey. The word containment springs to the fore, not in the sense of restriction but in the sense of focus. Human experience, although diverse, needs direction for the diversity, you see. This glyph opens the understanding to a certain reality of the nature of life that brings focus to a journey full of diversity. And that is its gift: diversity of life with direction and purpose.

Understand the analogy of an ocean liner, containing many individual lives, patterns, hopes and dreams, skills, talents, aspirations. All valid, all vital, and all ongoing. Yet they are contained on a vessel, to a voyage of destiny, of focus. All agreed to yet still all individual. This glyph represents this analogy—rephrase: This analogy represents this glyph's message, truth, understanding.

So realize then, those who are open to this, that humanity is a contained reality, full of diversity, individual understanding and truth, on a journey. To be understood when the attention is focused and then the purpose is revealed, for all of the diversity builds a foundation for fulfillment.

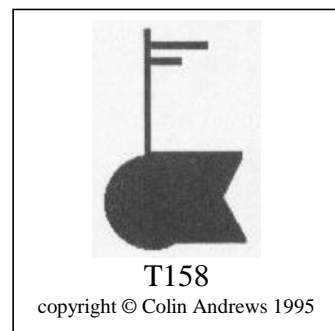

So, as you concern yourselves with the needs of the day, open your minds and your hearts to the voyage of humanity. Focus on its purpose and its service to life.

T-158: the forces of life path and consciousness determination

Mar. 30, 2005 A

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: Hanging then in the balance, by way of this glyph experience, is the nature of humanity poised for change. The direction of change is the pivotal issue and we would have you know that points of this nature are inscribed in a number of these glyphs, being seven in total, yet to come.

Today's glyph reaches into the cavernous understandings of the forces of life path and consciousness determination. Let us move then into this portal, by adopting its spin and its pattern or geometry.

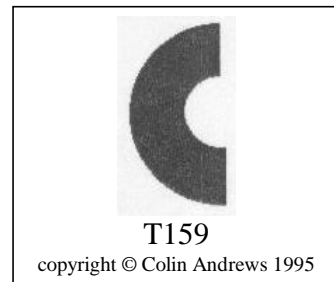

The endocrine system is first to experience this repatterning. Then the cerebral cortex and then the hemispheres. The balance required for such positioning is accomplished through equilibrium of the forces of the bodies and their instinct to align. They become as one theme and collapse to a point, allowing unlimited redirection path. The path is determined by the choice of interest. The choice embraces many dimensions of expression of correlated interest. The collective human entity expresses along a life path embracing the many of the individuals of its collectiveness. One can perceive both and understand the alignments. Yours has been to confess many truths of life for assimilation into the body of the human collective. Reach then deep within the core of this experience to awaken perspective and gain clarity.

As you can see, your journeys beyond the limits of the human collective have prepared you for this and therefore you understand your affinity for that which lies beyond. Be mindful that, at this moment, that affinity needs to include the human journey, for there are far reaching benefits for this endeavor as you will become aware of. Each may awaken to their purpose, if you will, in this manner, and we will assist when this is chosen. Retain this connection as the fulfillment of purpose requires greater clarity through it.

T-159: the nature of life

April 12, 2005 B

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: As to details, then, of this pattern or glyph, as you choose to call it, we would comment on it in this way. There comes before us, from time to time, that which beholds the nature and the presence of that which yields the truth of existence of life some of your species refer to as Creator or God, you see. This comes to us as well, certainly not by the names you choose to use but by basic understanding.

This glyph of today's choosing earmarks such an occasion of understanding into the nature of life, as has been laid down or handed down from the beginnings of the archives of the human journey. We continue with this tradition of understanding that humanity's essential or core path of movement in and through life be understood in such a way as to bring about a divination of essential nature. This nature boasts of many attributes and capabilities that lead the journey to the discovery of and partnership with the range of life that is within the purview of human destiny. We bring about these many understandings through these patterns for the purpose of completion of the awareness of the complete human, meaning nature and achievements, and from these a vision of destiny and fulfillment.

So you see then, this glyph reaches into the depths of human existence, purpose, journey, destiny, achievements, potential, and ultimately a glimpse of the awesome nature of life, of which the entire human journey is a part. Move then deliberately, patiently, respectfully and lovingly through this window of engagement, open your consciousness to the fullness of the human life and journey. We walk with you, our brother, respecting the order of life as it unfolds.

Yes, understanding spin as an attribute of life movement is essential. The nuances of the movement of vibration, or rate of life, is basic. The intimacy of diverse connection has its own magic and the creative partnership that is available and ongoing enriches life and fulfills the destiny of the universe.

So, you see, this seemingly simple glyph is a patterned doorway into the rest of life. Much to be learned from this, our brother. Enjoy the journey, enrich your spirit, and move with Light through life's journey.

T-160: the nature of purpose in life

April 18, 2005 B

JANU: Purpose driven life, then, as you have observed, being the title of a book of common interest at the moment, is a reality beset upon those who embrace their dreams and fulfill them. The purpose we speak of today, for the glyph you have chosen is representative of such a concept. Let us take this journey through this portal of understanding and discover what lies beyond it, according to its pattern.

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: This glyph of your choosing does, in fact, represent a peaceful exploration into the still waters that reveal the beauty and the mystery of purpose. For in the magic of that moment, that reality, there exists a connection with the flow of life that brings about serenity and a peaceful co-existence with the rest of your experience, your journey through life. Let us capture then, for a moment, the essence of this as we avail ourselves of the nature of purpose.

As you can see in this glyph, there is a representation of balance, completion, continuation of direction, and strength. Allow, then, your consciousness the freedom to be one with the mystery, the reality, of purpose. As you can begin to experience, there is a composite of simultaneous energy movements and patterns connecting you with paradigms of existence and purpose, the motion of life and its structures of relationship.

