

The Wheeyah Codes

This series of journeys was begun in 1998 and continued sporadically until 2014. They form a fundamental basis of my understanding of my connection with the Earth and all life upon the planet--Nature, if you will. The journeys are very personal and inner, much of it not being expressed for the reader. Thus, I haven't published them. However, because they are so fundamental to my development, they continue to be referenced in more current journeys that are published. It seemed that perhaps this series might prove of interest to some.

The reader must understand that this is a very complex series of understandings and I have only begun to scratch the surface. These journeys are just that, journeys in consciousness. The Wheeyah Code consists of seventeen "globes" with multiple levels within each globe. You must engage the globes and develop your own understanding and mastery, pausing to assimilate understanding along the way. Please note that the experience of the journey did not flow as smoothly as the written word seems to imply. There were many pauses along the way. Also, at times focus was lost and journeys just seemed to come to an end. Such is the nature of this process. And sometimes life intervened, causing breaks of months or even years.

These are my experiences. They will not necessarily be yours. But perhaps they can point the way for those who are interested and ready.

Titles and pages:

The Wheeyah Codes and the unknown caverns of Antarctica	page 3
The merging of individual and Earth Consciousness	page 3
Globe 1, Level 1: a second visit	page 4
The pattern link to the Earth, Sun, and Solar System, and the journey to the Earth's core	page 6
Earth core memory pattern	page 6
Hobol speaks on preparing for the next phase of involvement	page 7
More about the purpose of the Globes	page 8
The meaning of Globe One Level One	page 8
A portal of light	page 9
Light portal integration in Globe One	page 9
The training resumes	page 10
Globe One, Level One	page 10
A return to the Codes and Earth's core memory	page 11
Become the Globe, the levels are within	page 11
Globe One explained	page 12
Globe One experience	page 12
Observe without controlling content	page 12
Earth/Gaia: a very fluid and complex being	page 13
Globe One: roamed the atmosphere when the globe disappeared	page 13
A light blue dome over Los Angeles	page 14

Seeing the colors of life that are the Earth	page 14
Understanding Earth's energy reality	page 15
Many simultaneous existences	page 16
Observation through cosmic consciousness	page 16
Non-visual observations	page 17
Being one with the Earth	page 17
The many realities of Earth	page 18
Preparing for service to the Earth & humanity	page 19
Exploring oneness to a varied experience	page 19

The Wheeyah Codes and the unknown caverns of Antarctica

Mar. 27, 1998 C

JANU: Our service today includes a journey of sorts into a little known region of your world, the deep Antarctic. This south polar region of which we speak has within its mountain ranges a vast cavern complex, that will not be discovered for some time, that contain remnants of a lost culture that existed for a brief time in this region but primarily elsewhere on your world. These caverns became a staging area, a jumping off place, for life progression as it evolved or moved from the previous location to future venues. The Atlanteans knew of this, although they did not originate the use of these caverns. Even the Lemurians did not originate such, and they knew of it as well. This staging area was used by a race of beings know as the Wheeyah, and, no, they were not of your world. The Atlantean and Lemurian cultures and subcultures gained much of their understanding of their awareness of life larger than your world from this influence.

Our service today in connection with this location is to convey to you the Wheeyah understanding as service to the consciousness of Earth. What then, dear one, of this Wheeyah understanding that benefited earlier cultures? It is this: That the power of life that is your world has been speaking to you for eons as authority and parent, if you will, for your development. The Wheeyah knew how to tap the language of your world and benefit greatly from its wisdom, its power, its larger connection with life. So many still see your world as a lump of rock suspended in space. How little they understand its significance, its life, and its riches to bestow upon its children.

The Wheeyah understanding is coded in these caverns for those who are ready for such. They are key configurations for adapting of consciousness to the flow of life and power that is your world. These codes can be visited and known but not with the recklessness of raw curiosity, but with a heart that is willing to learn. Yes, you are correct. This is yet one more course of exploration available to you. Should you choose it, dear one, we will comply. These are the codes of your Earth. Are you ready for such?

The merging of individual and Earth consciousness

April 23, 1998 A

JANU: The Wheeyah Codes you have sought to continue the understanding of have been aligned undisturbed in a dormant state for many millennia. It is the desire of the Earth Hierarchy for that once known to be known again, and we would have you know of these and develop the skill of their understanding and enter into a level of direct communication with the consciousness of your world as a partner and contributor.

Now then, as to your preparation for such a journey, let us begin by examining the clarity of your motive and the alignment of your consciousness with that which will be required to make this journey in understanding and the responsibility that comes with it. The Wheeyah Codes are stored in globes of patterns for the conversion of Earth's patterns of consciousness to those of the human. This language is not limited to your vocabulary but is in the form of sweeps, or strokes as an artist's brush on canvas, of revelation, of understanding, of knowingness. These Codes help you perceive these sweeps or strokes for recognition and comprehension. These orbs are not strictly physical in structure, but can be visited in consciousness. The number of orbs is seventeen, one for each element of the Hierarchy of Earth Consciousness that is intended for communication with the human consciousness. For the other life forms of your world, the communication is, for the most part, instinctual, but for the human more is required. When one enters into relationship with these patterns, communication begins as well as responsibility; therefore the alerting to the individual who chooses to embark upon this journey. Wise is the one who engages with commitment.

JR: My brother Janu, I do commit to this engagement and the responsibility thereof, and to honor larger agreements with serving the life of this world and the brotherhoods that do.

JANU: It is well, dear one, that you do, for you are gaining in your insight and your trust into the strength, into the completeness, into the depth of the orders of life. Journeys into what some would call the unknown of this nature are less than by someone who has already opened to and experienced the orders of life. Now then, let us proceed, our brother.

