

Awakening into the Larger Life

(Awakening IV)

Awakening is a process, and has become the basic premise behind these journeys over the past several years. In 2016, a series was begun on the basic process. This then switched to looking at associations and collaborations with the Family of Life, although studies of the process itself also continued. As this second series became unwieldy and lengthy, it became apparent that a shift had occurred again, more towards a focus on the reality of a Larger Life, so another series was begun. There is, of course, some overlap between these two series, but as many of the journeys had already been posted as part of the second series, it was too complicated to sift them out. The last three journeys within "Awakening II-Associations and Collaborations" are duplicated in this, but don't assume they are the only ones relevant.

In case the curious reader wonders at my math, "Awakening III" is a series of journeys which are particular to my personal growth and not of interest to others.

1. Experiencing who you really are

Aug. 30, 2017

JANU: Pairing up, then, has to do with connection. How does one consciousness connect with another? It is by means of common interest and compassion. Why does one care for another? And not for another? It has to do with that which binds a family: a sense of being part of each other, connected, and over time a history of relationship. Some encounters remind one of these feelings, these times, and there is a natural motivation to feed and nurture these connections.

You ask if one can turn that attention to oneself to find peace, confidence, and connection with who they are? The answer is yes, our brother. Accomplishing this to some degree revitalizes compassion and connection with others. For most, these connections are personal. To establish them with strangers is a challenge. The larger life of consciousness provides perspective on doing just that. So, loving one's self is a product of understanding who you are, knowing who you are, remembering who you are. Your True Nature is part of this, for there is the wisdom, the memories, the understandings, the history of being, of countless encounters, associations, and performance.

This understanding, this connection is beyond words. They limit you and channel understanding into limited venues. They are poor substitute for direct experience. Allow memories to blossom, re-establish themselves in the consciousness. They bring understanding with them. Do not filter them with words. Choose to know directly. Allow this richness to flow freely from the core of your nature and be, once again, who you are.

Your True Nature is an expression of life, unique yet one. Understand others in this way. Namaste.

2. Cycles of Life

Sept.15, 2017

JANU: You ask, "How large is the Larger Life?" Life is in cycles, our brother. The Larger Life referred to is the current cycle. Even life renews its expression, its presence, its journey, its evolution and outcomes. So even the term 'Larger Life' is in motion. However, the journey in this cycle plays its role in experience and wisdom for the continuation of these cycles of life. There is a thread, you see, connecting all cycles of life that is a theme full of oneness. Oneness in principle and purpose and potential.

You ask if there is consciousness or continuity not limited by any one cycle of life. There is, our brother, but cannot be described in these limited words. Most of the content of a cycle of life is beyond words.

Wisdom is gained through experience. So how does one then experience most fully their journey in any cycle of life? By awakening to the experience, its full depth and breadth, and its potential. The awakening of humanity is essential; otherwise the life cycle continues to replicate itself in smaller cycles until fully experienced by the consciousness of life by those that walk its journey. Awakening is the clearest path to the full experience of living through the cycles of life. This is why 'awakening' is the theme of these journeys, to become more conscious of the Larger Life that you already are.

Now, the grand experiences that are most useful to you do not come with a sign advertising their merit. Follow your instincts, your intuition, your inner guidance when choosing whether to or not engage an opportunity, for there is a part of you that understands potential and its expression through opportunities. Enjoy awakening. It is a rich path of discovery, realization, and an evolving consciousness. It enriches the cycles of life. Namaste.

3. The reality of awakening

Sept. 18, 2017 B

JANU: We are acknowledging the purpose of these journeys: in a larger way the awakening of humanity. Now, who is to say everything that includes? But the direction is fairly universal: being more conscious of who you are in the larger life, the integrity of the True Nature.

The elements of this vary beyond number, but the theme is the same. Profound connection beyond petty differences, a wholistic view of life and oneself. Understanding the differences that make up the tapestry of life, the changing patterns that create new ones. Understanding the diversity of life and the strength that brings. Exploration and achievement that enriches life. The oneness of the micro- and macro- realities. Awareness of reality beyond space/time. The coexistence of everything and the relationships that exist of these. Generosity, patience, peace, love, endurance, commitment, confidence, and wonder, joy and light-heartedness, the transformation of struggle into achievement. Awakening is all of this and so much more. Namaste.

4. A larger perspective

Sept. 19, 2017

JANU: Being at peace, one can survey any part of life and understand it, without agreement or disagreement, but the isness of it. Each part of life has a guiding principle, meaning its potential. The results of these principles are the diversity of life, its 'net sum' so to speak, and its evolving potential. Walking the journeys of life, some call sojourns, brings direct experience and a measure of ownership. The True Nature records all of this as it evolves as well. True Peace finds no condemnation of the diversities of life, but understands them and their role in Life's tapestry. The net result of life is beyond wisdom and experience, which words cannot describe, but the evidence of it is the life that you can. So the larger view we speak of renders perspective for all that it contains. Namaste.

5. Physical and non-physical networking

Sept. 19, 2017 B

JANU: The term 'domain name' comes to mind, relating to those of the Internet set. Each one has a 'domain name' in their nature identifying their human journey. A domain name is unique to the individual. It can be read by anyone, but not altered. The integrity of the domain name is maintained by the authority for it, which is your True Nature. The domain can receive messages and deliver them. The domain can be added to, modified, enriched, and intentionally blocked to whatever degree from time to time. The Internet is a reflection of a part of the larger life of being and communicating.

Corruption is not a viable reality, but can appear to be so in the realm of human consciousness subject to fears, misperceptions, misdirection, abuse, psychiatric and physical illness. So true identity, true domain reality for each one can always be returned to for restructuring, reorganization, rejuvenation of the human consciousness, the human psyche, and physicality. The natural equivalent of the Internet has many more capabilities and is changing and evolving.

The reason we refer to this is so that many can relate to the larger life, of which the incarnate life is a reflection, in some ways. There is networking, our brother, in non-physical reality beyond time/space. But even there integrity is respected, for without this chaos would ensue. Eventually, technology in the human experience will render the physical Internet a place of integrity, especially as humans awaken and discover their own. Once again, the benefit of awakening to the larger life. Namaste.

6. Life beyond time/space

Sept. 20, 2017

JANU: Important is the significance of the human journey as it pertains to the expansion of consciousness. Scattered through the universe, incarnate beings exist beyond number. Yes, there are clusters of them in some areas, but most are widely spread, some distance from each other. Humanity is such a one. As consciousness evolves, distance becomes more irrelevant where connection is made, understanding and experience shared, and diversity of life more and more revealed.

Humanity's contribution to this, in its potential, is the quest for brotherhood. Grouping for mutual benefit and strength through diversity are human hallmarks. The seeming isolation between worlds presents a challenge. A challenge embraced by humanity. Distance as a function of time/space is overcome by awakening to the journeys of the larger life. Humanity has these abilities, when awakened to them, taking exploration and wisdom gaining to higher levels.

Humanity's achievements in this direction will be a catalyst for many worlds moving in this direction. Everything will change. As the nations of the Earth fight each other for dominance, physically, economically, grouping will dominate these petty differences as a model for joining other worlds. In the journeys of consciousness, the technology, so-called, of consciousness will contribute to discoveries more rapidly than physical technology.

The distances and their challenges between worlds finding common ground and experience has its purpose. There are alternatives to these physical distances and the challenges they present when employing more of the True Nature. Once again, the need for the awakening of humanity to take a larger view of resources yet to be discovered. Not created so much as discovered and employed. Many possibilities exist beyond a time/space perspective. Only one among many that coexist. And the human consciousness and its larger reality has access.

The human journey and experience is not the beginning of everything, but a step along the way. The True Nature is a wider, larger reality of who you are. Expand your time/space perspective of life to include this and enjoy the discoveries. Namaste.

7. More on a larger perspective

Sept. 20, 2017 B

JANU: We are continuing, as we may, a diatribe on the evolution of life. What sustains it? Does it have a beginning? And is there reality larger than it?

What we see here is an addressing of that which belongs to the arcane of the arcane, reaching into the depths of non-being. You might ask, "Why explore this?" The reason, our brother, is that even-mindedness is useful when observing and experiencing Life's many diversities and apparently or seemingly counter-productive realities that include violence and suffering. How can all of these coexist: self-destruction, regeneration, creativity? And what is love? Does it play a role in the activities, consciousness and perspective, the creations of everyone and everything? And is the role different somehow in non-physical realities?

Life is discovering the answer to these questions through its creations. All this observed, recorded, and continued by choice within the parameters of each existence. For life is designed to continue, to manifest everything no matter the reality. Awakening to the larger life is a journey into the reason for the questions and the answers, as even they evolve. Everything plays a role in the Tapestry of Life and then moves on, to play another role.

As we journey these many realities, our brother, find peace in their existence. A peace that allows, understands, and serves everything. And yes, every no-thing. Namaste.

8. Understanding integrity

Sept. 21, 2017

JANU: What is integrity, then, that sustains the evolution of life, its infinite diversities and levels of reality? Integrity is a sustaining of pattern, life patterns. Even though they evolve and change, they have integrity. As your thoughts change, your mind has integrity and it evolves as well, you see. Even the illusion of stasis has integrity. The wind is changing constantly, but it is still wind.

So how does integrity relate to your own consciousness and being? Life in motion is the pulse of life, change, evolution, re-creation, rejuvenation, modification, but it is still life. And where does that integrity come from? What is its origin, not as a beginning but as an ongoing presence? Without integrity, what would you build upon as a co-creator? The universe has integrity. With all of its changes, destructions, and re-creations, it is still the universe. When a person, a human, explores life, stumbling and falling, rising again, even if this means death and rebirth, integrity allows this to be. So it is with your True Nature. Its integrity is the foundation for incarnation, but the integrity of this is in combination with, cooperation with, the integrity of the Earth, of which the physical body is part.

So, you see, our brother, integrity is everywhere and all-important. Your life expresses integrity, which gives it meaning and purpose. This is why all of life, all of its creations, all of its expressions, interactions, are allowed. It is the fundamental integrity of life to be and become. Integrity is everywhere, every when, every reality.

Let this understanding guide your decisions, your relationships, your self-love, your caring for another. Namaste.

9. More on awakening

Sept. 22, 2017

JANU: Unencumbered by limited perception, these journeys portray life in a larger way. Human consciousness, for the most part, has a perception of life limited to physical reality with hints of something more. These journeys partake of what brings the consciousness and perceptions of life into realities that shine light upon the truth of the existence of physical life. Possibilities many would call 'magic' are commonplace in larger realities of life.

Seeing life and identity in a larger way brings about many changes. One of the most important is that existence is not limited to the life span of a physical body. One moves beyond this perception; the mind entertains ongoing existence. Putting the sojourn in this perspective makes life planning, decision-making, and a sense of importance or significance revealed in new ways.

The conflicts in the world are seen for what they are. Solutions become apparent, otherwise seen as impossible. Difficult for those identified with the conflicts. The schism between religions and their philosophies and the issues of society can be overcome, both being the products of unenlightened human identity consciousness. All of these created by people. Yet all of these live with the truth within them, but so identified with old patterns that the truth of their own natures are unknown to them.

Awakening is so important, our brother. It changes everything. Expanding your identity to perceive a larger life is rich beyond measure. So these journeys, you see, will continue to put the attention towards awakening. Namaste.

10. Choosing the larger life now

Sept. 25, 2017

JANU: We are overcoming, if you will, the illusions, diversions, the deceptions, the distractions of incarnate life, for the true peace of the presence of the larger life and True Nature. Many consider that so-called physical death is a release from these. Yes and no, our brother, for the consciousness is imprinted and until it recovers from these disturbing influences, these patterns, their imprint continues until processed. The notion that suicide is an escape from a troubled life is an over-simplification of the transition process. Awakening assists greatly in resolving these issues while incarnate, making for a more trouble-free transition, even conscious transition, pain-free, a journey into Light.

So, you see, a journey of this nature can begin while incarnate. Replacing these troublesome patterns with ones that are joy-filled, the identity transforms from 'troubled human' to 'free and solid being' embracing the love of life. Choosing, then, is always the prerogative. Knowing what to choose, our brother, is revealed through awakening. Human suffering, conflict, is not the way of the larger life. It only continues by choice, and ignorance.

So embrace the larger life through awakening, even now. Change the imprint in the consciousness, for you do take that with you, to varying degrees. Live in the Light even while incarnate. The afterlife does not require transition. Merge the two into one through awakening. Namaste.

11. The collective genius of humanity

Sept. 25, 2017 B

JANU: We are portraying for you, if you will, the scenario of heredity. The dreams and hopes and visions of so many will coalesce into a future quite unlike the entanglements of the moment. Part of the key to this is the awakening of humanity to their true power, their true genius, their capabilities as co-creators led from within, creating from that wisdom their destiny.

Many are concerned as to the future of humanity's existence on another world. With time and distance being insurmountable, there is more than one way to travel, you see. Humanity has the potential to overcome these physical realities, but moving to another world to start over, so to speak, is not the reprieve anticipated. Awakening is. Where will you find the wisdom to make these changes successfully? You will find it within you, the larger you that already knows your potential. Researching existence only within the framework of time/space will limit you to it. Reality is so much larger than that.

Humanity has all the resources it needs from the Earth to create a bright future, once it awakens to use those resources more wisely. What seems like insurmountable obstacle can turn around in a moment when a different path is understood and a more conscious humanity moves with it. Life patterns do not have to run their course, so to speak. They can be replaced with a vision and understanding of a better way. The collective genius of humanity awaits. Namaste.