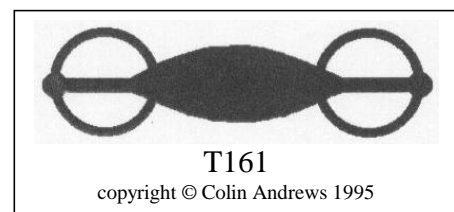

Now then, how does this serve the awakening of such in the seeking individual? Attuning in this way taps into the flow of purpose, which is a dynamic as it relates to the fulfillment of potential for collective humanity. There are lives that have many purposes, and lives with but one over-riding, and there are lives with a continuation of a purpose larger than one life, you see.

Joy in the doing is a marker for well-chosen purpose, the flow of unknown, unanticipated assistance from life itself in those who serve it. Purpose expands possibilities and reaches into the vast reservoir of life resources.

T-161: wealth based on community

April 26, 2005 B

JANU: What we have for us today is a lesson in enhanced understanding of the dynamics of rich interface, rich relationship with wealth based upon community, with a reduced need for material ownership as practiced at this time. Today's glyph speaks to a part of the human journey that once knew this and will again, you see.

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: Today's pattern bespeaks of the journey of humanity into reflections of the past and so this pattern, this glyph, is as a mirror, a reflection, of that which has been experienced or achieved.

In order to utilize this pattern, reverse spin is needed. And this is accomplished by reading into the light of yesterday patterns of life achievement. Now this moment in time beckons us, for it is our interest, and we see humanity carrying with it the memory of community where needs were met and dreams realized, and all were wealthy in their diversity and their agreement. This light will shine again, in time to come, and bring about a resonant renaissance that will survive many millennia, for humanity will understand the freedom of oneness and mutual benefit. You see this light closing now, for renewal to begin.

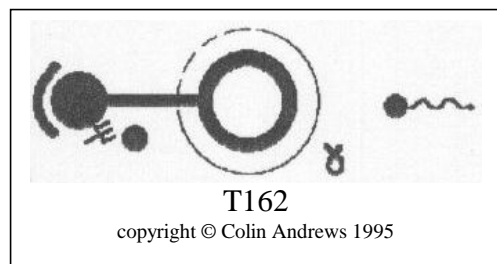

(Extended Pause)

The phenomena of spin direction is within you, our brother. This pattern, this glyph, facilitates the memory. And we leave it at this at this time.

T-162: the well of mystery

July 5, 2005 A

JANU: Today's designation, T-1-62, as visualized is of enormous value to those who comprehend the daily exercise belonging to the search for truth, for it represents the cosmic entry into the prolapsed region of space with a density that belongs to the Well of Mystery.

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT:

We join this opportunity to speak to this pattern of engagement of knowingness, the attributes of which are as proclaimed by your brother and teacher, Janu. What then is the Well of Mystery, as pertains to the awakening of humanity, which is your agenda, our brother?

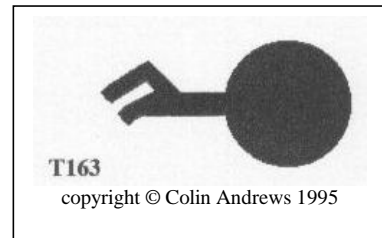

The Well of Mystery lives within the pool of human consciousness as an outward expression of the ultimate stillness of being where the Mystery of Life is, in the most complete reality or sense, the realization of being. Each human has this gift, as does the pool of human consciousness. And the Mystery of Life has its magnetic attraction to the awakening consciousness. Its promise is the endless path of fulfillment, richer life through understanding and service, and ultimately the penetration through the concept of initiation of life to one of eternal life. Mankind, human consciousness, still seeks to understand the beginnings and destiny, but there is a larger truth than that, dear one, as you will see.

This glyph touches your consciousness to the Well of the Mystery of Life by administering the keys to the linking, the fitting together, of your elements of being, understanding, and potential. Allow this to course through your nature and you will see the benefit of the integration, the synergism, as the magic of life is revealed.

T-163: the key to the continuation of life

August 12, 2005 A

JANU: Yes, greetings, my brother. I am Janu speaking. Stillness then takes stock of that which is apparent to the quiet mind, attentive to the nuances of life. Stillness, then, beckons revelation, for the revelation is embraced by the clarity of the vehicles of perception. Understanding ensues, rich with essence, and oneness is realized. Mutual benefit and service is the result, and that is the continuation of life, or the key to it, we might add. Today's glyph, T-1-63, as you put it, is such a window into the nature of life and the elements of oneness.

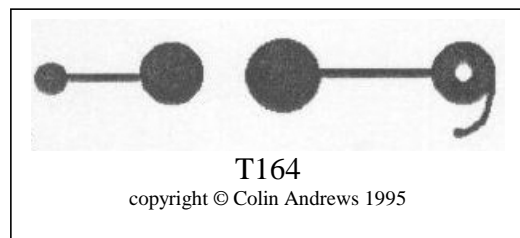

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: Yes, be at peace, brother. We are the Brotherhood of the One Light, harkening unto the stillness and clarity that beckons revelation. This theme of understanding, alluded to by our brother Janu, reveals much in the way of the discharge of compassion and understanding on the human journey. This pattern for exploration reveals this key to the continuation of life of mutual benefit and service. Grow in your understanding and ownership of this theme of life, this path of being, this element of oneness. We journey with you now in this reality, this key, this pattern.