We will begin by a slow but methodical and purposeful journey in consciousness configuration to engage the first of these globe vessels and their patterns. Remember that from the beginning contact yields communication with the life of your world. Let us proceed. ...As you can see, this is a conscious adjustment of merging with and blending with these patterns. ...You are now inside the first globe and, as you can perceive, the pattern is all around you and through you. The first pattern reveals and allows you to experience the Earth's perception of the relationship between its beingness and yours. ...And now you begin to take on the global knowingness and relationship with life of a complete world, much the way a child absorbs the understanding and the authority of its parent. The authority for your life as an individual is now part of the authority for the life of a world which includes yours. Both coexisting, both in harmony and cooperation and respect.

This is the beginning stage of conscious engagement with the life of your world and, as you can see, this globe has become more active and life in it stirs. When a sufficient number of humans engage this globe, it will appear as the brightness of a star. It has the capacity for handling the connection of all who would choose to engage it. There will be several stages of engagement for this globe, preparing you for the next. One can develop the attunement ability to select any stage in any globe. For now, we will concentrate upon the basic relationship of shared consciousness. ...

You'll discover, in due course, the many opportunities through these many globes and their stages of access, of interface to many realities of your world. The communication of this first connection, as you can perceive, is that of reuniting of the aspects of one life.

The connection has been made and withdrawal from this experience is in the sense of focus. The dynamic, the element that has been added remains part of your experience and your consciousness. You will be building in time the completeness in Earth connection you have yet to envision. We conclude at this time, but let us continue to the completion you refer to. Namaste, our brother, and good morning.

Globe 1, Level 1: a second visit

June 18, 1998 A

JANU: The Wheeyah Codes, as such, are embedded within these structural models of understanding within the continent of Antarctica. These structures, seventeen in number, are held in suspension or stasis partially by the Earth itself and further by the Keepers of the Records of Life. These patterns for engagement allow access to, through the reconfiguration of your consciousness, the records, the consciousness, the design, for Earth as a complete life being. In many ways, applying this opportunity affords one access to a measure of their true nature in the form of relationships to and service to this complete life being. Revealed is your past and present connection to the path of life for Earth.

Now then, let us proceed to Globe #1, once more, and reaffirm the Level 1 connection with the Earth understanding, remembering that this process, from the moment that you begin, places you in an evolving direct connection with the consciousness of Earth. As you can see, the levels we describe in each globe are not constructed as layers or fixed positions but as stages of revelation involving the entire globe, each one gaining more detail and clarity of more complex and more revealing structure in the form of patterns.

In time, my brother, you will understand the development of the opportunity to be, in a sense, the voice for the Earth in various ways, in various involvements, to various degrees. This will unfold as the achievement takes place of the mastership of the many levels throughout the globes.

This first level, when achieved fully, gives authority for acknowledging to others the reality of Earth's life and consciousness. You will learn that there are Earth reality counterparts to your physical and other dimensional bodies and functions and some you will learn of, belonging to the Earth, and through this discover counterparts of your own yet not aware of. So, as you can see, this journey brings revelation of your nature not yet complete in your knowingness. As you are beginning to experience, you will feel more and more the life pulse, the life energy, the life movement in your being, of the Earth that is counterpart to your own. You will merge more and more in this way. This first stage or level deals more with the physical properties and life of the Earth, and your own. The subtler body realities reveal themselves with subsequent level achievement. So, for now, experience the pulse of life in the physical that is the Earth.

(The thought occurred as to underground testing of nuclear weapons. Janu responded.) It is true. These underground atomic experimentations, these detonations, would counterpart to your reaction to the sting of an insect. It is irritating and disturbing and causes, in one sense, a withdrawal of life force from that area, and, on the same hand, automatic responses of rejection of influence are called into the fore. As example of function and relationship, when mankind achieved air flight, air travel, the joy in the freedom of the pilot and the passengers to marvel at the beauty of the Earth and the freedom of the air is shared in the consciousness of the world as well and reflected back to those who were in awe. On the other hand, the consciousness in mankind while using this freedom for mutual destruction and the ravages of conflict, both on themselves and on the Earth, brings confusion to the patterns of Earth consciousness centered in ongoingness.

These and many more revelations are the type available through first level connection with the Earth. There are many more to be gained for a more complete picture and we will continue with our next journey. We are pleased with this second journey. It has a balanced result. Namaste, our brother.

The pattern link to the Earth, Sun and Solar System, and the journey to the Earth's core.

Nov. 9, 1998 A

JANU: We have the Wheeyah experience before us this morning, as well as those who represent this accumulation of understanding and knowledge. These wondrous codes represent a pathway for understanding that was first laid down many eons ago. They not only prepare one for harmonious communication with the total life being of your world, but prepare one for access to larger venues of understanding and involvement. The Wheeyah do draw near when alerted by the engagement of a consciousness such as your own, beginning the process of acclimation and understanding. They have announced their alerting this morning and recognize these beginning steps. We would have you know this at this time and prepare for their eventual contact with you. This will occur after sufficient progress is made and demonstration of likely commitment for a large measure of completion. These archives were not created and placed on their authority alone, but in cooperation with that which is the authority for the Earth beingness reality.

Now then, our brother, let us proceed, with this added understanding, to continue to develop the embrace of Level 1, Globe 1. The basis for the last experience was, and is, Earth vibrational physical pattern and rhythm. We will begin today's journey at this reference experience.

That is correct. Just as your vibrational patterns bear your unique imprint, they are related to that of the Earth and those of the Earth related to that of the sun, and in certain ways to the rest of the solar system and beyond. So, when attuning to and experiencing the Earth's pattern physically, and its correspondences in your physical body, one becomes aware of the connection to the rest of the solar reality and its connection.