12. The Saints of old

Sept. 26, 2017B

JANU: We are then welcoming that which belongs to the saints of old, meaning their adopted parentage. By this we mean that which they all had in common: the tradition of serving life, enriching it, honoring it. These saints were not the only ones pure in heart and awakening consciousness, for many followed their lead but were unknown to society, to the Church, to those who were not of such consciousness. Turning your attention to the larger life with humility, commitment, while at peace brings about this change in consciousness. The divinity they served was the truth within that they owned by experiencing it directly. They served life not for reward but because it became their nature. Their Family of Life is vast and eternal; associations while incarnate are of the moment.

Humanity is headed in this direction, our brother. It will leave ignorance behind for a more profitable life. Humanity's quest for riches is a no-thing, for there is no intrinsic value. Prosperity is seen quite differently.

The churches honor these but do not own what they experienced. Male and female have passed this way, and will again, for they continue to evolve. Those who struggle to survive and at times succumb will find their peace and be lifted by those who are the Family of Life. Namaste.

13. Touching life patterns

Sept. 27, 2017

JANU: We are encouraging then at this time the prolonged alignment with that which precipitates encounters with other life forms. By this we mean an openness to the patterns of life that exhibit consciousness and contribution to the flow of life. Life patterns have origins, our brother, and so do humans, including their True Natures. Awakening includes this.

When attuning to this reality, the awareness begins with essential nature of these patterns. The form follows in the experience. The life patterns are fluid and take many forms, sometimes simultaneously. So, while attuning to a form it can be a fleeting experience for the patterns we speak of are, in part, beyond time/space. So how does one perceive the essential nature of a life pattern? By touching it with your own, our brother. Whenever one pattern embraces or engages another, there is communication. There is an exchange of awareness. Let not your perception be limited by the human perception that is limited by physical form for there to be meaning and understanding.

Touching life patterns in this way quickens and awakens your consciousness so that the depth of perception becomes more complete. Sensing the presence of another not physically present is a beginning. The same is true for sensing the presence of a truth or reality in understanding beyond evidence of any source. Touching life patterns from this liberated point of view reveals reality far richer than living without this.

So, as a more conscious being touch other life patterns, including your own. Begin slowly, our brother. Namaste.

14. A cosmic change in human consciousness

Sept. 28, 2017

JANU: We are assembling then at this time the notion that humanity is preparing for an apocalyptic event but mostly unaware of this. The event constitutes a cosmic shift in the perception of life. Parochial notions, perceptions, limited to daily human endeavor is going to change dramatically into the universal presence of life and interconnectedness, personally and collectively. At first, humanity—its leaders and groups—will be confused as to beneficial response. In other words, not knowing what to make of it.

Be assured, our brother, this major change will settle down into a new perspective on life that will open the door to greater harmony and collaboration between the many elements of society. The seeming foolishness of so many in governments is the death-knell of so many misperceptions. Clarity comes from awakening, which is not born of limited and conflicting life. Humanity's consciousness is responding to a catalyst from within, connected to the larger life which is ever changing.

15. Evolving identity

Sept. 29, 2017

JANU: Elevating the consciousness above and beyond the clatter and distractions of the moment paves the way for clearer communication. Not to ignore the elements of living, but to put them into perspective. Choosing, then, the reality you experience is not denial of other realities, but brings clarity to the moment, allowing for intent to be focused and engagement to be more pure. Let us proceed then in this moment of choice as we begin to announce the overtures of peace made by the assemblage from the larger life.

Humanity is destined for changes as other realities of living come to the fore. Identities will be shifting to a larger reality of being, opening the way to more profound perceptions as to the nature one is. The new possibilities and capabilities will be revealed. Life is a continuous process, not to remain stuck, so to speak, but in motion. Humanity is and will be evolving. The nature of identity is shifting. Limitations of perceptions of appearance, of differences, stature, race, intelligence will become far less important. Perceptions of the True Nature of each other will replace these limited perceptions. Mutual caring and respect and honoring of each one's abilities will take their rightful place in society.

The evolution of the elements of society is the result of the evolution of consciousness and the many characteristics of awakening. This vast resource from within is being discovered and put into play. Even the perceptions of what is important in your life are changing. "Who and what am I?" is the question of the moment. No one can answer this for you, except the Truth of who you are. Are you listening? Namaste.

16. Exploring sanity and insanity

Oct. 2, 2017 B

JANU: You ask, "Where does one draw the line between sanity and insanity, between creativity and destruction, between love and indifference?" The line, our brother, is drawn in the reality of your True Nature. Placing your trust in the wisdom of the divinity of your being, the evidence of which is the True Nature of Life itself, can hardly be unwise. Now, when considering the universe, there is creativity and destruction simultaneously. Both have the purpose of recycling life, renewing reconfiguration and exploration of potential.

So how do you compare the reality of this to one's own consciousness and performance during their sojourn? The same applies, but it is easy to lose sight of larger purpose and the evolution of life without awakening to the larger truth of who you are. So, you see, sanity is the truth behind everything, whether understood or not. But it is revealed when the consciousness awakens to more and more of the larger life, the larger truth of your being. So, forgive yourself and others what some call 'mistakes,'

'indiscretions,' hurtful and destructive expression and be grateful for that which recycles and rejuvenates creation, providing for evolving opportunities and deeper understanding to the Truth of Life. Find peace and even-mindedness in this. Namaste.

17. True Freedom and the Now

Oct. 3, 2017

JANU: Certainty in life is a misnomer. Even probability is tenuous. Confidence in endless opportunity, evolution, and awakening are constants to build upon and with. Living in the Now takes full advantage of these for it allows, moment by moment, progression of the constants of life. Difficult concept to inspire in others, and in one's self, for the human consciousness and experience is based upon time and space, limits, borders, identities, definitions. Living in the Now does not ignore these but has a relationship with these and far more.

True freedom, our brother, in thought and understanding is realized once more when no longer limited by the human time/space identity. True peace is found in a measure of this Now experience. These journeys are larger than time/space, not contained within limits. The communication of these is limited by language but their nature is not. Learning, or allowing oneself, to experience life without limits is a journey in freedom to be at one with any reality.

Whether a being is incarnate or not, they are still a consciousness, sentient, pliable, and part of life. Experience the larger Family of Life and your own True Nature through this model of consciousness. True freedom, our brother. Namaste.

18. The miracle of oneness

Oct. 4, 2017

JANU: Self-realization of the oneness of your True Nature is complementary to awakening. In this understanding, your True Nature includes your human experience and others. Prior to this, one is identified as a separate existence from that oneness. Observations and assessments of life beyond your own are more complete with the awakening consciousness of the collective reality of oneness. The duality mind has difficulty embracing simultaneous existence of uniqueness and oneness.

This is not difficult to accomplish. It is a matter of choosing and allowing. Individual identities can distract. The larger understanding of unity of these overcomes this, overcoming the disconnect of the veil. This allows for perceptions of life to deepen, broaden in scope, and become more intimate. Shared understandings are more truthful. The communication moves beyond words, which are only symbols of meaning and are ambiguous.

Journeying through life in this way allows for experiencing the richness of life and its endless variety. And, yes, this applies to your daily incarnate routine, allowing for a more sane relationship with perceived needs and desires and associations. Namaste.

19. Adapting to change

Oct. 6, 2017

JANU: Reaching, then, into the guise of normalcy, one finds a wide range of life expression not limited to the incarnate life. Serenity in the midst of changes is an ideal that fosters adaptability. Change is not stressful by nature. Your chosen relationship to change can be. Hanging on to any part of your life, never wishing it to change, is a fantasy, an illusion of the unawakened consciousness.

So, what does one hang on to, then, our brother? Adaptability, creativity, deepening understanding, and awareness of the layers of reality. Life is in motion. Let your consciousness be also, and all of its attributes. Changing your life is not a failure of anything, but a reality based on the nature of life itself.

So, find comfort in adaptability, not the absence of change. A longer lasting and enduring peace will result. Touching your life in this way, one senses its vitality, presence, and wonder. Miracles have been and are here, and are coming. Be aware of them. Embrace them. Understand them. And move on. Namaste.

20. Taking your turn on the wheel of life

Oct. 6, 2017 B

JANU: We are opening, then, to that which assesses determination and skill when endeavoring to awaken to explore life and one's own nature. One need not seek confirmation of this from any other source, other than who and what you are. The assessment we speak of is continuous and always has been.

Understanding, experiencing, and knowing who you are is a refreshing experience, for it eliminates doubt as to your veracity and builds confidence in proceeding. Confusion is fostered by doubt. How many miracles of insight does one need to overcome doubt as to their larger life? Revelations are part of the nature of life, for life is motivated and your existence is part of this, and so is everyone else. Every creation carries some form of this motivation. Awakening is discovering your own, what motivates you to continue to pursue, to explore, to create, to succeed, to understand, and, in some way, enrich life.

Opportunities for this come and go. Allowing who you are is a reflection of the nature of life. A love of family while incarnate and its many attributes is a shadow reality of the larger Family of Life of which you are a part. Experiencing the results of continuing to awaken, have endless moments of joy, grateful for what you experience but always open to an even richer life. How can one be bored with that for a future? Take your turn on the wheel of life and keep moving. Namaste.

21. Experiencing the Now reality

Oct. 8, 2017

JANU: Assembled at this time, the understanding of the Now experience. What then is this ability to 'be in the now' that transcends time and space limitation, borders, concepts of limits, inevitability and struggle? It liberates the consciousness from constraints, past and future, even the current understandings of the present. For the present, for most, is based upon past experience and projections into the future. The Now lets go of these tuggings at the consciousness, no longer evaluating each other by past deeds, past expressions of living, and future projections.

Entertain the experience that you are a free and pure being and everyone else is, as well. In the Now consciousness, one realizes the reason for the veil. For even though veiled, your consciousness has its roots in the sovereignty of free and unlimited being. The structure from incarnate life is far from peaceful, but the consciousness can transcend this with the larger identity. The path of awakening leads to this. Choose to remember your origin, your true freedom. Be at peace. Namaste.

22. Regaining confidence in living

Oct. 10, 2017

JANU: Reaching into the depths of the human aspect of consciousness, let there be known that anxieties as such are born of a depletion of confidence in one's identity, that identity being fallible, subject to disturbing emotions and perspectives. The remedy for this is success in the life in the sense of compatibility, creativity, and accomplishment. One purpose in incarnating is to achieve these experiences, you see, bring them into the fore of awareness, building confidence based on experience to evolve and embrace more of life.

The most fulfilling support that anyone can realize is their True Nature, for it has the advantage of vast experience and wisdom, and resources with the Family of Life. Taking nothing away from the human identity, but embellishing it with insight. The human might ask, "Why would the True Nature do this?" For the simple reason, our brother, that the True Nature is you and you are it and are one. Do you not encourage the health and prosperity of the physical body as a vehicle for experiencing of life successfully? Well, the human consciousness is such an expression of life, interfacing with physical reality to evolve and enrich the reality of all that you are.

Confidence in the moment, in the future, in existence is encouraged and inspired by all that you are. Restoring confidence in life is part of the path of awakening, for your vision becomes clearer, encompasses more, and understands the layers of reality. No one is permanently consigned to the darkness of life. The Light has always existed and attracts the consciousness into awakening. Namaste.

23. Gender balance in society and leadership is coming

Oct. 11, 2017 B

JANU: 'Matron' saints we explore, for there is coming a time when recognition of these, through their consciousness and grand service, will become a highly honored reality. Human groups in the past found their leadership and their wisdom in this, some Native American tribes and many old cultures. Male dominance was forced into the forum by warring and the use of force. Superficial intelligence of the moment has been dominating humanity's cultures since the change.

The pendulum swings, and male dominance will give way to a balance of the wisdom of genders in harmony as one. Many male bastions will defy this change, but the results of their dominance in human history will reveal their penchant for conflict and brutality as a runaway reality of destruction left unchecked by a feminine perspective. Any individual male or female has greater wisdom and insight when both polarities of consciousness find union. The same is true for human society.

This is a big step for humanity in its evolution, but the deeper insights from a more balanced perspective will change everything. Another threshold on the journey of human consciousness. Namaste.

24. Awakening is an inclusive reality

Oct. 12, 2017

JANU: Scurrying about, as people are wont to do, leaves little time for reflection and introspection. Awakening, you see, is a supportive reality to the incarnate life, providing opportunity for less frantic existence. Inner and outer life merge as one and the qualities of both agendas cooperate as one. As you observe the lives of others and your own, changing society in this direction seems out of touch with reality and an elusive concept.

Hyperactivity and hyper-thinking and emotions have a noisy life of their own and dominate the perception of life in lieu of awakening. Timeframes become deadlines without room for alternatives. Distances seem vast and unobtainable without a larger perspective.

Physical travel is not the only path to experience understanding and wisdom. Physical reality has its merits but are limited. Without awakening in consciousness, they contain you. Life is one and connected, our brother. Awakening serves the evolution of all realities coexisting as one. Experiencing these realities intimately is beyond the limits of physical travel, you see.

Time/space does not define life; it is only a small part of it. Time/space does not define you; your physical journey is a small part of it. Awakening is an inclusive reality, rejecting nothing but the freedom to embrace everything. Namaste, our brother.