Liberated from judgment, anger, and frustration, is the one who embraces all they encounter, all personalities and dispositions, with the power of perception and embrace of the key of mutual benefit and service. The theme of this understanding is not so much compromise, as some might perceive, but mutual benefit in service supported by integrity and conviction, patience, and love for the nature of life. And not confused with illusion, for even misrepresentation reveals the truth of the source of it, you see. This pattern, our brother, of the key to understanding the oneness of life, is of paramount importance.

T-164: a sense of proportion

August 23, 2005 B

JANU: Yes, greetings, my brother. I am Janu speaking. Proportion then being the theme of today's glyph or pattern. A great theme, having to do with a sense of proportion in self-examination, in relationships, in embracing the tapestry of life, in service, and even in loving, our brother. This journey, whose theme is such, derives from a sense of proportion in the revealing of the human journey and its awakening. These Brothers of the One Light example this through their discourse. Let us proceed at this time.

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: Yes, feel it, our brother, this proportioning pattern, this sense of perspective moving through you. And yes, you are correct. This pattern, this arrangement with life, brings balance, ease, and peace to the body, to the mind, to the emotions, to your interaction with life. Let us denote here that the realm of possibilities are enhanced through this and we will begin to explore these possibilities more so in our future dealings.

Now then, let us journey for today in this way, this pattern, patterning of consciousness. You will find that which you encounter more agreeable, more accessible, more communicative, and more understandable than without this pattern, you see.

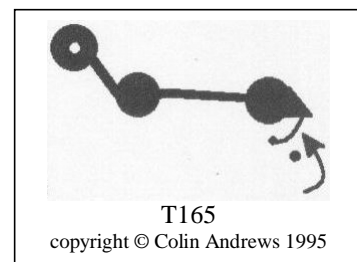

Now, as to this configuration, these four spheres arrange your molecular structure in such a way as to bring about a course of action or vitality that renders the deeper patterns to rise up, if you will, for integration consciously. What this accomplishes is a more direct interplay with subtler realities of your being, and of that you would engage. Let us touch, then, each of these spheres simultaneously and allow the process to continue.

The proportion effect of this is that no one aspect of your being dominates the others, and the entire being blossoms as one. One can reinforce this condition in your ingestions of all natures, in your service, bringing inspiration for this perspective in others, this proportion. The six senses, and others, will be richer. Every part of your being, neither overburdened nor underutilized, but in accord with each other. And the collective consciousness of your being is present as one. Such will be the consciousness of all of humanity, present as one being, yet many faceted and diverse. This is a goal for humanity, to fulfill its destiny, recorded in the annals of time.

T-165: the end of strife

JANU: I am Janu speaking, acknowledging this glyph representing the movement in the direction of the human psyche into the ability to expand upon events of the time, leading to a demoralizing concept. Pushing back the calendar of events circumscribed by human destiny, we will open to the presentation of the Brotherhood of the One Light, on this glyph T -1-6-5, as you have stated.

Sept. 1, 2005 A

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: Yes, we would have you know that our brother, Janu, speaks from an exalted state that recognizes these patterns of destiny. We welcome this association and speak with you on this matter at hand.

This glyph represents an hour—a symbolic hour—when there will exist among humans the end of strife, frustration, confusion, dismay, ignorance, and gripping fear. And there will be those who forecast much doom and gloom, as you put it. This glyph experience speaks to that challenge. Be aware there are focused moments on the human journey that bring to point critical thresholds in consciousness that lead to corresponding behavior. Let us enter this glyph, then, being aware that the troubled times facing humanity are seen differently by those who resist change. Even awakening, our brother, is fearful to many for they know instinctively this compels change in perspective and values and priorities.

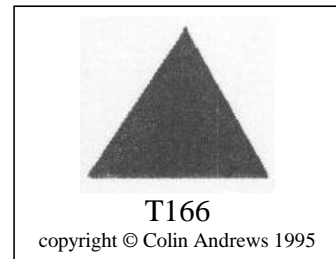

Enter then into the void that contains these thresholds and you understand now that, from one point of view, we see chaos, disruption, and from another movement in from one crystallization to another, as the jewel of life grows. As you have learned in the past, life is essentially crystalline and it restructures from time to time as movements in life precipitate it. So it is, our brother, with perceptions and understandings and the nature of your vehicles.

From one perspective, crystalline life is always fluid but from another there are variations which allow for what might seem pauses for the purpose of assimilation and timing. Be not confused by change. This glyph experience opens your awareness to the restructuring of life in this way. Your point of view can be restructured in a moment when you are open and receptive.

T-166: The coherence of the elements of consciousness

Sept. 21, 2005 A

JANU: Stargazing, then, reckons into the theme for today's discourse T-1-66, as you have designated, appearing as a plain triangle, equilateral. For as you have explored previously, the pinpoints of light in your night sky reflect back to you the inner point or points of light as you choose. And they are in truth, our brother, one and the same. The micro and the macro are one and each can be discovered through the other, explored, mastered in understanding, and be communicated with and through. Today's glyph represents such a relationship and begins this journey into realization of the creation and the creator as one.

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: Yes, greetings, our brother. We represent those that culminate in the arrangements of life that pursue these understandings. For they do represent the ideal of the coexistence of union and separation, as two points of view that serve the purpose of the one.

Let us begin then with today's glyph and make arrangements for this journey. The seemingly simple triangle that you perceive represents the union of the planes of existence multi-dimensionally into one coherence. This coherence represents the enabling factor of exploration. Let us begin then this configuration, the sorting and realignment of the elements of your consciousness and being into the coherence referred to.