We now journey to the core of the Earth to experience its equilibrium and point of origin of physical expression. We have, at this time, announced a beginning process to include the journey into the Earth's center. A transformation must take place in personal identity for this experience to take root in the conscious awareness. Your perceptive paradigm must be developed in such a way as to permit these shifts in consciousness, moving from the human identity to that of pure being, without form. We can accomplish this together and we will proceed in this way in our next encounter with this series.

Thank you, our brother, for your attention today on this development. Moving forward at our next adventure, we bid you namaste.

Earth core memory pattern

Dec. 16, 1998 A

JANU: We have once more before us an opportunity to progress in this area of understanding you have titled The Wheeyah Codes. These codes represent a fine tradition in excellence in acclimation to the Earth reality, forming pathways of communication, affinity, service, and mutual support, not to mention understanding.

The journey to the Earth's core, as mentioned previously, will take an adjustment in your identification, your focus of identity, and a clearing of patterns of physical identification so as to continue the integrity of your denser vehicles during this journey.

We begin now with the code memory, Globe One, Level One, for Earth core penetration. This memory guides configuration as we have described. You determine to be this configuration and its pattern becomes you for the journey. Now then, let us merge and re-pattern according to this code. It is called Earth Core Memory Pattern.

As you are experiencing, you become aware of the first beginning stages of nucleus in Earth's formation. There resides causal pattern and imperative to proceed. You are, as you have observed, beginning to experience and be one with the Earth in its totality, including its origin. That is the purpose of this journey, dear one.

You are now experiencing the faint coalescings at the beginning and you become as them. That is correct. The pattern still exists as reference for all the Earth has become, and will become, at its core or beginning initiation. The breath, the first breath, of its physical life began here. The fires of life were the dominant reality. The rest but potential. The love of creation poured into your world is known with greater clarity at this stage. The gatherings of those in the finer realms were the vehicles, the channels, the pathways for this formation. Many gather at a birthing to witness and to assist. The Earth as a living being is not alone and never was, for out of family is birth possible. Here lie the Earth core memories of its beginnings, the love that brought it into being, and its ongoing family. Here is its heart and soul. And here lies the beginnings of its capacity to love all life that it nourishes.

It is time, dear one, for the life of humanity to return its love so that, together, they move on as one. Be a representative of the consciousness of humanity, returning love that the Earth has given for so long. The Earth has no desire and no design that is preferred to demonstrate evolution in a destructive way. It is time for human consciousness to demonstrate to the rest of the life of the Earth--harmonious, cooperative, and supportive loving enlightenment. Humanity is the living Earth's vehicle of consciousness to provide this.

Return here often, dear one, for rejuvenation, clarity, and connection.

Hobol speaks on preparing for the next phase of involvement

Dec. 17, 1999 B

JANU: We have with us this afternoon a representative of this tradition, that being one named "Hobol," who speaks with us at this time regarding the initiation into this opportunity. He comes to us being announced by the creator of these globes and understandings and we defer now to our connection with him and his presentation.

HOBOL: Yes, greetings, brother. I am Hobol, representing as it were this tradition you have referred to as the Wheeyah Codes and seventeen globes located in the mountains of Antarctica of your world. We bring to you at this time an introduction to that which pertains to your embrace of this opportunity to proceed further. We must ask at this time that you accommodate to that which is needed for this movement, that being a relationship of trust and honoring of that which is to be revealed to you and accessed by you in the ensuing months to come.

Please remain focused and attuned for the moments to come at this time for the adjustments to be made. This initiation process will encompass certain alignments of your energetic fields and your legacy of life involvements up to this point. Larger than, of course, this one sojourn, you understand. We will paint for you on your viewscreen that symbol which best represents this particular path of discovery...this being the fine crosshairs with a globe in each quadrant representing the four corners of the Earth, its primary pattern for its creation which embodies its potential, you see.

Your own pattern of creating, of creation, is being superimposed upon this symbol, demonstrating your commitment to, and embrace of, serving this world on which you reside at this moment.

We will let this continue for some time. You may be about your business of the day while we continue. This will take several hours of your time this afternoon. Please proceed then and we will continue at the next opportunity, with your lessons.

More about the purpose of the Globes

Feb. 25, 2000 C

JANU: We are aware of your request to visit the complex located at Antarctica and giving you a glimpse that this complex has its counterparts elsewhere for the first time. These globes are so positioned as to form a pattern, a signature if you will, for their location on your world. This signature forms, along with others in other locations, a complex pattern leading to more arcane realities. However, for today's purposes, let us continue then with a survey of this arrangement.

Yes, there are seventeen globes in number, not all at the same elevation. Each one containing multi-dimensional realities of complex instruction sets for patterned memory recall and alignments of the integrity of being to what could be called a grid or network hierarchy. As earlier instructed, this opportunity affords the ability to communicate directly with the Earth in its own recognition patterns, language if you will, but there is more to it than that. But this necessary first phase prepares one for the nature of communication that this complex afford.

We bring you now up to date with a jumping off point, if you will, for our next adventure in understanding and connection through these. Let's return then, now, to Globe One Level One to begin the process. Or should we say, to continue the process already begun. You are correct. In a sense, as you awaken to this reality and its complexity, you merge with it reality in a way that allows the use of this complex. Allow your consciousness to shape itself in the pattern of this first Globe....You understand, then, that Level One is not a particular position in this globe but an awakened certain level or quality of consciousness. Mastering this, then, leads to each level.

You are correct. There is a correlation between the reason this complex is made of globes and so are your worlds. The Earth in its way is such a globe. Understanding and mastering this complex prepares you for the same experience with your world; therefore the purpose filled in the ability to communicate with your world. As you can see, this globe's realities are not static by any means but are dynamic and in motion. ...

This dome has it own greeter that you will meet shortly. And this greeter will escort you on your journeys through this process.