25. Reaching across the void

Oct. 19, 2017

JANU: We are entering the next chapter, as you put it, of this new adventure—the reclaiming of a larger consciousness that includes the human experience and many others. Focusing attention exclusively in life refines experience but ignores, temporarily, original depth of understanding and reality. This journey is turning the focus back upon the True Nature and all that that means, returning once more to a home, so to speak, that has always been. Lifting the veil, as it is called, is letting go of it. The ability to do so is your heritage of the original agreement to incarnate.

It is a journey to appreciate the larger life and the journeys of so many exploring it. The human reality is one of many attempting to understand and experience a larger perspective of life with the limited perceptions of incarnate life. It seems at times destined for failure but remember: the human consciousness was never disconnected from the True Nature, which is still growing in its understanding of its own being. Shaking hands, so to speak, across the void is the path of return. This we have been doing, lo these many journeys. All is well. Namaste.

26. Celebrating life

Oct. 20, 2017

JANU: Ceremony, then, is the recall of the victory of your life in motion, also called ‘change.’ Life is a ceremony of sorts, you see, celebrating change, the flow of life. What we experience here in this new series is becoming one with the ceremony of the flow of life. Everything in your consciousness changing, evolving, reviewing, understanding, progressing, deepening, expanding. These changes that are coming herald the next. No need to struggle in frustration and a lack of seeming understanding. More called for is an attitude of celebration that life is flowing and everything is changing. The inherent vitality of life is expressed through change. The True Nature no longer a forgotten memory, but a larger identity of which your incarnate life is but one experience.

This is what is meant by ‘awakening,’ our brother, no longer satisfied with status quo, only tradition, and the awareness of yesterday. The ebb and flow of life is the changing pace of the process of change belonging to your destiny. So celebrate every moment, our brother. Anticipate change, new understanding, new capability, letting go of old patterns that no longer can block your view. No need to attempt to set the pace of change. Micro-management does not work well.

The expression of new understandings manifests changes, but in harmony with the natural flow of life, a product of awareness on many levels. Whatever you know, there is so much more, for whatever there is to know is evolving. All connected, you see. Even as we speak, our brother, you are celebrated, as are we. Namaste.

27. The many shades of the veil

Oct. 20, 2017 B

JANU: Let us presume, for the moment, that there exists a kind of demarcation described by ‘the veil.’ The journey of awakening presumes that there exists a reality without it. This is not so. The veil exists in many shades and many shadows. The purpose of this natural element of life and consciousness is to ensure that creative impulses, desires, agendas, maturity and immaturity are in a healthy balance with all of life. So, when pursuing the so-called lifting of the veil, this applies only to the next experience in awakening to the larger life and, to that degree, it is a continuous process and not limited to incarnate life or human identity experience.

So, understand the veil, our brother, in this larger way. It is a natural part of life linked to the current moment of consciousness and imminent potential. So, as we proceed with this new adventure, keep this in mind and allow for it. Namaste.

28. The transition into awareness

Oct. 25, 2017

JANU: We are easing into, then, this transition to the larger life. A seeming fantasy to many and a known reality to many more, but part of everyone’s nature. Becoming aware of something you are completely unaware of is an interesting transition in consciousness. The insight, the revelation that begins such a journey is allowed by your True Nature for it is always conscious with a vast resource of awareness.

So the focus here, you see, is the transition into larger consciousness. Sensing its presence is one thing; embracing it is another. But the process is the same for both, allowing the memory of, the presence of, the reality of who and what you are to be your awareness. These journeys are a portion of that.

We are not speaking of altered states of consciousness but the expansion of consciousness to include more of everything. Remember, awakening is inclusive, not deferential to any one part of reality, any one state of consciousness. There is much the human consciousness isn’t aware of that the True Nature is at one with. Both of these are who you are.

Conscious union with the larger life reveals its expressions, its creations, its relationships, its purpose, its realities. Even the human experience has far greater depth than many realize. Being part of life, it is rich with history, tradition, principle, creations, and potential. Allow yourself to remember. Open your consciousness to the Truth of Life, for you are part of it. Namaste.

29. More on the art of awakening

Oct. 30, 2017

JANU: Happening, once again, a foray into the art of awakening to your True Nature, to who you are.

Peace brings about many great things, foremost of which is listening. How can one be responsive to revelation when a revelation is unheard? Selective listening brings depth of focus. Selection is guided by the incarnate desire, and the wisdom and presence of the True Nature.

Peace allows for the coordination and balancing of your systems of being, physical and more. Peace clears the path toward happiness. Happiness without the need for a reason to be. Let us say again that the art of awakening includes the art of listening.

We talk of being responsive to revelation. Responding to the presence and insight of your True Nature is a challenge as well, you see, for human consciousness tends to dominate everything, as if it were the pinnacle of understanding. What we reach for here is coordination among the elements of consciousness, including the True Nature.

Coexistence of the realities of consciousness, of awareness, is a rich broth indeed in the so-called nurturing diet of evolving. Many flavors coexist in this broth to be savored, enjoyed, and satisfied. Each sojourn adds to this, as do any other existences. So allow the reality of listening to deepen, expand, and reveal. Namaste.

30. Awareness that 'We are one'

Oct. 31, 2017

JANU: Yes, we are one. Becoming more aware of this is part of the journey. The feelings and emotions are registered, life patterns, memories, thought processes. In a very real sense, our brother, your True Nature is incarnate. The only difference is the veil, to the incarnate consciousness. Experiencing life temporarily includes the veil in incarnate journey. Without this, the patterns of life that build understanding through experience would be more limited. Understanding that all that you are coexists in the incarnate journey as well, you see, becoming aware of this with a more fluid identity opens consciousness to so much more.

We are not suggesting here that the experience of the True Nature is limited to the incarnate journey, but includes it. The True Nature has simultaneous awareness on many levels, you see. This is why the single-minded incarnate consciousness can have access to so many realities through awakening. In some ways, your total being is like the Family of Life, not a single identity or reality. The limitations of form and identity are a small part of life, our brother. You are much more than this. We are one. Namaste.

31. The coexistence and synergism of all life

Nov. 8, 2017

JANU: We are addressing, if you will, the need for combined effort in the area of coexistence consciousness. The importance of this understanding is far beyond any one existence, for it speaks to and addresses through experience the synergism of life. Coexistence is not an acquired reality. It is the nature of life, for all of life coexists, you see; therefore, the one life is an understanding that prevails. Let there be, then, movement in this direction that everything is connected, for everything is from the One. Countless expressions of oneness. Even thoughts and understandings coexist; therefore, the thought of one aspect of life, one being, coexists with that of another and, together, they influence each other and the collective of life.

Why not, then, begin coexisting consciously with everything you observe? Not limiting the concept of coexistence to any one reality or form. So, the peace you profess and reach for coexists with the natural peace of life, of your True Nature. Experience the coexistence. No longer the separate things of limited understanding. The synergism of life is dynamic, evolving everywhere. Namaste, our brother.

32. The steppingstone of conscious coexistence

Nov. 8, 2017 B

JANU: We are coming straight away, so to speak, to the point that acknowledgement and embrace of the coexistence and presence of all that you are is another steppingstone on the path of awakening. We are not speaking here of just understanding, or philosophy, but direct experience. This steppingstone is worth owning through experience. The peace we speak of so often truly begins with this embrace. Let there be, then, no doubt as to this reality, which leads to endless succession of those steppingstones.

Now, think not of this as a linear experience, as one step to another, but a simultaneous one, where the consciousness has many layers that coexist as well. Allow this to be your experience. Let these experiences appear on their own, by being open to them. Allow this to unfold peacefully, naturally, without preferences or limitation. Your True Nature possesses the wisdom for this, which is who you are. Namaste.

33. Understand and experience the freedom to be

Nov. 10, 2017

JANU: Emblematic of the times, so to speak, is the persuasion that life exists in a simple scenario of incarnate life and so-called death, or heaven if you will. All about to change en masse.

Life is ongoing. The expression changes, the form, the reality, the so-called dimensions, for everything is in motion. Life continues, never exactly the same from one moment to the next. The only thing that dies is relationships from expressions of life. And even they linger in memory, patterns of life. So, to identify with any particular moment or expression of life, you can see its limitation. Living your life with a fluid identity, even to the point of no identity in common understanding, always changing, fluid but ongoing, enriching, influencing and being influenced by any part of life, is 'freedom to be' with no perception of limiting any other part of life from its freedom to be. Forms change. Relationships change. Life goes on.

So, what identity do you hang on to, do you insist upon, and why? You're free to do so, to varying degrees, but your True Nature, is much larger than that. Allow your incarnate consciousness to move with that of your True Nature, finding balance in any experience by way of it. If your life—and life is in motion—is your consciousness, are your thoughts, desires, feelings, values evolving? Experience the freedom of this, no longer locked into any life pattern but free to be. Namatse.

34. A journey of retrieval

Nov. 13, 2017

JANU: We are encouraging then at this time the playing of scenarios. The scenario for this journey embarks upon a path of retrieval. The recognition that we are one and, out of one, are many. The simultaneous existence of the elements of being and the unity of oneness is a collective reality that speaks to the dynamic diversity of life, which we represent. This is what awakening is, our brother, the journey of retrieval of the profound state of being in your consciousness that we are all one, united in the purpose of the evolution of life.

Now, for one element of our being, namely the human consciousness identity, to embrace this reality is a process of unfoldment. Impatience does not contribute; in fact, it pushes away, ignoring the process. Embracing and loving the process with profound respect and commitment is supported by all that you are. The revelation here is not of one philosophy or another, one truth or another, but an understanding of all of life and its synergism, of which we are a part. Wisdom, understanding, and compassion are a foundation for being part of the evolution of life.

Your resources are many. Surrounding yourself with some of them, many more are within and more still to be discovered and explored. We accomplish this as one, our brother, as we continue on these many journeys. Namaste.

35. Love as a theme for journeying

Nov. 14, 2017 B

JANU: The tapestry of the moment is to do with what might appear to some as the 'abyss' for its subtlety and imponderable realities, but a tapestry nonetheless to be experienced, to be explored. But this abyss is filled with Light, the Truth of Life, and from its vantage the outer life can be explored more fully, including the human journey.

Those who are unaware of the larger life are still part of it. Their awareness will come, for a part of them lives this larger life and is not ignorant of their current consciousness, of which there is nothing wrong. It just is.

As with any tapestry, it consists of many threads woven together, forming patterns, relationships, understandings, and creations. One creation is the many faces of love. Its presence is throughout life, a reality of peace, ongoingness, and the evolution of expression through the realities of life. Allow love to be a vehicle of experiencing the larger life, revealing its reality in each experience, each understanding.

Love is so much more than many understand. And we are still discovering its Light. Namaste.

36. Cooperation and collaboration

Nov. 15, 2017

JANU: We are enumerating once more the benefits of collaboration between the elements of your being. Coordination of this nature is essential to the continuation of awakening for it reveals to all the elements of your being your collective True Nature, which includes your human journey. Collaboration affords each element of your being to benefit from each other, no longer relying solely upon each element's contribution alone. We will continue to pursue this understanding and experience. One can understand, then, the need for fluid identity as they discover that their human experience is only a portion of who they are. But the human identity is useful as well as the others for it is a contribution to the collective, the total of who you are.

Everything matters. What we explore here is the perspective of how that can be. This is not only true for your own Nature, but the collective of humanity, the collective of True Natures, the collective of Life itself. Coordination, collaboration, shifting identities to support the need of the moment. This is the foundation for understanding the larger life. The larger life is you, and you are it. Oneness once again, an unlimited reality to understand and experience. Be at peace with this. Namaste.

37. Memories, a rich resource

Nov. 15, 2017

JANU: There is much to remember, our brother, for our memories are many and they continue to grow. Origins, life journeys, cultures, worlds, experiencing the creative mysteries of life, languages, philosophies, the science of life, created realities on every scale. To already evolving nature, relationships beyond number. Journeys of collaboration and achievements.

We begin wherever the interest is and the deep concerns. These journeys are a result of this, you see. They all have their foundation in memories, whether new or old. Experiences of your current interest in Drumvalo are just a part of smaller and greater memories. Each one has their gifts to life and from it, as well. Kindred spirits, we would say. Countless perspectives in the vastness of this tapestry. So, when exploring the journeys of others, put them in perspective. Understand what you may, but always be open to another perspective, for no one journey in understanding captures it all, you see.

The gem of life has many facets that glimmer and cast light upon the mysteries of life. We are one with this and offer what we have gained freely. Namaste.

38. A love-centered consciousness

Nov. 17, 2017

JANU: Love is the theme for journeying and peace is part of this, you see. The reality of the ongoingness of life, the isness of it, the universal and cosmic presence of it. Being aware of love's presence brings well-being to your being. We have spoken of identity. Love and peace are a good beginning for the discovery of, the return to the memory of the True Nature.

We know you have respected these journeys for those qualities inherent in the message. They are a beginning, our brother, to the larger life, being part of all of life with greater connection to explore it. The creative forces have these qualities, and others, as their nature. Attuning in this manner connects you with these more fully. Life creates itself, our brother, and re-creates. It is its nature. The human consciousness is always looking for boundaries, origins, beginnings and endings. You will not find these here. Consciousness is unlimited and not identified by any particular limitation.

Experience the presence of love as a causal reality at the heart of everything. A love-centered consciousness can know any part of life. And own it, but not owned by it. Remember, our brother, for this you know. Namaste.