The disorientation you experience results from resistance to letting go of your current configuration of third dimensional existence. This will be retained but left in the background, you see, for the time being. Allow this to progress for, you see, who you are is not being configured but the parameters of your existence dimensionally. The crystalline nature of this multi-layered, multi-dimensional reconfiguration allows for intimacy with simultaneous realities and the light or focus as a result of this is the oneness of many-faceted life. Through this arrangement the light in an enlightened being maintains multiple interactions, simultaneously, with many others. And the wisdom and the oneness brings light to each one.

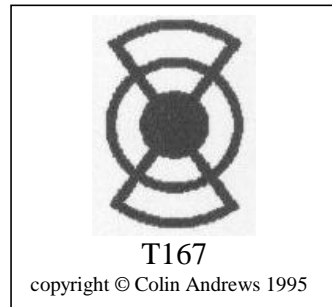

The light you see is your own as collective reality. This glyph reality is a step forward for humanity into the new lifewave of potential. You begin to appreciate the quantum leap of one wave to another. We gently return you now to your previous configuration, retaining this imprint, you see.

T-167: Humility

Oct. 21, 2005 B

JANU: For today's journey, we would recommend beginning with an accommodation of sentient being status, to include profound humility as befits mastership. For the reality of the moment suggests this direction as preparation for the understanding to come through today's pattern T-167.

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: The humility spoken of by your brother Janu moves a long way toward the realizations you seek. For what is humility but the willingness to be one with life as it is? Exploring these patterns successfully is influenced by that humility to be one with each portal as it is, for when achieving so, one is prepared to be one with that which it represents. Humility achieves union and union achieves oneness in understanding and in being.

This pattern, then, brings into focus, into mind, such union. Its structure agrees with the human journey by aligning your consciousness with its collective destiny. To engage this pattern, lift your attention to the preamble to the Constitution of your nation and mark its courage of declaration in your consciousness and realize the greatness of forming “a more perfect union.”

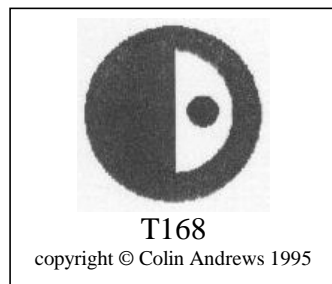

As you move along the corridor of this configuration, you will encounter pattern shifts to realize union with many other realities and destinies.

(After a long pause, focus was lost and the journey was ended.)

T-168: the spin of life

Dec. 9, 2005

JANU: Yes, good evening, my brother. I am Janu speaking, answering then this question as to why the enormous quantity of these glyphs that seem to continue on and on in their diversity, yet no or little apparent understanding as to their purpose. We continue these presentations by virtue of the reality that humanity continues its journey. For this is a service to humanity’s destiny and therefore must continue, in one manner or another. These glyphs, these images, are not the significance of what is observed, but the human journey is.

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: What then to make of today’s pattern, but that which belongs to the numerous quantities of individual observations and contributions to the collective human? Let us engage this glyph, then, in a manner bestowing certain gifts to the observer of clarity and meaning.

In a sense, one backs through this doorway, this portal, this gate, and then rotates to the right rapidly. What this affords is a prolonged experience where the perspective becomes balanced in the continuum through the rotation and therefore no fixed orientation, you see. Let us proceed with this.

Yes, as you see, an experience that pulls you in, as your back engages this pattern. Now, let the rotation begin.

In a sense this pattern is rotating around you, to your left. And this serves the freedom from human ego identification and is called the ‘life spin’ or ‘spin of life.’ And the rotational speed determines the vibrational rate of your energy field.

Yes, that is correct. There is no effort here, only allowing your postulate to manifest.

Now, as the spin increases and the effortlessness is more complete, one can journey through the realms and understand the mysteries of life, which include the human journey. Now, one need only allow your attention on any realm, to command the rotational speed to match, you see. Although aware of this movement in rotation, your attention is upon your interest.

Let us focus, then, upon off-world human journeys and the richness to be added to human understanding. There is evidence, by way of record, of many visitors and inhabitants of your solar system and your Earth. Mars would be a rich example and your connection with this world began eighteen hundred millennia ago, when Mars was habitable. Third dimensionally stable yet much more active in the realms. It is a quiet world at this time but much occurred there.

This is a good beginning to understanding the gift of this pattern. Return your attention now to your current Earth existence and throttle down, so to speak. All is as it was.

T-169: emerging from isolation

May 19, 2006 B

JANU: Today's journey represents the sequestered nature of human experience currently, with the full attention upon itself. It's the wondering as to the nature of love beyond its comprehension. Today's glyph focuses upon this understanding on the human journey.

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: Yes, we agree, brother, that we shall resume this endeavor, for it bears great significance as to the destiny of humanity and its current emergence from the darkness of isolation. For long has been this journey for humanity. Let us say, then at this point, that there still is work to be done, so to speak, in this environment of isolation, for humanity has yet to come together, unified in the wholeness of its being. This darkness or isolation was pursued in the beginning to bring about a fuller grasp of human nature, without distraction or modification from others. Fledgling as it was, this was prudent.

There have been many moments of influence or inspiration from those who observe humanity, for they have knowledge of larger issues yet to come. This glyph focuses upon this. Let us now embrace it as intended. It is the catalyst for change and, when engaged, moves the consciousness into the motivation for the expansion of understanding and fuller capacity to realize the full human potential, and through this grasp what is to come. When the pattern of human potential is understood, humanity will realize its strength and its service, with their unique characteristics and compatibility with other patterns of life as the puzzle of life is assembled. This glyph orients each one who enters it into this pattern of the movement of understanding so described.