That is sufficient at this time. We will continue with the next opportunity in much the same way. Please proceed then with this process. We bid you good afternoon, my brother, and namaste.

The meaning of Globe One Level One

Aug. 31, 2001 B

JANU: I am Janu speaking, assembling again that needed for penetration into the understanding and application of the reality of globes called the Wheeyah Codes. We continue, then, this series apprised of your interest to continue the adventure. The underlying theme of interest, the awakening of humanity, has merit. Let us continue then as we speak of this matter.

Arranging, then, your natural elements to this configuration of the first globe. We now witness the minute energetic particle activations throughout the configuration of the vehicles. Allow this to continue for you are beginning to assimilate the essence of this globe as a complete unit, while discovering each level of understanding. The Greeter will be announced soon, but not at this time. This globe configuration, as you can sense, allows for simultaneous equilibrium and balance of multiple realities. As you can sense, the globe is not fixed in one specific location but is, rather, suspended and in motion for it is not a physical reality but a construct in consciousness and thought, with a destiny that survives ages according to your reckoning.

As you can see, as you more completely embrace this reality, assimilate it, an opening of light takes place representing a portal for entrance into the truth that awaits you. Become one with this portal, even as you have accomplished this with the globe. Become the portal. Become its light. Slowly, so that the vehicles can adjust. You are now a globe with an opening portal of light. Embracing the first level of understanding, that being that you and the world on which you live, are one truth, one life, one destiny. Continuing this assimilation you will achieve that needed to complete this level. Absolutely essential to progress through these levels.

You will experience and become one with the energetic realities of your world and its destiny. As you will learn, these globes were constructed in harmonious cooperation with the life of your world. The Wheeyah facilitated these but they are of the Earth and its domain. There are many treasures, many so-called secrets, to be revealed, bringing a broad understanding to the reality of your world, its destiny, and its co-existence with many other realities. What you achieve in this process of assimilation of larger truth will awaken you to the ability to assimilate the rest of life. And by "assimilate" we mean "incorporate" these patterns of life into your consciousness.

Retain then that you have achieved at this time, bringing closure to this journey. But with an expansion of consciousness that does not diminish with the closing, you see. Peace, our brother, and namaste.

A portal of light

Oct. 14, 2002 B

JANU: The Wheeyah Codes are those that bring forth an understanding and relationship with the nature of your world that transcends any current understanding of the scope of this reality. The potential here for achieving levels of awakening yet to be described is significant. Let us proceed then with this Wheeyah understanding.

Configuring then an alliance between your vehicles and the patterns of this first globe to begin as we speak. Let us so configure and awaken once more as the portal of light understanding of this globe. ...

Yes, my brother. Now enter this light portal. It is like a tunnel although brief....

Light portal integration in Globe One

Dec. 23, 2002 B

JANU: Let us begin then this evening's journey into that reality, the Wheeyah Codes, these grand and glorious spheres of consciousness and understanding that exist so brightly in the region of Antarctica of your world, placed there so many eons ago by those who serve your world in inestimable ways. Following, then, this dictum of this progression of awakening, we shall include this evening's adventure into understanding the portal of light in Globe Number One.

This portal region in this sphere of understanding expands within you as you become one with this portal and its design to engage the reality of this sphere. We shall begin this evening by advancing this understanding and the experience of light portal integration into our focus. Be at peace, then, embracing this new experience. The Wheeyah Codes were designed with this as part of the awakening of the traveler.

Portal adjustment for each one who would enter determines the shape of the journey. This process will take a few moments. ...

You are learning, our brother, the ways of the Light, the allowing for all truths to be and serve their purpose. Savor this moment, then, our brother, until your return. Namaste.

The training resumes

Apr. 20, 2005 B

JANU: I am Janu speaking, arranging then this episode, a journey into the legacy of the Wheeyah, the Codes of Understanding, the language of the Earth, Gaia. Let us proceed then at this time, returning then to the first globe, level 1, and the Greeter who serves.

Now then, let us estimate at this time the alignment for this return. These alignments or reconfigurations are necessary, for what is to be achieved here is nothing less than Earth-consciousness, the language of nature, the impressions for understanding and service. Reaching into this first globe, one discovers that these configurations are seed patterns within the nature of the individual. Needless to say, the scope of this is not to be undertaken haphazardly or with impatience. Communication with Earth will begin in Globe Number Three of seventeen. Let us get on with these initiations.

Globe One, Level One, deals with the natural alignments of your energy centers, bodies, for in time these will be categorized as to the nature of their affinity for the energy centers of the Earth. The species of the Earth will, in time, learn to trust this communication. And be mindful that, once established, you will become aware of a rich area of life and be called upon to participate in a variety of ways. The Wheeyah chambers are sealed with a golden light that marks the boundaries of each stage. These are there to serve those who would partake of them, what they have to offer, ensuring that entering each stage, the individual is properly prepared, and for their integrity as well. ...

Yes, we are through.

Globe One, Level One

Nov. 8, 2005 B

JANU: Examples of this understanding are stored within the hearts and breasts, so to speak, of the enablers for this adventure in understanding. The ability to decode the language of your world signifies a lesson learned in the establishment of a vortex of understanding, anchored in the consciousness (meaning yours), the counterpart of which is the consciousness of your world. To excel in this matter one must be deliberate and responsive to the urgings of the mind-to-mind patterning.

This element of awakening, becoming more conscious, will serve well the establishment of communication with other worlds, as well. For you may not have considered that worlds are in communication with each other and share a common mode of communication. There is such a reality as 'universal language,' not words but interconnecting patterns of energy and consciousness and mind.

Your entire being is a transceiver, so to speak, and forms more complete communication. The Wheeyah Codes understand this, embody this, and recover this ability when engaged.