39. More on a loving consciousness

Nov. 17, 2017 B

JANU: We are Janu speaking, with one voice. This goes hand in hand, our brother, with a loving consciousness, remembering its nature. Reaching only for the mechanics, so to speak, the structures of life and their relationships is devoid of an even greater, more powerful reality. And that is a loving consciousness in harmony with the nature of life itself for, in that reality, all can be revealed. This is not something you create. It already is.

Remembering is awakening, you see. Each one has so many memories, more than they are conscious of, having traveled many journeys. Love them into your consciousness for they are yours.

A loving consciousness survives all challenges, all experiences and experiments with living. Forgiveness is for a consciousness struggling towards this. A loving consciousness does not condemn or judge; therefore, forgiveness is not an issue. A loving consciousness encourages others to forgive themselves and move on. Learn from challenges. Remember your Nature and live peacefully. Namaste.

40. Loving

Nov. 20, 2017 B

JANU: Serving others, our brother, surely is a focus for these journeys. Let there be, then, an understanding of that when we're involved in serving life in different ways, different opportunities. The theme of these endeavors is to inspire the inner journey, the consciousness of the True Nature, remembering who you are, understanding more of life. Encouraging others that their inner life is real and available, and they are only as limited as they accept.

Life is precious and so is each one. Loving who you are is more powerful than forgiving who you are, for true love does not need to forgive. As the body ages and becomes more infirm, who you are does not. The bodies come and go but you continue.

Allow loving to become more and more a way of living. Loving yourself is the path to loving another, for it inspires them. Every service to love you embrace includes you. How can it be otherwise? Life always responds to pure love for it is part of everything and changes your perspective about everything. Namaste.

41. Capability and opportunity to serve

Nov. 21, 2017

JANU: We are energized by revelations and understanding as to more of the nature of service. Let there begin, then, an evolution in this area of understanding of the relationship between capability and opportunity to serve. These have always existed; clear understanding has not, on the part of participants. Even the receiver of service does not always understand their role in the opportunity. But struggling with this, one realizes the effort must continue and refinement will ensue. As capability deepens, increases, evolves, so do opportunities. Matching them to each other is not an exact science, for human interpretation has many variables.

Life continues to evolve the way of commitment even in the midst of the awkwardness and, at times, ineffectiveness. Be true to your motives, your incentives, your inspirations. Apply them as you may, gently, with patience and growing and deepening awareness of what is involved. Namaste.

42. Conscious union

Nov. 22, 2017

JANU: We are moving closer to, our brother, conscious union. We are one, always have been and always will be. Once more speaking as one voice, made of many. This excursion into incarnate existence brings many opportunities to the fore. One discovers and experiences their own True Nature through these excursions. Subtly at first, unbeknownst to the incarnate consciousness but nonetheless suspected on some level. As the sojourn incorporates more experiences, challenges and opportunities, involvement of the entire being, the True Nature becomes known.

By agreement with the protocols of incarnating, the consciousness is only aware of the human experience. Returning consciously to the reality of our True Nature, the human experience benefits from deeper insight, understanding, and wisdom. The essential love of Life itself becomes known more fully. Engaging life consciously takes on many dimensions, many realities. And as one does, one realizes these realities are part of their Nature.

So you see, conscious union is not an isolated experience, but a more universal one, including the rest of life. Embracing conscious union is 'touching the hem of the garment' of your existence and, in turn, the existence of everything and everyone. Namaste.

43. A threshold for human awakening

Nov. 22, 2017 B

JANU: We are calling this meeting at this time to pursue an interest of affiliation with the contingency designed to facilitate the mastering of new thresholds for human consciousness. This contingency elevates vast numbers of worlds into timely thresholds of awakening.

The Earth is on such a threshold, you see. This contingency is responding. It utilizes automatically the consciousness of those aligned significantly with human awakening, to benefit everyone. We are part of this. How could it be otherwise with the theme of our journeys being ‘the awakening of humanity?’ This truly is a blessing for humanity. Namaste.

44. Each one is the Holy Chalice

Nov. 23, 2017 B

JANU: We are speaking in such a way as to lead to the cup of life brimming over. The Chalice so many have searched for is their own being, filled with opportunity, potential, and the wisdom of many sojourns and experiences. Seeing your being as a chalice for Life to fill makes you a brother in the Christ understanding. The Holy Chalice, so-called, has always been who you are. Fill it frequently with the nectar of life by allowing it not just to be filled but to provide for others, to inspire each one to fill themselves from the fountain of life. Set not Divine Truths. Sip it from yourself. The truth of the so-called ‘Great Ones’ is yours as well. Accept nothing less and be open to even more. Awaken to and remember all that you are. Live this to inspire others. Namaste.

45. Holding the ideal of awakening

Nov. 24, 2017

JANU: What we see at this time belongs to guesswork as to the management of awakening. As we have suggested before, awakening is not something you do; it is something you allow, which includes memory and a growing sensitivity to the presence of the larger life of your being.

Hold the ideal of your consciousness as an open door for your True Nature to reconnect consciously with the part of itself called the human consciousness. This seems a stranger to most, for they have been long without this connection consciously. But it is who you are, our brother; it is who we are. Hold the ideal that opens the door for your True Nature to be revealed to you.

We say again: we are one, always have been, always will be. Allow the veil to lift and be at peace. Namaste.

46. Peaceful engagement of living

Nov. 27, 2017

JANU: Peace, then, is the opportunity, and obstacle, for many. Engaging the pressures and hectic nature of daily life in the human journey seems anything but peaceful. Yet peace and engagement can go hand in hand, leading toward greater insight into the management of life and access to inner resources on many levels.

This model of living takes some practice, when unaccustomed to it, but the lesson applies here of holding an ideal. (LINK to Ideal of awakening, Dec. 24) The ideal here for this opportunity is to be at peace in the midst of challenges, demands of the day, so to speak. There is a great reserve and resource of the nature of this, not only within the True Nature but many resources of life. Peaceful engagement is the theme here, no matter the engagement. Growing in understanding of the true nature of peace occurs in conjunction with this ideal.

Practice being conscious of a lack of peace, different levels of stress, and the energies involved. Peace is not a withdrawing from life but a better way of engaging it. Frustration, hostility, and anger, abuse of any kind, judgement, condemnation, fear are some of the markers of these energies. Recognize them as they begin, not after they've done their damage to your peacefulness. Gratitude, loving patience, tolerance, understanding, contribution, service, happiness and joy, victory accomplished masterfully are peaceful alternatives.

Life allows a wide range, a wide spectrum of understanding and behavior. Take the time to choose wisely as it becomes a way of living. Namaste.

47. Life responds to holding ideal for awakening

Nov. 28, 2017

JANU: The Light of understanding is inherently available at all times, limited only by perceptions of identity and isolation. These controlling measures by the individual allow for the process of discovery and experience, bringing a level of ownership to the Truth of Life by each participant. But this state of awareness is fluid and a function of maturity of consciousness, bringing a global awareness of the Tapestry of Life.

Now, the True Nature plays a role in this process and is aware of larger issues, in coordination with, connection with many elements of life and their relationship with this process. Holding the ideal for revelations does not mean that all is given at once or that which is still beyond the bounds of the process of awakening. Peace includes a perception and awareness that all is unfolding in an orderly way.

The flow of life includes much yet to be experienced but the flow is there, our brother, as is the Truth of Life some call 'the Light.' Being at peace and in the flow opens the consciousness to its place in the larger life. Namaste.

48. Goodwill

Nov. 29, 2017

JANU: Goodwill is the theme this morning, our brother. It opens the door to the many blessings of love, including compassion, forgiveness, patience, understanding and wise counsel, even sacrifice, sensitivity to the needs of another. And, through all of this, a growing understanding of one's own nature. Goodwill is the direction to change everything in human society. Lack of this fosters isolation, anger, frustration, 'lashing out' if you will.

Goodwill has a peaceful nature that touches that nature in others. Goodwill is reciprocal and entices another to 'pay it forward' if you will. For some, goodwill creates vulnerability, but only if you expect something in return. Placing a price on goodwill contradicts it. Goodwill is a unifying experience with the creative forces of life, the destiny of humanity, and much larger issues and opportunities. Goodwill is outgoing and not reclusive. Goodwill is the great connector between strangers. Practice this, our brother, and namaste.

49. Miracles

Dec. 1, 2017

JANU: Enamored as you are of realized potential while incarnate, one must realize that life is not a 'level playing field' so to speak. Each one has different life patterns to work with. Some demonstrative lives, seeming to perform miracles, are only one life pattern of many, those being phenomenon-based. Manifestations of this nature serve to amaze, bring wonderment, but little understanding and ownership of one's own potential. This is useful to a degree, but there is so much more to be realized.

The goal in these journeys, our brother, is individual freedom, awakening, ownership, personal sovereignty and integrity, and an understanding and engagement of the larger life. Not everyone's miraculous life is the same. Realizing what you deeply care about is a miracle. Discovering your contribution to life that inspires you, and may inspire another, is a worthy goal.

Life is rich indeed, with many paths, destinies, and accomplishments. Be not envious of the miracles of another, but grateful for those of your own, for it all enriches life. Be true to what lives within you. Breathe life into it, and do your best to fulfill that potential. Namaste.

50. Commitment and beyond

Dec. 4, 2017

JANU: You speak of commitment to these journeys and awakening. Put in perspective, attune to the commitment of Life itself and those who serve it. The veil experience contributes to this being an issue for incarnate consciousness. Awakening ameliorates this into a way of living, being, becoming.

Limited consciousness under the veil conditions one to consider commitment an option to anything, even survival. Taking of one's own life is a limited understanding, for the reality of who you are continues in spite of this. So, little by little, commitment becomes a non-issue as one embraces the larger reality of who they are. So you see, our brother, the breath of life goes beyond commitment. It is your nature to be one with the life that you are. Commitment is a steppingstone while incarnate.

There are semi-awakened conditions on the path to freedom where choices might appear at issue with commitment. Oneness bridges all of this. So, awakening leads to a oneness consciousness with who you are. Namaste.

51. Sensing the presence of life

Dec. 5, 2017

JANU: The sense of presence, our brother, is one key element in awakening. For this to occur, the subtler elements of your being are awakened to and engaged by the consciousness. The five senses no longer describe all of perception. This quality of being is being re-gained and never truly lost. That's what awakening is: a return to awareness of the presence of the larger life, no matter the scope, the form, or the reality. Sensing the presence of any life--whether animate or not, whether incarnate or not--when embraced grows into its fullness, including your True Nature.

Your True Nature is keenly aware of your human consciousness, your incarnate existence, as a portion of itself. As you awaken to the truth of your being, part of the presence of life you are becoming aware of is who you are. Reciprocate by not closing yourself off to the presence of others, for the awakened consciousness gains intimacy in both directions, you see, with the rest of life.

Allow a sense of presence and the larger life will come alive to you with its vitality and its intimacy. This is part of loving life, our brother, and who you are. Namaste.

52. More on sensing the presence of life

Dec. 6, 2017

JANU: Sensing the presence of life is a theme begun on our last journey, part of the answer to "What is awakening?"

How does one explore a truth of life, a reality, when unaware of it? This key element to awakening deserves its due. A form of listening, you see, to the pulse of life, its presence, its vitality, its consciousness. Begin by sensing your own, verifying your existence and its ability to touch life and be touched by it. Touching life, you see, removes isolation, separation consciousness, the limiting borders incarnate life can represent.

Once again, one does not create this, but allows it, for it is part of your nature, your memory, your legacy by existing and interacting with the larger life. When your ideal is to serve life and not take advantage in a negative way, life responds. Generosity is returned, as is love.

Touching life is beyond words, our brother. A growing awareness transcends boundaries. Life has its protocols for engagement, with a wisdom that transcends ignorance. Multi-dimensional existence is understood through this touching, you see. Your frame of reference broadens and the journey is unlimited as life continues to evolve and re-create itself. Thank you, our brother, and namaste.

53. Conscious union, peace, and freedom

Dec. 7, 2017

JANU: Finding peace while incarnate through conscious union with all that you are is a grand journey, our brother. It speaks to the true nature of existing while incarnate as a being. Your consciousness as a being—or should we say, our consciousness as a being—is many faceted and active simultaneously on many levels. Your urge to disincarnate to avoid the unpleasantness of human existence is replaced with the reality of being, the superior reality of coexistence on all levels. Finding peace in this way is totally satisfying. The frustrations of the past consume your energies. Conscious union with all that you are is true freedom. Being at peace in the presence of all experiences relieves the depletion of energies through ignorance and unwarranted demands self-imposed. All is well, our brother. Namaste.

54. The Family of Life includes humanity

Dec. 7, 2017 B

JANU: We are observing with you today's exposure to the truth of another. Let there be, then, an understanding that there is truth everywhere of many flavors, perspectives, with many sources. Be grateful for and honor any truth that shines light upon life, any part of life. The Brotherhood of Light understands this and respects and honors all of these sources. When a fearful consciousness is seeded with such, what grows from this is the miracle of life. See in each other these miracles. Allow them to blossom in their own way, and we all reap benefits.

The Family of Life that we refer to includes your neighbors as well, and yourself. Most people are so much more than they realize. That's why our service to life is the awakening of humanity. Sovereign beings free to work together, support each other, inspire each other, and enrich life. The Family of Life, our brother, is incarnate as well. Help each other discover their own Light within. It is the path to freedom and the power to create. Namaste.