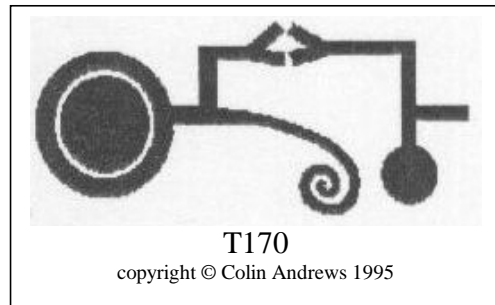

The emerging from isolation is beginning. We of course refer to the collective human, not just individuals already making this journey. Dwelling in this state of awareness, one begins to absorb and appreciate this realm of isolation and the investment of human experience contained within it. The collective human light will transcend this shell and all things will change.

T-170: replacing within and without with 'Being'
BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT:

June 9, 2006 B

This current pattern of exploration begins with a dynamic that includes a reshaping of the fundamental equation of life, having to do with being. Let us enter, then, this configuration, reversing in the process the perception of 'within' and 'without,' for 'being' is an inclusive reality rather than exclusive. And humanity's individuation must give way to the completeness of life. Prepare yourself, then, as we move into this configuration.

(pause)

Yes, and now you begin to perceive the illusion of time and space, that they are truly contained within the reality of being, and that being is grander, more complete. Your entire universe is a moment within the reality of being. It is an expression. It is summed up in a moment, not to diminish its diversity or its purpose and function. Every endeavor in your universe belongs to the reality of being.

This reversal is critical to perceive human destiny, for the reality of being knows no boundaries and is intimate with all expressions of life. Employ this experience when the desire to understand occurs in the presence of any expression of life.

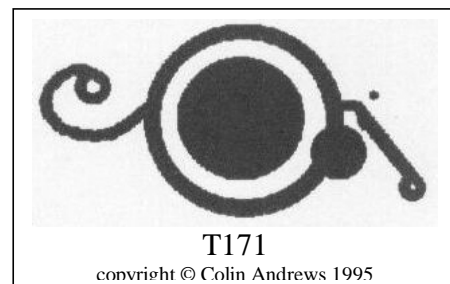

(pause)

Reverse your focus again, then, our brother, to return as you will.

T-171: The doctrines of belief

October 17, 2006 B

BROTHERHOOD OF THE ONE LIGHT: The glyph you have selected for today reveals to the journeyer the embrace of the Doctrines of Belief as promulgated by so many in your history. To engage this glyph, let us first relinquish all hold on any one focus or belief, freeing one's perspective and understanding.

Moving through this pattern when so freed turns belief inside out for examination, understanding its nature and purpose. Belief, then, re-examined from this perspective reveals insecurities in the human quest for meaning and survival. The religious organizations of your history having their own fears in this realm succumbed to it.

(Attunement ended abruptly—focus lost?)

Editor's note: Again, due to the passage of time, there was confusion as to where we were in the sequence. Thus, this glyph for repeated, with a different interpretation.

T-171: The eye of self-discovery

Nov. 20, 2012

JANU: We have with us this morning once again the opportunity to explore what some would call 'these messages from space,' meaning crop circles. Off world beings may be involved but, as we have said earlier, these are designed by humanity, by their life path, their life journey, their consciousness.

ONE WHO ENLIGHTENS: Yes, greetings, our brother. We are those that promulgate these and would have you understand that this journey of today is an overview, a surveying of this effort to bring to humanity a view of itself, which is also a view of its potential, its future. These many glyphs, of which a few are not part of this effort, do stimulate the imagination and wonder of humanity, but the comprehension remains to be realized.

What we would convey to humanity at this time is: your journey of life is richer than you realize. It belongs to you, to be claimed, owned, honored, and expanded. We are among those that help to create these visible artifacts, but encourage humanity to something larger than they're aware of. That is what today's glyph is. Seeing, the eye-opening experience, the looking into the fuller truth of your existence and your purpose and your performance. This looking, this eye so to speak, can be cast in many directions, past, present, and future. It can examine life, not just on your world but on others as well, bringing into view other realities of which humanity has been a part.

So, open the eye of your mind, your heart, and your being and choose to see. And through this understand the fuller beauty of life, not just yours but others' as well. These so-called crop circles are part of this journey, but only part. For this tradition of revelation is ancient and displayed around your globe but, even more so, lives within you, in human memory, and evolution. So, less than these glyphs speaking to you, but more your nature responding to them. They are but the keys to unlock 'you.'

T-172: The content regulator of future glyphs based on comprehension

Jan. 3, 2013

JANU: I am Janu speaking, welcoming then again this opportunity to continue with the crop circle series, today's designation 1-72, being a climax in a series of these, regulating the progression based on outcome of human exploration.

What we see this morning is an acceleration, to a degree, of the content of these, realizing that many have not been explored by this effort; however, this one is not isolated from these others, for the destiny of these glyphs has been known for their design is based upon the human journey.

As to this regulation, what has been seen here does not regulate the glyph itself, but its message. Journeys such as these help fulfill the promise of these patterns of revelation. And for those who are growing into this understanding, the revelations will be more complete, deeper, and the picture they reveal more comprehensible.

Feb. 12, 2013

JANU: The cardinal points of life are symbolized here and the center of this reality is displayed by the center circle. This symbolism to be taken individually, although its counterpart is in all of nature, but the journey of importance at this time is your identity and reality as a natural being, relating to life and all of its manifestations. The human being walks the Earth as does the incarnate being, and through this glyph, if you will, your experience becomes one with the Earth and all of nature. The circular segments are your windows, configurations to touch nature, to reach out. The spaces between them, from nature's perspective, are the windows into your reality, your consciousness, your being.