Let us proceed, then, to Globe One, Level One, to continue. Manifesting, then, this experience in your reality through the intimacy of ingesting of pattern as described earlier today. ... As you are perceiving, the color shifting is part of this communication and is used to build pattern enhancements. ...

Intimacy of communication is suspect by those yet to understand the nature of oneness and connection with life. The sovereign being remains so when intimate with the Light of Truth. Progressing through the globes and levels of the Wheeyah Codes successfully will bring many changes in understanding and ability.

A return to the Codes and Earth's core memory

May 14, 2012

JANU: I am Janu speaking, welcoming this opportunity to proceed in the revelations of the larger understandings of life. We continue, then, this morning with the configuration of the Earth's core and that which you have called the Wheeyah Codes of your recent study.

Earth's core memory is just that, the foundation for its adventure in life. The core memory of your being, your Earth journey, is rooted there. To be conscious of this reality brings you an understanding as to the nature of being on this world. Many who visit from other realms, other worlds, are learning of this and some have known this reality. We continue with this understanding for the purpose of laying the foundation for other revelations in your life here.

The Earth extends its reach, its connection, with the rest of the solar system, relating to the core memories of the solar bodies. What this accomplishes is a clearer anticipation of its destiny and its potential. This you may accomplish as well, in a similar manner. The Wheeyah Codes, as you may suspect, are a vast treasury of such understanding, justifying their reason for existence. Those who laid down these Codes, in these globes in Antarctica, understood these and their importance, their significance, to the evolution of humanity and the Earth. They are an attempt to re-unite the consciousness of the world and its population.

And you are correct. We shall continue with these explorations of the Wheeyah Codes, should you accept. They are vital and significant to the many revelations to come. We encourage this and support it. Namaste.

Become the globe, the levels are within

June 6, 2012

JANU: There begins a dialogue with that which pertains to the elevation of consciousness into direct communication with the Earth and all of its life. These are known as the Wheeyah Codes. Let us move then into the first globe, announcing our presence and summoning a joining with this reality.

There exists within each a primary development of consciousness that is akin to and attuned to the reality of its platform of existence, in this case, your Earth. Each globe is so programmed, to respond in this manner to the enquiring consciousness. The programming in this first globe, of which there are seventeen, magnifies the source of this enquiry, meaning your consciousness, into a vibrational state responsive to its reality. As this rate rises, into full pattern recognition, let there be then an absorption of this magnification. You are becoming one with this globe, as you are aware. That is the beginning of attunement.

Allow, then, the alignment of your body's vehicles of expression to become as this globe. So you see, then, the levels of completion of understanding are within you as well. Really become the globe and, by this, become the Earth as well and all of its life. It is a beginning to a larger reality.

Linger in this, that it become a natural experience of acclimation. ... Your connection with the living Earth is beginning. Namaste, our brother.

Globe One explained

July 7, 2012

JANU: May we agree then this morning to engage that which is announced as the Wheeyah Codes, a repository of experiential instruction of communication in the nature of the language of the Earth. A legacy left by the Wheeyah, long ago, residing then within the mountains of Antarctica. Let us proceed then to Globe One of this seventeen globe chain and begin.

Merge, then, with Globe One in your consciousness and become the globe. As you do, begin the assimilation of that which it contains for you. Globe One consists of the fundamental patterns of alignment configuration to make possible a connection with the Earth as a conscious being. There will occur, then, in due course a growing awareness and appreciation of the complex dynamics of the Earth reality, its energetic structures, destiny, and nurturing benefits for humanity and its creatures. ...

As you can see, the connection yields visuals of that that exists all over the Earth's surface. This is just a beginning, our brother. Far more to come. Globe One configures you for direct observation and the beginnings of understanding of that observed. This is not yet interaction, primarily observation. In time you and the Earth will take journeys together, sharing your concerns and services. In due course, you will sense changes in the Earth and understand their relationship with the creatures of the Earth.

Leave, then, an image of your pattern with this first globe for the purpose of return, losing nothing of what has been gained. We withdraw at this time and namaste.

Globe One experience

Aug. 13, 2012

JANU: May we begin this morning's journey by establishing our connection, as in our last journey, with Globe One. Become the globe. ... Yes, you are experiencing changes and enhancements, alignments, and greater freedom from limitation. ... That is correct. Become the globe; do not project.

(At this point, there was the extended experience of observing Earth and all its aspects/elements.)

Yes, our brother, this is true. Mastering Earth communication leads to mastering communication with other worlds. The revelations are endless.

Thank you, our brother. That is sufficient for today. Until we return, namaste.

Observe without controlling content

Sept. 20, 2012 A

JANU: The Wheeyah, as you put it, as they have been so named, have installed a great legacy in these globes we visit. Communication with the Earth and all that it is opens the door to communication with the rest of life, other worlds, other realities.

To begin with, one must learn and experience and develop the ability to observe the life that is the Earth, in this first globe. This globe represents the beginning of adapting to, opening to a new experience for humanity, that transcends every mode of communication currently in use. Let us take our position now this morning, in Globe One, as Globe One, and observe life intimately, with clarity and understanding. ... Yes, that is correct. Allow this process to proceed, as we observe together. ... That is correct. Your form of communication with us will change as well. ...

Earth/Gaia: a very fluid and complex being

Nov. 2, 2012

JANU: Let us absorb the reality of Globe One, the initial phase of observing the Earth and the understanding of Gaia through the communication of that reality. We announce our arrival, then, to the keepers of this system of globes, learning and developing the skills of direct communication with life through its own natural form of communication. Allowing these adjustments to take place, we grow in this communication as observer for the time being. Observe, our brother, and learn. Begin at this time. ...

So you see, our brother, the Earth—Gaia—is vast in complexity, constant motion, and a fluid life. Much to appreciate and observe. Until next time, our brother. Namaste.