55. Moment by moment freedom

Dec. 8, 2017

JANU: Sealing relations condemns one to the limitations of the sealing, you see. Being incarnate is not what some would call a 'done deal.' It is a moment by moment agreement with life, cooperation, association, engagement. All creations are this way, our brother, fluid, adjustable, changing through content at any time. Life is a flexible reality. Nothing is written in stone, even commitments, plans if you will, destinies.

Being in relationships with elements of life is a moment by moment reality, never owned by circumstance. Being at peace leaves one free to understand each moment and its potential, to make choices that reflect desires and enrich the experience. Be not locked into any model of life as an inflexible reality. Continuous renewal, regeneration, and awakening is a life of freedom. Moment by moment, our brother. Even these journeys are engaged in this way. Namaste.

56. Profound respect and concern for others

Dec. 11, 2017

JANU: We are enumerating a discipline for the day, that being profound respect and consideration for others. In today's climate of social behavior, this theme would do well in serving humanity and its social consciousness. So much of consciousness is centered upon self as something separate from another, including all lifeforms on the Earth. Many speak of oneness and connectedness but seldom experience it, especially with a stranger, not to mention another lifeform. Now, some do, our brother, under special circumstances.

Connecting with another consciously and emotionally is a living exchange of the dynamic forces of life as they present themselves through living. Retribution or denial of intimacy is too often the case, for intimacy has a price, you see, and that is reciprocation. Moving beyond this is a liberation of the True Nature, what some would call 'soul,' for it lives a life that requires nothing in return. Altruism has its own reward and that is the love of your own being. And how many can truthfully say they own loving who they are? Many do not understand who they are, meaning their True Nature, that reality of their being.

This series on awakening endeavors to inspire this and return peace to the human experience. Be at peace and namaste.

57. The looping reality of life

Dec. 11, 2017 B

JANU: This journey takes on the form of, the parameters of, willingness to serve. Let each one know that service has much to be understood. Not just the service rendered, but its result and the state of consciousness that allows it. So you see, service is a reality that has a looping quality, with benefit that transcends what some would call the mundane. No service that is true is mundane.

What is service then, but the transmutation of challenges into manifest destiny, not just for people, if you will, but for every part of life? Serving is being served. Giving is receiving. Loving is being loved. Understanding is being understood. This is the looping reality of life and service facilitates this, for service includes all of these qualities and more.

Even as we speak, the flow of life that allows this is being enriched, and radiating, and connecting and communicating with much more than you are aware of, for there are many who listen and are responsive to contributions of various meaning and depth. This looping reality extends to all of life, on every level. Part of oneness, being connected one with another. One is never truly alone with their challenges, their victories.

Be aware of this reality as you may. Grow in your understanding of the looping reality of life. Namaste.

58. What is existence?

Dec. 13, 2017

JANU: We are establishing a beachhead, so to speak, on the shores of human consciousness with a mission of freedom. Awakening to the Larger Life is a reality to be savored and held in esteem. It is an acknowledgement of your existence.

Where does awareness reside? As an expression of life, you are a surrogate for its expression and expansion. Awareness is expanding throughout the universe and many of its realities. You ask if this exists for the creatures of the Earth, no matter their form or species? It does, our brother. Everything is life and all of life evolves.

There are many cycles of expression and experience. How does one know their existence, whether true or an illusion, whether permanent or temporary, and to what degree? Self-awareness is the beginning. The veil experiences begins that journey, or should we say, contributes to it. "What is existence, then?" you ask. It is life expressing, manifesting, realizing, absorbing its truth. Incarnate life is only part of this and does not exist isolated from the larger truths and existence.

The truth of existence is to be pondered, discovered, realized, and lived. Ask the question. Decide to know, and listen. Namaste.

59. Universal awakening

Dec. 14, 2017

JANU: We are focusing our attention upon the deliberations on these journeys and the journeys of others. Let us come together, then, in acknowledgement of this part of the Larger Family of Life, observing the ring of truth throughout. We have many brothers in the quest for awakening, which is not the exclusive experience of humanity, but of other venues as well. Many paths, countless different experiences and destinies. Humanity is part of the family of awakening and makes its contribution along the way.

Understand this, our brother: in a larger sense, life is awakening. All of creation is awakening. Awakening to its potential, its nature, its motivations, its desire to understand and own realities. So, when focusing on awakening, you see, be not isolated in the scope of your perception. Acknowledge the presence of the larger scope of awakening and a growing sense of connection with the universal reality of it.

We are all awakening, our brother. The mystery of Life revealed without end. Degrees of awakening are irrelevant compared to the reality of it. So, enjoy the journeys. Have confidence in the future and in the moment. Namaste.

60. A transitional moment

Dec. 18, 2017 B

JANU: We are favoring, if you will, this moment in the Archive of Time as it represents many transitional moments in the history of humanity that pertain to significant realizational thresholds.

The threshold of this time is true self-awareness and, through this transition, true awareness of each other. The common bond between entities is the true flow of life and its integrity. Presence is everywhere. You may shut your door on your neighbor but that does not block the presence, you see, of the True Nature and the integrity of their being.

This key moment in humanity's journey will extend to other species as well. The consciousness of the animal world is grand and vast indeed. All so-called creatures have their presence to be known. Visitors from other worlds as well. And, in time, with further development, other worlds as well, for time and space are only a moment in the presence of life.

This transition opens the consciousness to the presence of everything, to the awakening consciousness. Isolation is an illusion, and temporary. Connection, oneness continues. Grow in maturity to embrace the larger life in a balanced and peaceful way and all will benefit. Namaste, our brother.

61. The Middle Way

Dec. 20, 2017

JANU: We are responding then to your query as to purpose and meaning in the presence of the dichotomy of life of so-called good and bad, constructive destructive. Where does a person hang their hat and why?

From the larger point of view, Life allows the dichotomy, also allows the middle way. Neither extreme in the dichotomy of good and bad is the answer. The middle way allows for balance, compromise, mutual agreement, give and take, building a foundation to proceed with--that can deal with successfully--the dichotomies of life, yielding evolution, wisdom, maturity, insight, understanding, and the capacity to embrace the full reach of life. So, in answer to your query, ask the question, "What is the middle way?"

The middle way understands and embraces, bringing resolution to the full spectrum of life. Neither good nor bad, but profound in capacity and love for the opportunity to succeed. Namaste.

62. Successful living

Dec. 20, 2017 B

JANU: We recognize the need for prolonged understanding of the true nature of life. Now, beginning life successfully is a function of consciousness. And what do we mean by successfully, you ask. We mean embracing and realizing potential, and potential is fluid, not fixed in any way. The middle way we referred to previously is a beginning. This is a tradition of the evolution of consciousness well-established. Embracing the middle way includes creativity, which includes recycling, which includes evolving any realization of potential or creation and adding more to what has been, and still is. We of the Brotherhood of Light have long agreed with this and embrace even more.

These are steppingstones which lead to that which is more akin to Life. The human journey has much more potential than most realize. Unlimited, unrestricted perception, awareness and experience are part of successful living. Merging the human consciousness with that of the True Nature is an ongoing journey of self-realization. All that you see around you outwardly has reality as its source. The middle way, you see, includes everything in the spectrum of life. The duality existence of dichotomies is a beginning. Namaste.

63. More on conscious union

Dec. 21, 2017

JANU: The range of human experience in conscious union with their True Natures demonstrates many variations, from unconscious to conscious, from occasional to continuous. Much of this exists from human discipline and desire, but much more exists from what resides in the totality of the being. Many have the richness of experience of not only many lifetimes but a rich journey between them. The promptings of the True Nature play a role in this, you see. The challenges and opportunities in living incarnate trigger these responses, for the True Nature, you see, is always conscious, for your incarnate existence is a part of that consciousness.

Conscious union is part of the path of awakening, not to be seen as abnormal but uncommon, a natural part of life, bringing peace to the confusion of ignorance. Yes, this is a private journey yet still connected to, at one with, the rest of life. Conscious union is allowing your identity as a human being to expand to include all that you are, and all that you can be. Namaste.

64. Conscious Union and the Middle Way

Dec. 22, 2017

JANU: As you are experiencing, being conscious of the presence of another, whether incarnate or not, lets you experience the nature of their life, their existence, and their consciousness. It takes patience and tolerance, compassion, and a willingness to allow them their privacy and their own way of pursuing life. But compassion remains, without judgement but open to encouragement. Sensing the presence of another is more than just being aware of their existence, but the flavor of their existence, you see, the nature of it and their perspective. There is a balance in observing the life of another without judgement, allowing without interference, service without interference, understanding without interference, respecting the integrity of their own existence, holding them in the embrace of the Life that loves them.

Your own True Nature, our brother, has these protocols, if you will, in its relationship with your human consciousness. Conscious union is like shaking hands across the veil, coming to terms with mutual agreement, bringing peace to the challenges of living. Accomplishing this expands this reality for others, so they pursue this. Yes, our brother, this is the Middle Way. Namaste.

65. Patterns and cycles

Dec. 22, 2017 B

JANU: We are patterning into what proves to be another stage of development, forecasting the future based on patterns of the presence and inherent potential. We would say this as archetypical in the foundation laid for understanding the nature of this.

Let us begin by shaping this pattern of understanding with the portrayal, a scenario if you will. It is easy to predict the next heartbeat, for there is a pattern and a potential and the conditions for such. This includes a train of thought. It includes any repeating pattern, whether modified or not. It includes our next journey. All of these potential patterns repeating, developing, evolving, are subject to the existence of others, for everything impinges upon everything. No pattern of living exists in a vacuum, so to speak.

So observe life's cycles of repeating patterns, no matter the time changes, fluctuations, and repetitiveness. Some pattern cycles are larger than a sojourn, even the creation of the universe. So be aware of your thought patterns, emotional patterns, behavioral patterns in this way. Some events appear singular for there is little or no memory of a repetition. But the cycles, you see, may be much larger than your memory. Accomplishing this perception reveals the evidence of the oneness of life, the connectedness, and the cycles within cycles.

These revelations are all around you and in you. Ponder this understanding and consider what it reveals. Thank you, our brother, and namaste.

66. Peaceful awakening

Dec. 26, 2017

JANU: We are encouraging, then, the performance of what some would call futile attempts to embrace the larger life. Futility, our brother, only speaks of frustration and impatience and negativity. Embracing the larger life is natural and normal and a process that takes patience, courage, commitment, and a love of discovery with gratitude for every opportunity. Setting goals for awakening limits the process. The conscious human psyche by way of the veil cannot see the larger picture yet, you see. New Year's resolutions often fail for they are long range, you see. So commitment to awakening and its realization is in the moment, not measured by time.

Peace is the theme here, not frustration or disappointment promoted by artificial measurements, signposts, deadlines, rate of progress. Be grateful for the awareness that you have and more will come. Acknowledge there is more to life than you currently know and love it into your life. Inspiring others by example does not mean demonstrating miraculous behavior and knowledge, but by living peacefully and meeting challenges harmoniously.

Enjoy the journey. Reflect upon it often. And enjoy today. Namaste.

67. All are created equally

Dec. 27, 2017

JANU: We are assembling at this time the notion that all are created equal. For some, this is meant to be in the eyes of the law of the land. For others, of equal value or love in the presence of the Divine, of what is called 'God.' In a deeper sense, our brother, we are not talking about incarnate life but spiritual existence, True Nature if you will. And all are created equally.

The accumulation of experience and understanding and wisdom varies but is shared by all, for there is no life separate from the rest of life, you see. Once again, each one unique yet one. What we all have in common is each other. Individual, unique, but connected deeply. The foundation for this understanding lies within the True Nature, no matter the species, or the world, or the plane of existence. The differences are the variations that give strength, depth, dimension, and infinite purpose to Life itself. So, when we speak of being loved, and loving oneself, it is a natural experience in reality and all are created equal in a Life that loves itself. Namaste.

68. Destiny's call to humanity

Dec. 28, 2017

JANU: Enormous is the call to all of humanity to assemble in consciousness, embracing the next phase of its journey in the larger life. What is in store, our brother, is freedom from cycles of the path without understanding. Choices remain but choices with a benefit of insight and the growing wisdom of each other.

What is calling is the destiny of humanity, its own destiny, not some arbitrary outside force but its own calling. The journey of humanity is not isolated in the larger life but part of it and the destiny of one culture touches that of another, and another. So, in the larger sense, the call for humanity is larger than that.

So, hold the ideal, you see, that humanity become conscious of its own destiny, which is part of the flow of life. Peace and freedom and a love for life known by the True Natures of everyone. Namaste.

69. Exploring identity and beyond

Jan. 1, 2018 B

JANU: We are coming together at this time in agreement with the elements of our being to begin the journey. Sorrowful for some, for it leaves the comfort and the solitary existence of limited consciousness. When asking, seeking, desiring a larger life, a certain growing maturity is useful. The identity of some is described by the smaller life. Reaching for something larger brings a discomfort to some not wanting to trade what they know for what they don't know. Know this, our brother: it is not a trade. It is an expansion of current awareness.

It returns us to the curious dilemma of identity, the 'who are you and who are you not' confusion. There is no final answer to that, our brother, that puts your life in a container of borders. So, identity is a transitional perspective from being identified with only part of life to all of it, to where identity has less and less meaning. The term 'identity' is defined by limitation. See the larger life, the larger experience as a greater measure of freedom to express as whatever you choose appropriate to the moment.