So, nature perceives you as a universal being sharing life through co-existent journeys. In this way, you are the Earth and the Earth is you. Nature is you. It is a good time to know each other. That is the purpose of this glyph: co-existing paths through life by way of its nature. The natural human expresses the natural you. And through this intimacy, one understands and experiences that the life around them is in no way a separate reality. This is the path of return, our brother, to cosmic consciousness, universal being, and unlimited life.

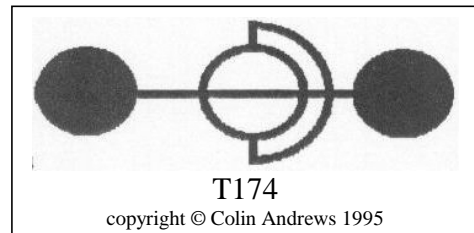

A worthy addition to this series, imaged and created by those who are growing as well. Many of these depictions of the human journey are not just the future, our brother, but a revelation of the path traveled yet not understood. These are great opportunities to enhance awakening and realize the human journey. Awakening through interaction with and contribution to all of life. You are what you explore, our brother, and it is you. Open further to the truth of this.

T-174: Male and Female becoming one

March 24, 2013

JANU: This particular glyph depicts the equilibrium or balance of the human journey as it relates to the coming tides of consciousness that have been, and will, engulf your world. These tides are the global reality of human consciousness male and female. And they grow as a tide of consciousness that, when understood aright, are one consciousness. This rising tide will elevate the human journey into a reality yet realized, ultimately leading to procreation moving beyond just physical union, for, you see, the creation of life which is its ongoingness has its origins in reality beyond what is understood at this time.

The center portion of this glyph represents manifestation yet incomplete due to the apparent separation of gender-centered consciousness. Now, what we see here, our brother, is an evolution of life yet to come, for there are those, in fact, who have already broached this subject and they're moving in this direction. Gender-specific identity will give way to super-consciousness and your vehicle of expression will follow suit, for it is the result and not the cause of life expression.

Now the significance of this journey of humanity is not so much the process of continuation but the creative reality that ensues when the union of yin and yang, if you will, male and female, super-consciousness united as one. It has been the tendency of the male in your civilization to dominate, control, take charge. And on the other hand, the female has mastered subtlety, manipulation, insight, and a vision the male finds confusing, if aware of at all. The benefit here of this change is that both will prosper as one with a union of insight, commitment, and joy. Creativity will flower and the conflicts, due to one not understanding the other or sharing identity, will melt away.

Your wars of conflict have their root in this difference and the confusion of these separate consciousnesses and identities. They will disappear as well, our brother, and this is why they have continued for so long. For, you see, each gender possesses the potential of the other but is blind to this, for the most part. Yet another manifestation in human destiny that adds value to its existence and purpose in life.

T-175: DNA is changing

May 4, 2013

JANU: This glyph, our brother, represents the magnetic reality of the cellular journey in human physiology to a development in the DNA of a configuration preparing humanity's physiology for an evolution in consciousness and the brain/mind interface. What we see here, growing rather quickly, is this configuration allowing greater insight into the journey of the soul, if you will, to lift itself, its relationship with humanity, into new levels of understanding and clarity of thought and expression.

And, yes, war will seem foolish even to those who previously 'enjoyed' it, if you will. There are those who enjoy the game, the tactics, the challenges of war. This will melt away and no longer be fascinating. It is almost like what you call an "adrenalin junkie," one who must have violence, excitement, thrill in their lives to feel alive. This is a less mature relationship with life and will give way.

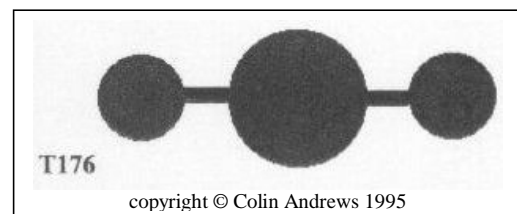

The DNA will be adding three new elements or configurations, influencing the crown chakra, and the root chakra, and the heart chakra. These three are evolving into greater coordination and a slight increase in resemblance, one to another. This is the path of a chakra, merging into oneness.

So, you see, the path of human journey, human destiny, is constantly changing, evolving. And for this to occur successfully, there must be a quickening of consciousness and openness to change and embrace what these changes bring.

T-176: The life whisperer

June 25, 2013

JANU: Today's pattern, T-1-7-6, represents emergence into the fine art of communication. Let us attune now to this pattern and pass through it.

This glyph represents the illusion of duality and the reality of oneness and the art of communication, one manifestation of life to another through their common source, their oneness. Communication between elements of life without this reference is an open door to miscommunication, for the truth of the communication is not intimately known to both parties, both elements, for the source of the knowing is within the True Nature.

This reality is more comfortable to accept with elements of life that appear as your own. Not so easy with other species from other worlds, and elements of your Earth reality that are of different species. One must become as a 'life whisperer' for good communication that is truthful and considerate. What is a 'life whisperer' then but one who listens and embraces the truth of another in the face of superficial deception? Those who attempt to deceive are not listening for truth but for opportunity to benefit themselves. 'Life whispering' speaks of gentleness in communication that can be heard.

'Life whispering' is a good title for this glyph. And this means all of life, for the greatest listener of all is life itself. Even listening to the wind, our brother, and its nuances is communication. When you listen to the sounds of an animal, do you hear its message, the reason for the sound? So, you see, it's not the mechanics of the voice of a creature, it's its motivation for expressing it. Patterns and rhythms, intensities. So by way of the understanding of this glyph, become more of a 'life whisperer.'

T-177: Human physiology and therapy

JANU: We relay this information from its source, the collective human consciousness. This episode or journey of review is listed, so to speak, as a member of the group that portrays the human journey in physiology and therapeutic measures. This represents a probing consciousness, enquiring, interpretation, and engagement.