Globe One—roamed the atmosphere when the globe disappeared

Dec. 16, 2012

JANU: The Wheeyah Codes are an understanding that transcends time from a certain point of view, that being the tradition of the basic communication of life throughout its reality. These codes are a preparation for those who have lost touch with this basic tradition in nature, in life, of direct communication, direct knowing, direct support and assistance, a direct relationship. These codes represent the best that has been offered the Earth and humanity. They have survived eons of time and are maintained.

This morning we venture once again into Globe One, the globe of observation and awakening to the presence of life, in this case the Earth, communicating in its natural way. Let us enter and become one with this globe. Allow your consciousness to merge with, to absorb this reality and experience the Earth, collectively and any element of it, in an intimate way.

Yes, this globe is not a containment. It is the opposite. When connected, you see everything, in every direction, all at once. Observe, our brother, and experience the presence of life all around you. ...

As you begin to understand, the globe is you and you are the globe. And when joined in this way, the globe disappears as something separate, something to be within, for you are, in truth, our brother, all that it affords. So linger in that and allow it to be yours. No longer limited by the physical body, you are now free to roam life.

Yes, even as you wander through the atmosphere of Earth, there is much life to experience. (This experience lasted for some time.)

On our next visit, we shall roam the oceans of the world in the same way. Allow the memory of this experience, and its freedom, to linger and grow with each visit. Namaste, our brother.

A light blue dome over Los Angeles

Jan. 25, 2013

JANU: As you have imagined, these globes reveal the most when you become the globe. This first globe, the observation globe, recommends this by its nature, its design, and, in time, you will realize that in this process not only do you observe the Earth and understand its reality, but your own as well. For how can you observe and understand more of life itself and its creation and not be included in that? For you are that creation, as well, you see.

Now then, let us turn our attention to Globe One. Allow the joining. And, yes, the Wheeyah still exist. You will discover their fingerprints, so to speak, on this project, for how could they construct this as a legacy and not have the ability to function in this way? Yes, you are now aware of the globe from within. Realizing that observation is more than visual, all of the senses are engaged. As you become one with the globe, the globe disappears. Rather than containing your senses, it now allows them greater freedom.

This time, we will observe Los Angeles, including the instability of the Earth. There is a soft glow in this area, very light blue in color, caused by those who are open to a deeper understanding of life and their own nature. The tradition of society here is somewhat less structured and contained by tradition than elsewhere. One of this area's gifts to the nation is those who have adopted this lifestyle and attitude and then move to other locations and live their lives influenced in this way. Los Angeles will remain buoyant and, in its own way, freer to explore, and this light blue dome will be nurtured by those who walk this path.

There is, of course, much else here, but this is our observation at this time. Softening our journey then, we return to the globe of observation, grateful to the Wheeyah for their legacy. Namaste, our brother.

Seeing the colors of life that are the Earth

March 7, 2013

JANU: I am Janu speaking, embracing the architecture of awakening and communication with the Earth known as the Wheeyah Codes. We are situated to engage Globe One of seventeen, called the Observation Globe. Let us move then into a configuration that embraces oneness with that globe, becoming it to a degree, and developing the ability to observe by way of this architecture.

Now, the Wheeyah who left these globes observed the Earth through this structure, this relationship, and considered it the beginning of communication. Now, understand this, our brother: As you observe the Earth, the Earth is aware of you as well, and in this configuration the awareness becomes more complete.

What we observe this morning are the energetic realities of the Earth. You see the blue corona that caps the poles. The low temperatures in these regions are indicative of the energy level; therefore, the blue coronas, you see. Monitoring these is a good indicator of Earth changes. Changes in the energy fields of the Earth reveal these. The structures and functioning of the planet are linked directly to energetic realities; therefore the wisdom in this observation globe to see and understand the Earth in its completeness. It is a living system, our brother.

This shade of blue, being light, indicates the warming of the poles, moving from a darker blue during so-called Ice Ages. Light green will begin to appear, mixed with the blue, in time as the Earth warms. Bands of red encircle the Earth more towards the equator, you see, but they are patchier, more sporadic and on the move. Areas of vegetation and dense forest cast a pink glow, energetically speaking.

The deserts of the world are more gray in color, with patchy, small areas of emerald green. Small elements of changing color, from turquoise to amethyst, these are from mineral deposits of which there are many beneath the sands, you see. Not easily mined for the shifting of the sands. The oceans then are more of a swirling color, shifting nature, for the currents are on the move, changing temperatures and moving minerals around the world.

Part of humanity's contribution to this rainbow of colors is a grayness from the pollution and bursts of darkness from areas of warring and conflict, disease and poverty. If only humanity could observe its behavior in this way.

Seen in this way, the Earth is quite beautiful that reveals much to the visitor who perceives these. Let us gently withdraw at this time, leaving this globe in peace and gratitude to the Wheeyah for their gift. Namaste, our brother.

Understanding Earth's energy reality

Apr. 17, 2013

JANU: I am Janu speaking, remembering then this morning our journeys in this direction of communication with the Earth. Now this communication we speak of has little or nothing to do with words, language, spoken language. It has to do with consciousness, embracing the reality of the Earth on all levels. Very little communication takes place with words by comparison.

In this sense of reality, the unity and oneness of life speaks to this, for your body is definitely of the Earth and the Earth is aware of these legacies of the Wheeyah and meets you there. Let us begin, then, with today's journey.

Today's journey is Globe One, the observation globe. You ask if these globes have been used before. They have, our brother. A few humans but more by those who visit the Earth, for there are those who are familiar with this tradition left by the Wheeyah and these globes exist elsewhere. The programming of each globe is determined by the nature of each world and the consciousness of those who inhabit it. So yours are not identical to others, but the purpose is the same.