Who or what are you? A seemingly timeless question. In truth, our brother, you are whatever you are aware of, as you grow into the Larger Life. Thank you, our brother, and namaste.

70. Communication and intimacy

Jan. 2, 2018

JANU: Let us say that to communicate there needs to be a common ground in consciousness, in understanding, in willingness to listen and to speak. How does one communicate, then, from the human perspective and experience with the larger life, the larger reality of your own being? It starts with desire, our brother, and growing respect for its potential.

Communication has form, to varying degrees. Some are gross, some are subtle, and some yet to be discovered. Direct knowing is one, and intimacy in communication beyond questions and answers, sometimes beyond words. A mother's intuition, a parent's intuition touches on this, but then fear can kick in, if you will, which modifies the knowing. Communication with your True Nature is the subtlest of them all, but it's the window to the rest of life. And that takes profound peace and love of your own being. The model for this experience can be applied to communication with any part of life.

What is true intimacy, then, but oneness, true connection without any judgment. True peace and love and intimacy are one. Even extremes in your weather can be approached in this manner and understood. Communication with other consciousnesses on other worlds and other realities is possible, beyond time and space, for your True Nature is not limited to these and neither are theirs.

There is a 'Family of Life' reality to be explored and understood and embraced. Communication is a vast reality, personal and impersonal. Namaste, our brother.

71. Distribution of consciousness within the being

Jan. 3, 2018 B

JANU: Conscious union, our brother, suggests a perception that one consciousness is separate from another, the human from the True Nature. A limited point of view. The oneness of this reality indicates something different. What we are talking about here is the distribution of awareness throughout the being, which in truth is the True Nature. What you are seeking here is a modification of the distribution of consciousness throughout the being, of which the veil plays a role although a limited one. Human history is rife with those who have sought some form of this, but limited by human identity and convention.

Let us encourage this true union of consciousness. The one who has said that 'there is only you' was quite correct, but the 'you' referred to is much more complete, larger than the human identity and distribution of consciousness. Identity expansion is a difficult concept for many but it is part of the path of awakening. The human perspective is a valid one but can be expanded greatly to include subtler realities of the incarnate life.

Perceiving matter as energy subject to many changes expands the consciousness of the material life into many possibilities. Energy is not solid, but has properties, parameters of existence, you see. When the consciousness engages this truth, possibilities exist for re-creation or restoration. The physical body, our brother, is subject to this as well. But this calls upon a wisdom to manage the larger life and this calls upon experience which your True Nature has in abundance. Namaste.

72. Loving who you are brings many changes

Jan. 8, 2018 B

JANU: We are referencing the edict delivered by you prior to incarnation and after, to begin a life that belongs to enrichment, not only for humanity but the Larger Life as well. A moment of discovery that brings into view with a sharper focus what some would call pre-existence. We are one, our brother, and the state of your consciousness is well rooted in what we are.

Loving yourself is part of the nature of who you truly are. How else could there be peace throughout the being? The most powerful statement anyone can make is to love themselves truly, for only in this purest of reality is it possible to truly love others.

Love is a profoundly intimate reality. Life loves all of creation, no matter the realm, in this way. Truly loving oneself, while incarnate, is a merging of consciousness with the True Nature based on this fundamental principle of intimate reality.

Search no further for some magic key to unlock the consciousness. Love is the answer, our brother. So be it.

73. Another string of pearls

Jan. 10, 2018 B

JANU: Yes, the ‘pearl of great price’ which we’ve touched on before is the truth of who you are. So little understood by so many, or even aware of. Given different names. It is the freedom to embrace all of life, and yes, even your incarnate life, but without fear or doubt or confusion. With your attention on any part of life, it is revealed continuously. The irritant in the oyster is encapsulated with manifestation of creativity. So it is in the life, our brother. The irritants of living in this sojourn are encapsulated with experience, understanding, wisdom, patience, confidence, commitment. These pearls of experience and their creation can be understood in this way. There is beauty here, long lasting, no two the same.

This string of pearls from each sojourn is the treasured legacy that is part of your True Nature. Nothing is lost, our brother, for we are one in all things. Namaste.

74. Motivations and the Middle Way

Jan. 15, 2018

JANU: We are surveying, if you will, the climate for aggressive behavior on the parts of individuals and nations. What we see here is a climate that reflects the struggle that is occurring in the consciousnesses of these between survival, in terms of power, and a global sense of community and service. The power struggle is individually motivated, oftentimes amassing others who align with this to further their cause, you see. Global motivation and identity does not glamorize the individual. The struggle between power and the illusion of power, you see—true power and apparent power—they have many faces. What is power, then, but an expression of the creative reality.

Co-creators create in different ways, you see, different motivations. Self-centered and self-less consciousness is the dichotomy. The Middle Way includes both and brings balance to any dichotomy. The Middle Way is not against the dichotomy, but unifies it into a larger truth, a truth that endures and evolves. Grand is the consciousness that can embrace a dichotomy in this way. An example is the destructive and creative nature of the universe. In the larger understanding, seen as recycling, re-creating, re-inventing, release and embrace.

This principle can be applied to an individual life or a sojourn. “Where are the examples?” you ask. They are those that live in peace yet embrace society and grow in their understanding and compassion for the countless life expressions, those who do not live in fear, and recognize the illusion of power and true power. A worthy study is motivation. A complex understanding, for many have a mixture of these and they change. The Middle Way is open to understanding all of these, beginning with your own. Namaste.

75. Understanding and serving angels

Jan. 16, 2018 B

JANU: Our area of interest at this time belongs to a region of consciousness reality that is burdened with, so to speak, angels. Now, to explore this phenomenon of life, one must give tally to the nature of their consciousness: A proud tradition of love and service and wisdom. Not human although can function that way. Peace and mercy are hallmarks. Great diversity in the hierarchy. Ancient tradition. Much like companions to those who journey under the veil, but not limited to this, you see.

“What is an angel?” you ask. It is a consciousness so molded, so shaped, as to linger from one realm to another. Consciousness is little understood. Its range of reality seems beyond description. Even a stone has consciousness, our brother, but quite different. Angels have consciousness but more flexible, can be modified, adjusted to need and circumstance. Angels appear in many forms, or not at all to those unattuned. They understand love and live it. They bring peace and comfort to those who would receive it. They are humanity’s companions and champions. And they evolve as they serve. Humanity has given them names but, as with so much of life, these are not needed to relate. The quality and patterns of love shape and identify their existence. They will gladly reveal to you their understanding of loving nature.

It is possible and agreeable to serve those who serve. “How does one serve angels?” you ask. By emulating their service that their manifestation might expand. They find no judgement in their service. Namaste.

76. Sensing change

Jan. 19, 2018 B

JANU: We are summing up, if you will, this moment in flow of life. Change is the theme here. The politics of the world are constantly changing. This moment in this reality has some festering issues. Bringing peace to these will not resolve them, for their motivations are not listening. The ongoing patterns of survival and temporary power, personal gain, still dominate.

When taking the larger view, one can see many changes. Human consciousness is evolving and the True Natures are sensing opportunity to be listened to. There are many forms of awakening, but they are still awakening, you see. Manipulation is not the hallmark of an awakening consciousness in harmony with life. Inspiring the sovereignty in others and oneself is the theme that is grander. A true global consciousness reveals the possibilities, potentials, realities needed for leadership individually and collectively.

The so-called Internet can be useful but much discernment is needed for the Internet is corrupted in many ways, being created by humanity. Awakening inspires the journey of connecting, direct knowing, with a foundation of personal integrity. Perfection is not the goal here. Evolution in consciousness and the true connections of oneness are what will prevail.

Change is not a linear reality. It moves in clusters, undulations, from the smallest to the largest. One can choose to sense change and understand it. A constant theme in life, no matter the degree or pace. Namaste.

77. The power and source of insights

Jan. 22, 2018

JANU: We are pursuing at this time the agreement that sponsored links to the insights into the awakening on humanity must prevail. These long-term agreements precipitate opportunities for success. Success rate is not the issue, but achievement is. The journeys of your friend led to the encouragement, and are a measure of the success we speak of. This sort of awakening is demonstrated through momentary insights which are the True Nature's response to the timing of the awakening of humanity.

Insights are a powerful tool for the awakening of humanity, created by its own True Nature. The unspoken inquiries each may have into their own nature and the nature of life are building. Part of the changes, our brother. Namaste.

78. A world at peace

Jan. 23, 2018 B

JANU: A world at peace is a far cry from your world at this time. Your current tensions in the world are perpetuated with no other role model to draw upon, emulate, to explore and experience. There are worlds at peace that can be visited in consciousness. Many who serve the evolution of humanity are aware of these worlds and their culture, which adds to their wisdom as they serve.

Now, humanity has qualities of ambition, self-improvement, discovery, altruism, care of one another, appreciation of beauty through music and the arts, and relationships. These qualities also exist on a world at peace, very active, dynamic, involving societies, no longer running in circles repeating the same struggles. Humanity has the ingredients for a better way of life but is plagued by old patterns, afraid to let them go for uncertain alternatives.

Demonstrating peaceful qualities to another is a beginning. Bringing a smile to someone whose lifestyle does not encourage a smile. Peaceful moments do not need a reason to exist. Circumstance is not the source of this. A growing relationship with your True Nature within reveals these finer qualities and perceptions of life. For many, financial power is 'high on a pedestal' to achieve. No intrinsic power in this kind of wealth, you see. It only exists by agreement of those who are besotted with possessing it. It is an illusion.

Being at true peace is a powerful way to exist. No longer blinded by the distractions of possession and influence. A product of awakening, our brother, which we serve. Namaste.

79. More on the power of peace

Jan. 24, 2018

JANU: We are at peace once more, united in the presence of unanimity. Many realities in the larger life, our brother, and they are one as well. The peace we often speak of and embrace is their oneness. So, you see, being at peace is being one with everything. That is the understanding that seems to elude. Being one, connected with everything. This is part of the nature of the True Nature, you see. Invaluable access to the consciousness of Life itself. So, being no secrets in life, peace explores life far beyond this.

What interests you is the focusing factor here, whether the desire to know is global or finite. Micro and macro are one, you see. They define each other. Exploring the tapestry of life is good symbolism, every thread, every weaving, every color, every image, every essence. Peace is always a theme here, you see. It is our connection, our oneness, the destiny of everything, you see. The power of peace is grander than the words. Namaste.

80. Regret casts a shadow on memories

Jan. 29, 2018 B

JANU: Regret, our brother, when reviewing memories casts a shadow on the meaning to be gained. Regret does not honor the life and consciousness having the memory, creating the memory. So regret not, but embrace the experience to discover its significance, its teaching, its revelation as to the nature of Life.

These memories are profound. Matters not the scale, for Life includes everything, from the smallest to the largest, from the longest lasting to an instant. The presence of Life endures, reveals, re-creates, expresses. These memories do not define you; they enrich you. Your true identity is far grander than any of these and owns these memories yet to be fully understood.

You're free to embrace life how you choose. Memories that touch deeply are rich indeed. Many bury these because of the perceived pain of them. But they are there, waiting to deliver their understanding. This is part of mastering life, our brother, experiencing, creating, understanding, and contributing. Enjoy the pleasant ones as well, the ones that lift your heart, inspire gratitude, that bring joy to others. All of these are there to master life. Regret none of them. They all enrich you. Namaste.

81. A loving relationship

Feb. 1, 2018

JANU: We are one. One being, one voice, one love, one presence. Reaching into the depths of reality, one finds, amongst the many nuances, a shining example of peaceful life. Many such, you see. The individual being at the same time is unique yet one with every other being. So many realities vie for a place in life, each with their tempo, vibration if you will, pace of living. Conscious union with all the realities in the consciousness of one being is a freedom and a joy and a love that cannot be measured. In a sense, awakening, our brother, is ascending into the fullness of being.

Whether incarnate or not, it matters not, for the consciousness of the incarnation is beyond time/space. So much of incarnate life under the veil is identified as physical life only, with vague impressions, aspirations to something more. The something more, our brother, is realized in a union of consciousness with all that you are, all that we are, all that I am. As one experiences this reality, it is no effort at all to touch that reality in another and mutual knowing takes place. Touching another's consciousness with your own is a loving experience that benefits both.

This threshold, our brother, has just begun and will grow, into its fullness. Be at peace. Namaste.

82. More on oneness

Feb. 7, 2018

JANU: Please be aware that to take notice of the Larger Life as you put it, as we put it, one needs a larger consciousness. Instead of the human consciousness exploring the Larger Life, be a larger consciousness that is exploring.

When we speak of oneness of the many realities, oneness is a living experience not just a state of awareness. Oneness is. And everything is a part of this. Pursue your dream of awakening in this larger way. 'We are one' is not just a philosophy, but a living reality. Being self-aware in this larger way reveals a larger self, you see. Oneness has presence and is beyond power. Moving beyond one part of life exploring another.

Allow this understanding to grow and enrich your consciousness as it does ours. Namaste.

83. Being transformed by your True Nature

Feb. 7, 2018 B

JANU: The truth of anyone's existence belongs to the integrity of their Nature, their True Nature. When observing another, council with the truth of your own existence as you observe. Always honor and respect the truth of their own Nature and be at peace with each other. Even-mindedness and emotional-mindedness are the beginnings of true communication. Such it is with these journeys, our brother.