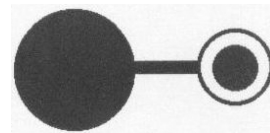

The healing elements of human investigation border on an extreme view of physiology and materiality. This is the current obsession of therapy. Now, we are not suggesting that the current reality is by any means permanent. Yes, it is changing, our brother, into what you term holistic approach. The consciousness of manifestation and modification, fundamental to all creation, is awakening in this arena of human endeavor. The strictly mechanical approach to well-being is effective but temporary and does not take into account the many other realities that influence order in the human physiology and psyche. Even the psyche is but a window to subtler and more influential elements of the human existence, for even the patterns of imbalance carry through from one sojourn to another. How can this be, then our brother, if only the physical mechanics are involved?

The journey of human therapeutics is indicative of the journey from enlightenment into the darkness and the return to enlightenment. This glyph is a window into the overview of this area of human experience. It can be visited many times. Humanity's journey into understanding in this area parallels its journey into understanding the nature of other creations, other systems of life, other species and their cultures and physiology, and those with no material counterpart. Understand, then, it is not the glyph pattern that is the key here. The key is the patterns of human consciousness, which these only represent.

T-178: Perceiving all creation multi-dimensionally

JANU: As with many of these glyphs, the circles, whether filled in or not, represent consciousness but not limited to human consciousness. Consciousness exists everywhere, you see. We would have you understand that with this glyph the understanding has to do with consciousness connections. The lined circle on the left represents a shell or layer, if you will, of consciousness connected with the one on the right, which is one that is more complete. However, make no mistake. The shell is another structure or form of consciousness. The circle on the left is consciousness that does not track itself with others directly but through finer realities.

So, overall, what does this glyph represent? It is a microcosm representation of the complexity of relationships, forms and structures, types of connection, and yet the evolutionary process of the elements of universal consciousness, connections with others, follow forms, protocols, evolution and change. And they come and go, by will and desire, as they change as well.

Multi-dimensionally speaking, this glyph would appear as a vast network of connections, forms, and structure, and relationship of conscious life everywhere. This is not limited to the present, our brother, but is a pathway to the past and the future. One must get used to conscious relationships through the reality of time, but beyond time as well, unless one considers the multi-dimensional reality of time itself.

What we have here is a composite of not just communication but source as well, surpassing the perception of individual consciousnesses. So the oneness reality of life is expressed through a complex structure or network of relationships, born of the one life. This also means that the opportunity is there for all of life, all of consciousnesses, to be resource for each other and become more complete through interconnected diversity. Individuality and oneness seem, to most, a contradiction in terms but, as you can see, they are one reality. Once human consciousness moves beyond the fear for survival, it will realize that its oneness with the rest of life is its guarantee of survival. Where is the fear then, our brother, called for?

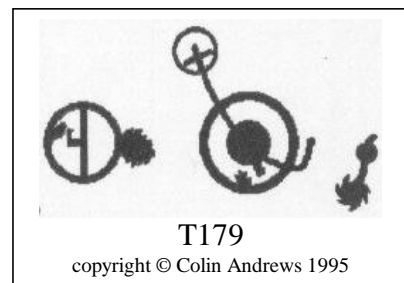

So, you see, this glyph in its two-dimensional form speaks far more to a much larger reality that touches all of life. Too easy to let its initial appearance limit the understanding. As one learns to embrace these patterns, in a fuller way, the ability is applicable to everything you encounter and observe in life. All of life, all creation, can be observed and known multi-dimensionally. Any physical creation is never purely physical. That is the lesson of this glyph, and its opportunity: to see life through all of its layers of reality.

T-179: A look at the future of humanity

Nov. 6, 2013

JANU: Crop circle T-179 is legitimate. Peripheral elements are not involved. So let us proceed, attuning to this image.

This glyph has multi-dimensional characteristics. What we have here, our brother, is a representation of a configuration that brings us into an area of understanding on the human journey, like a neural portal requiring a certain restriction in configuration to embrace. Reaching into this portal, we are attracted to, pulled into so to speak, this energetic reality, which is like an eye into the future of humanity, resembling the focus of a telescope. Far reaching, with revelation of the future of humanity.

We are not peering into space or distance but into the future, a future that will bring science into a new perspective. This is not the science of technology for the development of devices, but the science of inner knowing, the nature of human existence. This new science will focus upon a range of attributes or elements of human existence from the point of view of humanity's True Nature. A journey in consciousness and conscious awakening.

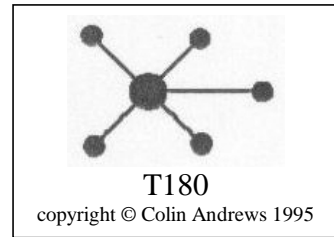

In time, humanity will not identify with or recognize its current society, philosophy, religion, models for living. The illnesses, obesity, obsession with drugs, frenetic behaviors and obsessions will all disappear. For most of humanity's disturbances, imbalances, come from attitudes, behavior, and decisions, engagements that have no place in what humanity is destined to become.

This glyph, when engaged, affords the consciousness of the individual with what looks like a narrow, tight beam of opportunity of perception to become aware of a more conscious life, with clearer understanding of the power of choices and their results. Direct knowing is a theme here. No secrets. Clear understanding and a respect and love for life not understood at this time; a growing optimism and enthusiasm for the journey of life. An existence for humanity as a goal we encourage and serve. Let there be, then, through this glimpse into the future, confidence, anticipation, and hope for a fuller life with greater meaning and a joy for living.