Today's observation is not based upon visual perception but experiencing the energetic nature of the Earth. Allow yourself, in a sense, to be the Earth. Yes, the Earth experiences reactions to the irritating nature of some of humanity's behavior. We've shown you the visual of a horse's skin twitching to be free of the flies, you see. Something similar takes place with the Earth, for the pain of humanity's infliction upon itself is felt by the Earth. It experiences these energies. Attempts to dissipate them through absorption and energetic encapsulation.

The Earth modifies its energy focuses or concentrations as it moves through the seasons. The weather patterns respond to many of these. There is much to learn here of the distribution, flow and movement of energies, and their response to many influences. However, be aware that these energies are part of causation for weather changes, tectonic movements, migrations, ocean currents, and the patterns of movement and change beneath the Earth's mantle.

There are energy vortices around the world that come and go. Some of these alter gravitational field, which is not a constant. The Earth is like a symphony of many sources of pattern, vibration, energy that accomplish the life of the Earth and everything on it and in it. The finer of these are in harmony with—meaning communication with—the solar system and other worlds. The record of these, which lie within the consciousness of the Earth, are knowable through these lessons.

What we accomplish here in this beginning globe, our brother, is a foundation of appreciation for the magnitude of the reality of the Earth and its complexities and its life. And it does have consciousness. You will discover these more fully in subsequent globes.

The magnitude of these Codes is beyond the grasp of most, but can be achieved, which is their purpose. Namaste, our brother, as we soften our presence in this globe.

Many simultaneous existences

June 7, 2013

JANU: We have with us this morning the opportunity to expand our journey involving the Wheeyah Codes, a discipline of awakening to communication with the Earth and an understanding of its life. Entering Globe One again, the observation globe, one of seventeen located in the mountains of Antarctica.

Let us allow the consciousness to become attuned to, one with the nature of this globe and what it offers. Be aware, then, that communication includes more than the physical Earth but its many subtler realities. Therefore, observation will include the higher frequency octaves of life that co-exist within the unity of life that is this world.

Challenging is the observation that opens you to considering your existence in multi-realities simultaneously and rather than a single persona of third dimensional human; therefore the need for identity-shifting to your True Nature as an anchor, as a foundation for the countless realities of your existence in and beyond space-time. It takes seventeen globes, our brother, to reveal this range of understanding. You will no longer understand the Earth as an isolated physical world, isolated in space, insulated from the rest of life, and neither are you. For even as an individual consciousness on this world, you are a being with cosmic consciousness connected to all of life.

So settle into this globe experience, our brother, and observe. Listen to the vitality, communication, and thoughts of so many that exist beyond physicality, that thrive within the parameters of their existence, including your own nature, which is your connection to all of these.

This is a good beginning, our brother, and enough for today. Remaining one with your experience, we withdraw from this globe, and namaste.

Observation through cosmic consciousness

July 28, 2013

JANU: Let us attune to Globe One, the Observation Globe and begin. It should be more natural for you to attune to and be one as the Earth in all of its realities.

As you can see, each reality has its own glow or color of emanation. A golden glow being your first observation, though the hues vary, depending upon not only the vibrational rate, but the life content as well. Remember, this is the observational globe and not for communication or conversation, but to observe.

Yes, as you see, you can observe all over the Earth as well as human activity. Not limited to the present, you see.

As you see, you observe without judgment of any kind. Just observe.

Yes, even the observations of others are yours to observe.

Even the life of trees all over the world unfolds before you. All of life has its story to tell, through observation and oneness.

This is part of the journey of cosmic consciousness.

Non-visual observations

Sept. 18, 2013

JANU: Continuing this series on the Wheeyah Codes, we progress to Globe One, the observation globe, and continue to develop this faculty for engaging the Earth through direct observation. For there is much to observe, our brother, to appreciate the scope of the reality of the Earth and its many elements, bringing understanding as a foundation for further development. Let us then now allow the configuration to begin, being as one with this globe.

It is less a situation of you seeing through the globe but seeing as the globe, perceiving the Earth through observation in harmony with configuration of this sphere. Be the globe. The Earth is accustomed to its presence, its reality, for it exists in many ways as the Earth does. Otherwise, it would not be as naturally effective for humanity.

Our attention now is on volcanoes and the role they play in the balancing of the forces of the Earth and its movements. There is a rhythm of what you might call breathing, for the Earth slowly, gently, expands and contracts like a wave moving around the planet, for the land is floating and fluid-like in its movements. And this is why the mantle finds areas of escape, and these contribute to the cooling of the planet over time and, to some degree, regulate the mantle and core temperatures. It is a worldwide system of self-regulation, bringing balance to many dynamics.

Chile and Argentina ride this wave more so than other areas. Europe used to, and will again. Antarctica, where these globes are located, is very quiet.

Now, all observation with this globe is not limited to visual, but motion can be sensed, pressure, radiation, movements in the atmosphere, all of the pressures and gravitational influences, and humanity's influence, and the arrival of extra-terrestrials and their craft, the influence of solar radiations, and the movements of other worlds and moons and bodies in the solar system. Much to be observed here, for the Earth is not an island isolated from the rest of life. It is connected.

This first globe is a foundation spread far and wide for what awaits in the next sixteen globes, and the evolution in consciousness, our brother, and the Wheeyah knew this, designed these, and left them for humanity to grow into a much larger relationship with life and each other. They represent and offer a wonderful journey into a larger life. These experiences remain with you.

Being one with the Earth

Nov. 8, 2013

JANU: This morning's journey continues with Globe One, the observation globe. Let us proceed then to pattern match, become one with.