No matter the challenge that comes your way, choose to approach it in this manner and your love and wisdom will bring success. Having a hunch or an insight is the beginning of exploration into new understanding. The tendency to place degrees of importance or significance on any discovery can limit the depth of understanding of all the others. Opening to the love and wisdom of your True Nature transforms the human consciousness as it realizes its potential. Be steadfast on this journey of awakening. Namaste.

84. Choosing to awaken

Feb. 8, 2018 B

JANU: We are addressing this opportunity to expand upon the understanding of the awakening of humanity, for it is time to accelerate this process that so many are contributing to. Humanity has a destiny, and it speaks of joining with others not of the Earth, and not limited to other worlds either, you see. Human destiny is mounting to so much more than small-mindedness, petty differences, conflicts, and self-destruction. The Earth reality, consciousness, is a great resource to understand symmetry, cooperation, collaboration, mutual benefit.

The Earth is humanity's partner in life, as are many others. Humanity is not alone in the universe, for its existence includes subtler realities of being, as well, which extend to many other areas of life. It is time for awakening in many forms, in many perspectives.

The awakening we refer to is to the True Nature, the true identity, the total being. Many resources are available within, by, and through the True Nature. Becoming conscious of more than you are aware of, while incarnate, is a model for realizing your true estate. The incarnate grasp of reality is limited, unchecked thoughts and emotions run rampant through many lives, many people. Awakening brings order, wisdom, and true freedom. No longer alone in perception, but part of the wonderful Family of Life that welcomes you.

Choosing the blessings of awakening is the path to this, and more. Peaceful journeys, and namaste.

85. The power of desire and commitment

Feb. 12, 2018

JANU: It is true, our brother. Desire and commitment lead to success. Success in the sense of continuation of awakening, an ongoing process of realization. Let us be clear on this. Awakening means more aware, more conscious of, more connected to, more at one with, more at peace with, more empowered by the Truth of Life, some call the Light.

There are those who desire financial wealth, possessions, power over others, and are committed to this and, to a degree, they achieve this. But the fruits of this can be bitter and must be dealt with. The awakening we speak of takes nothing from others but enriches them and the journeyer. The darker path has fear embedded in it, the fear of loss, loss of control, being revealed, retribution. The path we speak of is fearless, is enriched by all of life, founded in freedom and peace, a love of self and others.

The choice always remains with the individual. The wisdom at the root of the choosing bears scrutiny. The harbinger of wisdom is the True Nature, an identity larger than pettiness and greed.

Desire and commitment, to what does one assign these, and why? Gain wisdom from those who have gone before. Namaste.

86. What Awakening includes

Feb. 12, 2018 B

JANU: You ask, "What does awakening include?"

It includes being conscious of the nature of every thing and every reality. The balance between patience and the desire to know is a fledgling experience for the neophyte, but remains for the evolved ones as well.

Many times, circumstance demonstrating the need for awareness triggers awakening. When applied to many experiences, the foundation builds. One awareness leads to another, and another, as do these journeys.

Your thoughts and feelings, whether spoken aloud or not, are recorded in Life. Truly caring to understand another's circumstance, point of view, while listening within, can be a revelation.

Many do not realize that the creatures of the Earth are conscious as well, in their own way, and they rely greatly on this ability. Their instincts and their experiences are their tools to navigate life and they read people very well.

Children in the womb are very sensitive to these impressions. Their True Natures are quite conscious, you see, and are already measuring what is at hand and what is to come.

Ask your True Nature direct questions that are sincere, with the desire to know, and listen, not just with your ears but with your consciousness. Listen patiently. Namaste.

87. The desire of the True Nature

Feb. 13, 2018

JANU: Overcoming any regret for having lived the incarnate life frees the consciousness to rise above and own it all. Owning your experiences gains you the wisdom of them. And through wisdom comes clearer choices that benefit the journeyer and their associations.

Integrity exists whether incarnate or not, whether awakening or not, and all of life has integrity, or it wouldn't continue. Yes, all creations can be manipulated, modified, altered, transformed, but life's integrity allows this. The so-called Laws of Life are fluid. Integrity allows this, for the purpose of expression, creativity, and wisdom gaining.

The Middle Way that you endeavor to understand is one with everything, is the source of all dichotomies, and is 'living in the Now.'

The desire of any True Nature is to be, which is fulfilled by engaging more and more of life. Awakening is part of this, our brother. Even the True Nature is awakening.

Be at peace, without regret. Honor your integrity. Namaste.

88. Owning it all

Feb. 14, 2018

JANU: That is the theme for this journey, owning it all, so to speak. Owning all memories, all experiences, all attitudes, utterances, everything, without denial or regret. Peaceful absorption of the records of life fully enrich the journeyer, reclaiming power and the freedom it brings. Owning it all gives access to it all and the wisdom is revealed. Honesty, integrity, perseverance, clarity, sovereignty: living in this way is grander than the veiled human consciousness, isolated from the Larger Life.

The courage to allow this into your consciousness is a choice made in the presence of your True Nature, which endorses this choice. Denial of the truth gives your power away, strains your integrity, delays realization and wisdom-gaining. Life includes everything, our brother, the bliss, the joy, the sorrow and the sadness. Owning it all sets one free.

You ask of the Middle Way. The Middle Way does not avoid the dichotomies of life but owns them all, for all of them are part of life.

Claim your power by owning all of your experiences. Namaste.

89. Creating and understanding pearls

Feb. 16, 2018

JANU: We are enamored of the beauty of every pearl (LINK) of life. What is a pearl in this understanding? It is a gem of truth that transmutes conflicts in life into a thing of beauty. The conflict remains but, through transformation, the truth is produced. The achievements of humanity in its evolution refrain from condemning the struggles but build upon them layer after layer of understanding. These understandings produce richness in the consciousness and the behavior of individuals in society. See not the conflicts as bad or evil, but the instigators of an opportunity for awakening.

Each awakening is as a pearl, to be strung together to form bonds and continuity between the understandings of clarity through experience. They are all part of the flow of life, you see. Life wastes nothing. Not a life of good or bad, right or wrong, but opportunity to build and awaken. Then more of life reveals itself through this process of becoming. Our support of humanity, you see, is based on this and more.

Build on the conflicts. Find understanding. Turn them into gems of truth, cooperation. Create something beautiful that endures and encourages. Another pearl, you see. The pearl remains, but at its core, what inspired it? Namaste.

90. A purpose for living

Feb. 19, 2018

JANU: The reality you pursue at this time, the nature of the relationship within the being of the human consciousness to the True Nature, the larger you, shall be explored more than once, you see, for that is a significant portion of awakening your larger identity. The relationship is a peaceful one, harmoniously participating in the larger life of so many realities. Your human experience is but one of many. We together, as a larger reality, have many interests, involvements, collaborations. It has always been thus.

You inquire as to the purpose of awakening the human consciousness to this larger truth, when the larger you already knows. The wisdom gained through experience in various stages of consciousness reveals more of the tapestry of life. It has always been our interest. Enriching life is a worthy purpose and opportunity for all.

“How does one enrich life, then?” you ask. By living it, experiencing it, being part of it, understanding it, and being instrumental in its evolution. In so many ways, each one is one with all of life more than they know. The human consciousness is only part of this. The larger you, the larger we, is not just enriching life but being enriched by it, to understand and appreciate the so-called ‘ripple effect’ of all that you are on every level throughout life.

How can one consider that life is without purpose? Taking on the responsibility of incarnating, embracing a sojourn and all that ensues, enriches life without even knowing it. Self-preservation, from the human perspective, is much more than survival. It is continuing the investment in the enrichment of life through engagement and experience, which contributes. So, you see, the purpose of incarnating is not just about a singular achievement or awakening, but to enrich life by living it. Namaste.

91. Peace IS

Feb. 20, 2018

JANU: Peace then, again being the subject, exploration into understanding and application. You ask the question, are you at peace with yourself? What better way to understand the nature of this subject?

Peace is the great revealer, even within the self. Peace is without bias, preference, denial, approval, disapproval. All consciousness outside of peace or without peace is subject to all of these and more.

Peace is one with being or isness, life as it is—its history, its potential, its current moment. Peace rallies the forces of life and mutually beneficial harmony into recognition of the presence of each other and the mutual benefit. Peace allows isness.

Peace gives strength to the foundation of everything. When observing the history of humanity and the Earth, all of its upheavals, quiet periods, moments of loving reality, peace is the constant that endures, the foundation of life that life returns to when pushed and shoved in many directions.

Peace is life in order, in the midst of what looks like chaos and randomness. Peace allows.

A world at peace enjoys the give and take of mutual benefit in all its reality. Societies can live this way, should they choose. Every part of life has its unique contribution and need. Peace is the give and take that continues.

Peace is. Namaste.

92. Understanding ‘being at peace’

Feb. 22, 2018 B

JANU: True peace, then, being the theme you have chosen for this journey, experiencing and owning this reality and inspiring it in others.

Guidance of your True Nature is of importance here. Relinquishing the hold of the veil, functioning as a sovereign being is a fundamental approach to this, which speaks of intimacy. There’s a synergism of consciousness throughout the being and a natural connection with others. The guidance for the others comes from their own True Natures.

The impersonal life has a freedom about it not ‘quaquered’ in the illusions of the veil experience. By ‘impersonal’ we mean not centered in personality but in universal consciousness, that is one with the heart of everything. Embracing, so to speak, another in this way supports their awakening to more and more of the presence of their True Nature, according to their destiny.

Understanding and experiencing, beyond words, is the challenge and the opportunity. This is your natural estate, so embrace True Peace without words that limit understanding and communication, and experience “being at peace.” Namaste.

93. Choosing doubt or confidence

Feb. 26, 2018

JANU: We are encountering, if you will, the nemesis, created by humanity, to its own evolution and awakening.

Doubt is a key component to this: doubt in oneself, doubt in the future, doubt in others, doubt in integrity, doubt in life itself. Doubt is supported by misperception of challenges and opportunities, and isolated consciousness, a disconnect from the beauty and flow of life. Doubt is self-fulfilling and is overcome by choice. Use doubt as a tool to rise above disconnectedness, isolation, by recognizing its character, influence, and patterns. Whatever has the earmarks of doubt, choose the alternative. We know this. Your True Nature knows this.

The alternative to doubt is confidence, based on faith and a desire for being conscious of true connection with the rest of life and to one’s own Nature. Know you are a divine being, with all that that offers and the future that goes with it. And the future is Now. Even the slightest confidence is testimony to your potential.

Sense the power of confidence, faith and trust in your being, and the so-called power of doubt. One is empty; the other is full of life. Let not confidence be shaken by moments of change, circumstance. Penetrate all of these with insight and determination to understand the truth behind everything.

Doubt builds walls. Confidence builds bridges of connection, of overcoming, of achievement, and of victory and new opportunities. Choose wisely, but choose. Namaste.

94. The pacifist and the peacemaker

Feb. 26, 2018 B

JANU: Assembled then this evening is a group of those who represent pacifists. Now, let us understand something here. The pacifists we speak of are not fighters in the human social sense, but are committed peacemakers more powerful than any violence. Their legacy is the cumulative effect of the power of True Peace, for in True Peace the mind is clear, the creative forces are in harmony, the genius of life itself becomes known.

Those who do battle in the conventional sense of human perception will always have another battle to wage, setting back the opportunities for the true power of peace. Look at the carnage of the world at war. The resources gone. The lives wasted. Yet the wars continue, conflicts more brutal.

Those who raise families are arbiters of peace, supporting survival, education, relationships, well-being, the reaching for and fulfillment of destinies. These are the builders, the creators, the pacifists who sacrifice that others find fulfillment. They long for peace and find joy in the achievements of those they serve.

So, when looking for examples of peacemakers, of pacifists, in the larger reality, look for those, and within the self these qualities. Yes, even there are leaders in societies with these qualities, but their challenge is great. But there are those who inspire, encourage strength and commitment in these. Being a peacemaker is laudable. Namaste.

95. Confidence

Feb. 27, 2018

JANU: Confidence once again is the theme for our journey. The object of this confidence, for understanding, is well-being, not just in the moment but in the future. Well-being promotes peace of mind, emotional stability, and the anticipation of success in adventures.

Confidence in your well-being does not mean ignoring that needed for good health, but it does mean the body is able to respond to proper care. Remember, the body is your partner in the adventures of incarnate life and experiences everything you do.

Confidence is like a precision tool that sculpts the experience of well-being into a harmonious system of achievements.

Confidence masters any task, any challenge, including these journeys. Apply this principle at every opportunity and confidence becomes a strong foundation for exploration and understanding. Namaste.

96. Those who serve humanity

Mar. 2, 2018 B

JANU: We belong to a group of those who persist and pertain in service to humanity. You ask the manner of service. It is varied, our brother, depending upon the interest, the experience and wisdom of each one.

There are those who serve awakening. There are those who bring insights. There are those who answer concerns about health, and not just physically. There are those who aid the scientific community in moments of breakthrough understanding. There are those who inspire memories, both of Earth existence and other realities as well.

There are those who create and perform the arts. Many in this group, you see, those who have lived the human experience and those who have lived others. Not all music and art, our brother, originates from humanity.

There are those who respond to the open-minded, and those who serve others because it is their nature to do so. Every creative effort of humanity, including those who serve the creatures of the world, have inspirations and opportunities to draw upon. The human experience is far more diverse than many realize. Namaste.