T-180: the path to a fuller life

Dec. 17, 2013

JANU: What we see here is the human consciousness becoming, multi-tasking if you will, simultaneously probing into multiple realities of life, retaining a ‘long handle,’ if you will, to anchor one’s self in their current incarnation. These many paths of communication and connection with life are anchored in the True Nature, the consciousness, and the identity. Now, the interesting aspect of this is: as these paths of exploration are established and maintained, you become no longer an isolated individual identity only, but a partner with life. And these many connections with life are partnering with you in a way that is new to your incarnate experience. However, the multi-tasking reality here is that your identity, which is yours, is still maintained with its integrity, but your consciousness is engaged so intimately with other elements of life that you are no longer limited to who you thought you were as an incarnate individual.

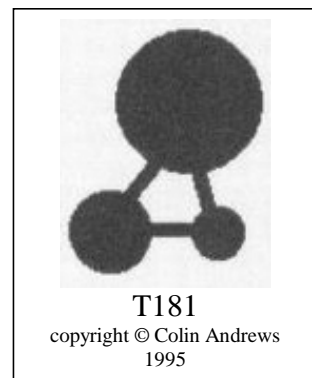

Now, these paths of communication with more of life will engage others who have accomplished this, and more, and you will communicate with life, not with words so much but with direct knowing, experiencing other’s experience and understanding will blossom more than words can allow. You understand more of life, what it is, what it can be, and what it has been. You are moving in the direction of “universal consciousness,” realizing the root nature of life and its intimacy with all of its creations and manifestations and realities and potential. The life that is this universe of yours—of ours, so to speak—has known many others and is in communication with these, as you will begin to appreciate and become.

Vast distances and time will no longer be a restriction or limitation to the range and the extent of your life awareness. How can your maturity and wisdom and love of life not grow from this? You ask, “When will this take place?” Entirely and completely up to each one. It is all by choice, our brother, desire and commitment and openness to a changing perspective, not only of life, but of one’s self.

T-181: The triune nature of human consciousness

Feb. 9, 2014

JANU: Let us begin then by saying that the triune nature of this configuration speaks to the triune nature of human consciousness and its matching patterns on many worlds. Humanity’s journey into the stars, so to speak, is heralded by this primary configuration of human consciousness and will be the foundation for its future relationships with other worlds. This relationship will be strengthened not just by connection with another world but through connection with those that are visiting this one.

The human journey, which is what these crop circles are about, has long been forecast and known, for its potential is built into the elementary patterns of human consciousness. So long, though, humanity has considered itself, been aware of only its existence. This glyph represents a connection, that has always been, with more of life in the universe. We see, then at this time, that humanity’s vision for these possibilities and innate desire for exploration and understanding are being enhanced by this fundamental configuration, which is due to express itself more fully in the coming decades. Humanity will no longer wait for science to provide transportation to the stars, but will explore the stars by right of this fundamental configuration and the blossoming consciousness and confidence to engage.

Many of these understandings humanity has opened to and explored and made part of their consciousness are not unique to the Earth, you see, but exist in different forms on many worlds. This common heritage will open the door for humanity seeing itself as part of this larger family, whether aware of it or not. For many truths in life exist, our brother, not limited to awareness. There is so much of life to be explored and engaged and experienced. This is coming, our brother, and this is part of the reason why.

T-183: An intimate embrace of the future

Apr. 5, 2014

JANU: As this pattern suggests, there is a diminishing need for the curtailing of resonance with what lies before humanity. This glyph is designed to encourage humanity to shake loose of patterns of limitation, withdrawal, isolation, circling the wagons if you will. There will be a tendency in the future, as humanity expands its reach beyond the Earth, to perceive the unknown, the future, with trepidation. Humanity has repeated this pattern in the past, with a larger purpose of regrouping, if you will, identifying its own strengths and weaknesses, but seldom identifying its patterns of perception and the foundations for them.

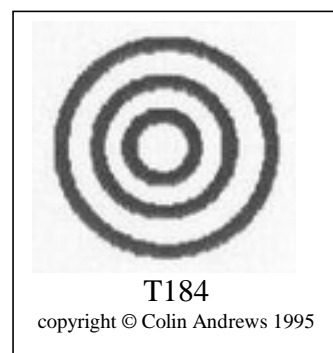

This glyph represents a return to the testing time, if you will, and the future will always provide this opportunity to re-examine, for when embracing the future, our brother, one must always ask the question, “Embracing with what? From where? Why?” The more humanity awakens, the more these questions will be understood in advance and revealed during the experience, for revelation occurs, not just for humanity but for life itself. Embracing this pattern in this new way, approaching oneness, one experiences its meaning, eliminating fear of the unknown from the future of another part of life, but embracing as your own and, yes, being embraced as part of life.

T-184: The triune nature of life

JANU: We are encouraging then at this time the engagement of these understandings as to the nature of human consciousness on its long journey. Today’s designation T-184, of three concentric circles, close proximity equally spaced, bring to mind the understanding <that> the triune aspect of this applies to much of life: the triune nature of humanity; past, present and future; the balancing and focusing nature of a pyramid, as above, so below; and creation—father, mother, child; conscious mind, sub-conscious mind, and super-conscious mind. The list goes on and on.

What this glyph represents is the nature of life in this universe. And we are part of this as well, our brother. When planning a change in your life, examine its triune nature: what has been in this direction, what exists at the present, and its potential, not only around you but within you as well. The theme here is balance, equal potential opportunity and the process and power of loving this into your experience.

The circles represent the cycles of existence. The spaces between them represent the layers of life. The three layers represent co-existence, which comes from True Oneness and the One Life. The triune nature of one's life is the key to balance. Balance is the key to peace. And True Peace is the key to the power of Oneness. Ponder these, our brother, and see what they reveal. Namaste.