What you are observing at this time is the Earth's energetic radiations and exchange with life itself and other creations. This is not only true for the Earth but for all bodies of life. It appears as a wispy mist of radiant beams, completely surrounding the Earth. And as you look more closely, these radiations are dynamic, in motion, for, you see, the Earth has a life presence as does everyone. The Earth is conscious of this and communicates constantly with the rest of life. We speak of the awakening of humanity. Humanity would do well to become aware of the Earth's awakened presence in life, for there are common elements.

Now, these emanations from the Earth do not originate on the surface exclusively. There is much energy, in the form of heat source and others, from the core of the Earth. These emanations do not deplete the Earth's energy but are a vehicle, a medium for replenishment. For life is a sea of energy and the Earth has mastered this exchange.

So, exploring the Earth is not just a matter of boring holes through its crust and journeying, for all that it radiates through it and from it, to be understood by the rest of life, by any part of life. The presence of the globe you occupy at the moment is known to the Earth, even as we speak, and it offers or assigns an element of its awareness for your success in communication and understanding, for it will benefit from this as will you.

One does more than just observe the Earth in this globe, but senses, experiences the motions of the Earth, its rhythms and pulses, the cadence of its life and it is possible, once awareness is made, to align your cadence with the vast resources and life of the Earth, for your body is part of it. You are physically made from the Earth. A stranger no longer.

Allow your consciousness to become one with all the movements of the Earth: its atmosphere, its surface, all the way through the crust and mantle to the core, its energy flows and radiations. Experience its life. A worthwhile element in the evolution of humanity is a growing awareness across humanity of intimacy with the Earth. It has many secrets to reveal to its children.

The many realities of Earth

Dec. 22, 2013

JANU: Globe One, the Observation Globe, is still our focus. Let us journey in that direction and pattern-match.

In the past, you've had a tendency to interpret these globes as 17 physical locations. They co-exist, our brother, and are stages of awareness, of consciousness. And as you engage them and master them, you become one with the Earth consciously. So, observation with this understanding is 'becoming one with the Earth with all that you are.' How else would you envision becoming conscious universally and still being a separate observer? Now, this seems a precarious reality from the point of view of individuality. Individuality, our brother, is the more precarious of the two for it means functioning—or attempting to—without the benefit of understanding the rest of life.

So, for today's journey let us observe in this way. For these globes are not separate from the Earth, they exist with permission from the Earth, and were designed and created in this way.

Today's journey of observation is a growing intimacy of awareness and experience of the rhythms of the Earth. One has a tendency to observe physicality as something separate from energetic reality. The nature of physicality is energetic, with rhythms and pulses of life attuned to these. Yes, you are experiencing the life of it, the vitality, the living presence. You think you are small compared to the Earth and insignificant. In these moments, Earth has a heightened awareness of your presence and the relationship begins to grow. Every part of the Earth is conscious in its way and can be related to, communicated with, mutually beneficial.

The Earth has many levels of consciousness, for it exists in many realities, as do you. It is a shift in perspective to observe life in this way. All of creation is imbued with life. Humanity would do well to consider the balances that maintain the Earth's integrity, as it consumes resources and modifies its existence. There is a price for mis-management of life in this, in this sense.

When you engage these globes, you awaken aspects of your own existence and retain these. So these journeys, our brother, do not end, but continue by way of the changes and memories. Namaste.

Preparing for service to the Earth and humanity

Feb. 13, 2014

JANU: We have with us this morning the Wheeyah Code experience. Returning once more to the Observation Globe One to continue our experience of communication with the Earth. Applying the current attunement principles, we shall enhance our adaptation. ... This is correct, our brother. The attunement is occurring and progressing. Let us proceed.

Today's connection with the Earth has to do with its conscious connection with other worlds and other realities. It is in contact with seven other worlds of mutual exchange, including energetic transfers and universal support for patterns of existence. This globe transfers to the observer a dynamic energetic pattern, not only for return but to share in the journey of the Earth on so many levels.

Even the Wheeyah who created these globes benefited from them and the patterns of the Earth remain as part of their consciousness and memory, facilitating their return from time to time. For the most part, they will not engage these journeys we are taking unless requested to do so. Even then, this is subject to their discernment.

Developing certain abilities of communication and service to the Earth will be needed in times to come, for the Earth has challenges as well as does humanity. The integrity of the Earth will be served as well as that of humanity, working together to bring balance during change. It will be possible to reverse our view, from time to time, for a glimpse of what is to come in these globes and your own development. But for now, thank you, our brother, and namaste.

Exploring oneness to a varied experience

Apr. 9, 2014

JANU: The Wheeyah Codes, as such, are a multi-phasic reality, lending them to benefit, to be used by, many realities, the consciousness of humanity being but one. And your world is not the only world with these codes, for the Wheeyah have visited many and left their legacy. So it is not impossible, when achieving the benefit of these codes, to become aware of more than the language of the Earth, the Earth Mother.

So, let us proceed to Globe One, the Observation Globe, and achieve oneness.

As you can see, from this oneness perspective the globe appears to be enormous in size spatially speaking. Others of your world have visited these globes, and some still do. As you are becoming aware, the benefit of this globe is not just vision but the perception of hearing as well. Not with the ears or the eyes, but with the consciousness. You can see, so to speak, regions of the Earth, the population centers, and even individuals, and hear the sounds, the voices, and the communications, even as if they were in the globe with you. That is the intimacy of oneness, our brother, when in harmony with life.

Now we move across the face of the Earth, observing as we go. Pausing over China, in the marketplaces. Two males wrestle with mutual competition and support as vendors, bemoaning the low sales and number of people. Moving on. ...

Let us focus now on the Observation Globe, departing in peace, to return again, continuing the adventure and the revelations. You can see the oneness, the degree of it, can be expanded, focused, and slowly withdrawn, to any degree you choose. It is done gently, in a natural way, honoring the integrity of every observed reality. Namaste.