97. The Story of Life

Mar. 12, 2018

JANU: This scenario of your reviewing leads one to understand part of the structure mechanism of the story of Life and the story of an individual's life. How everything is connected by one thing leading to another. How outcomes and causes are traceable with enough insight. Understanding between peoples would be enhanced if this were part of the common experience, and allows for the understanding of progressed scenarios. Taking away some of the mystery of life, the so-called 'unfathomable' consequences of decisions, thoughts and actions, emotions, communications. Life is connected, our brother. So free will and randomness coexist with connectedness and continuation.

Now, the story of one life and its connectedness to the story of another life is, in a sense, a deeper mystery, but can be understood, for life is a collective, you see. And all of humanity exists in the Story of Humanity, a story of connectedness, diversity, so-called free will, and projections. But a beginning understanding of wellness of the one life made of many.

Consider this carefully when attempting to understand the stories of many lives and their relationships. One thing leads to another, and another, and another. As does one journey lead to another, and another. Namaste.

98. The Breath of Life

Mar. 12, 2018 B

JANU: We are assembling again once more a 'peace initiative' resembling an excursion into the sublime. Such is the nature of True Peace and the True Nature. This reality transcends what some call the 'mundane,' and accomplishes intimacy throughout the being. Yes, including the physical body, which is, after all, made of energy. Dwelling in this state of awareness brings on a continuation of a pulse of life that registers throughout the being. This pulse of life is echoed in different ways through other realities.

Sensing the pulse of life in your being is like the wind, breathing, never stopping. The inbreath and the outbreath occurring simultaneously. It is the Breath of Life, you see. Being conscious of this refreshes vitality, inner peace, and communicates the love of Life. Linger in the reality of this and your whole being finds balance.

This focuses you in a moment of the Now. Namaste.

99. The nature of love and life

Mar. 20, 2018

JANU: Part of understanding the nature of life is understanding the nature of love. They are synonymous when understood aright, engaged and experienced. There is a peace that is more profound and everlasting, a love that allows all expressions of being, supporting them evenly, continuously, for they are expressions of Life itself. Becoming one with what some would call the 'big picture' of life and all it includes, all the bits and pieces if you will, all of the changes, all of the nuances, all of the evolution. Life is at one with its own reality, the entire universe, one of many, and the reality that universes reside in.

You ask, "What is the nature of love?" It is the Life behind all of this, and its relationship with everything and every no-thing. It is Pure Being. The expressions of love, manifestations, are beyond number, but all connected, all at one. Love allows and supports and is Life in motion.

Awakening to your True Nature opens the door to embracing, for the human mind to grasp, what the True Nature understands and is continuing to evolve into. For your entire being embraces many realities, including its own source. A consciousness of oneness. A consciousness without condemnation, value judgements, preferences, dichotomies, yet includes all of these, for they are part of the evolution of Life through its creations. The Middle Way is a balanced approach to all of life. Namaste.

100. The dynamics of life

Mar. 21, 2018

JANU: Reach then into the dynamics of life and find, for your own enrichment, the presence of life that makes these possible. Life is dynamic. The oneness of everything is little understood, seems a contradiction and a vague reality.

The human identity with the physical life is a strong one and serves its purpose for the duration of each sojourn. But there comes a time when the reckoning takes place as to the order of things. The lifting of the veil, through desire and commitment, begins to reveal this. So one hangs on to incarnation for different reasons and not to the exclusion of a larger life. Being at peace in the midst of change is a challenge and an opportunity to human identification for, in your incarnate experience, everything has borders, limits, individual identity.

The reality of oneness, of connectedness is the bond that binds all of life, allowing for relationship, mutual enrichment and benefit, and mutual understanding. We are one, and unique. Part of the dynamic of life, the co-existence of realities, the evolution of life itself. Allow the oneness to penetrate the individuality, the isolation, the separation consciousness, and benefit mutually. The power and presence of life flowing freely. Namaste.

101. The awakening of the Family of Life

Apr. 4, 2018

JANU: The awakening of humanity is a new frontier. We are explorers, as are many others. This opportunity for a species to emerge into the larger life in consciousness is a milestone for Life itself. A grand adventure and experiment culminating in a new freedom of expression, creativity, and evolution.

You ask for specifics. There are many, our brother, but they are in motion subject to many changes. The purpose of this journey is to explore and become aware of some of the magnitude this represents. This occurrence is not unique to humanity of the Earth, but occurs in many forms and locations, venues if you will, and not just in this universe, of which there are many. Understanding the reality of the magnitude of oneness and connectivity opens the consciousness to perceptions most revealing.

Exploring the larger issues of life is not separate from exploring the details of so-called minor elements for it is all one life with unlimited expressions. The awakening of humanity is but one. Humanity is exploring its own awakening, discovering their essential reality. It is coming into focus collectively. Our journeys are only part of this, our brother, but they contribute, paving the way in reality and includes many. The Family of Life, conscious or not, to varying degrees, has momentum, tradition, foundation, and endurance. Namaste.

102. Awakening is a tapestry of many colors

Apr. 9, 2018

JANU: We are Janu speaking. Cadence, then, plays a role in awakening. Cycles of life, repeating patterns, evolution of the rhythms of life. When seen from a larger view, experiences, opportunities, wisdom gaining have a cadence in the experience. Not just in incarnate life, our brother. Without a sense of this, the perception is waiting for opportunity, a complete unknown and chance reality. This is part of awakening, you see: sensitivity and perception to the cadence of your own life, which is part of and one with the Larger Life. Even the seemingly smallest opportunities are part of this rhythm.

Life expression is not a steady state. By its nature of diversity, of realities that are connected, rhythms are set in motion, one thing affecting another and being affected by each other. The conscious mind perceives this and recognizes potential interactions. Anticipating this prepares for taking fuller advantage of what transpires. This is but one element of awakening, our brother.

Everything is connected, in so many ways, experiencing ebbs and flows of change, of influence, and opportunities. As awakening continues, perception of potential can be observed occurring in any part of life, including the lives of each other. The life that you are is connected to the life of another. Seeing parts of yourself in another, and parts of them in your own life, is a reality. And not just people, but in everything. We of the Brotherhood of Light live this way as well. Awakening is a tapestry of many colors. Namaste.

103. What is a catalyst for awakening?

Apr. 10, 2018

JANU: What is this process called ‘awakening’? Becoming conscious, or should we say more conscious. What is the catalyst for this? Yes, it runs in cycles, cycles of timing, areas of interest, circumstances of need. The catalyst, our brother, is the flow of life, with all its eddies and currents, the alignment of circumstance and opportunity, always in motion. Fluid dynamics approximates some of this.

How does one serve, then, the awakening of humanity, with all its diversity, complexity, and timing? One does so by focusing on their own, which adds their contribution to this complex tapestry (LINK). You asked earlier of ‘selective awakening,’ ‘selective awareness.’ Of course, this is true, but that develops as well, through experience, trial and error if you will, and is necessary for the sanity during the incarnate experience, for the conscious mind to adapt.

All of manifest life is on this path of awareness and these venues of life can learn from each other. The journey of awakening makes this possible. The path of some seems negative and destructive, brutal, self-serving, full of mis-emotion, but it is the path of awakening, our brother, which covers the full gambit of expression.

Awakening includes perspective, which too is evolving. Consciousness continues, whether a species survives or not, for the experience is recorded, so to speak, in the True Natures and beyond. Cycles within cycles of life come and go but life continues. There is peace to be found, in all of this. As awakening continues, perspective deepens and the love of life blossoms. Namaste.

104. Awakening and connection

Apr. 11, 2018

JANU: See coming, so to speak, the moment of awakening that touches the hearts of humanity. Humanity has a tendency to perceive its role in life as the leader of consciousness on the planet Earth, above all creatures. Realize this, our brother: humanity has much to benefit from the consciousness of the rest of life on the Earth. There is great wisdom there, experience, understanding. And, for many, humanity is viewed as dangerous, unpredictable, not a friend, out of control, and tolerated. Awakening changes that perspective.

Some see the spoken word as a gift of language unique to humanity. Not true. There is language everywhere, among all species of life, but humanity does not hear it or understand it. Awakening changes this.

Humanity struggles to overcome stress, fears. The creatures of the Earth cope with survival concerns, but have their peace as well. They strike a balance in their existence. Humanity has much to learn from them, and much to give to these creatures through the mastership of awakening.

Awakening brings connection, conscious connection, to more of life, with reciprocal benefit. Awakening brings consciousness to the language of their own bodies, bringing understanding of what is destructive and what is helpful. So much to learn of, benefit from, and serve. Namaste.

105. Revelations of awakening

Apr. 11, 2018 B

JANU: The subject of the awakening of humanity is a vast one and belongs to a list of grand journeys. And it reveals the purpose of the veil to incarnate and then journey into awakening. This journey we speak of reveals much of life and much of the nature of the individual who struggles to realize their own nature, their own potential, and their own place in life. The reality of the incarnate life is fraught with much complexity, not just in manifestation but in relationships, integrity and consciousness, decision-making and results, personality and character, dreams and fulfillment, responsibility and service, happiness and joy, and love of self and the rest of life.

The paths to these experiences and understandings are as varied as there are people. It takes all of life, our brother, to embrace all of life. This is why each one is precious, each creature, each reality. Namaste.

106. Let there be Light

Apr. 17, 2018

JANU: Pointedly, there must begin a dialogue within the individual consciousness as to the meaning and purpose of existence and the potential reality of a larger life beyond the sojourn. Many ask themselves this question but have yet to embrace the reality of the answer. Many experience moments that are beyond explanation but don't expand on them. The reality of the larger life, the True Nature, is always present but to much of society this is fantasy.

What makes an experience seem real and not just fantasy or hallucination or wild imagination is what it quickens within you that lends credibility beyond the limitation of social convention. In this area of human experience, wise counsel as to the possibility of something more can be useful. But where does this counsel come from? On one hand, it is another who has moved in this direction. On the other, it is the voice within. The outer experience can lead to the inner, to where the inner can explain the outer. But the choice is always there.

Social encouragement can go a long way as more and more embrace their path of awakening more fully. "Let there be Light" speaks of this, for Light is the Truth of Life. Namaste.

107. Enhancing the evolution of life

Apr. 17, 2018 B

JANU: This tradition of serving the awakening of humanity incorporates many modalities, these journeys being but one. Many are contributing in a private way, unannounced. All forms of service are part of the larger picture and are considered in this network of understanding.

There are those who compose literature with themes in this direction. There are those who create artworks of many kinds to inspire awakening. There are those who serve the poor and the ill to inspire individual insight into their true nature, the nature of their existence. Many incarnate inspire those who serve that are incarnate. Awakening is a vast network of like-minded.

Yes, there are aspects of human society and behavior that try dearly these commitments. But life presses on, for human potential is known. Enhancing life in its evolution gives reason to persist in awakening. There are many who pray for peace and goodwill and their voices are heard. And the results of these are substantial. Many can see, in the young children, the hope of the future, the peace, love, and forgiveness, and open-mindedness, simple joy that they radiate.

The evidence of better life is everywhere. Never lose sight of this. Namaste.

108. Sincere questions are the key to awakening

Apr. 18, 2018

JANU: Awakening, establishes conscious relationship with associations and collaborations with the Family of Life. The illusion of individual identity and separation from others, which is a condition of the incarnate life, gives way to the larger reality of connectedness, group purpose and contribution, engagement of the relationships. So, you see, awakening is not just becoming more aware, but consciously engaging the patterns of life while incarnate. Thinking in a larger way takes getting used to. Human social consciousness can seem blind to this. Limiting your identity to the limitations of others perpetuates this.

The questions arise: Who are you? What is your nature? What is your relationship with the larger life? What is your discarnate life pattern? How deep are your memories beyond this sojourn? Are you open to any of this? Sincere questions are the keys to open these doors of inquiry. Namaste.

109. Identity, integrity, the larger life

May 4, 2018

JANU: Let it be said that the initiation of a more awakened consciousness is not just a private matter, you see. It includes the layers of life, the many realities that speak to the many connections that exist in oneness. The Family of Life is not just other beings. It is everything. The maturing of consciousness includes this as well.

It is not easy to let go of individual identity to the exclusion of the rest of life. The veil conditions this to the point where association with each other makes this seem more real than the larger life. Individual and collective consciousness converge and include each other as part of awakening. The ‘this or that’ mentality, perception, is a leftover from incarnate living and associations. ‘This and that and that and that’ is a larger reality.

Integrity is part of the larger life as well. All of life has integrity, whether collective or individual, and they co-exist. Being alone in life is only a perception. Opening to the larger life does not sacrifice integrity in any way. It just expands identity. Be at peace with this. Much more is yet to come in understanding and experience. Namaste.

110. Being an arbiter

May 9, 2018

JANU: For today’s journey, we will take a look at, so to speak, arbitration between factions of life that occurs constantly to bring peace, balance, and harmony to the many elements of life. Such it is for human society.

Arbitration is a masterful skill in bringing balance and resolution to the many conflicts and challenges of so many. When observing this situation, think ‘arbitration’ rather than ‘winner’ or ‘loser.’ This artful skill is a rare quality among those unaware of the larger life. Too much friend and foe, master and underdog, right and wrong, advantaged and disadvantaged.

Even in your own experiences and concerns, use the eyes, the perception, of an arbiter. The parties involved will respond to varying degrees, for their True Natures are responsive to the true elements of arbitration. An arbiter’s goal is never a winner or loser but resolution, balance, and a measure of peace. Namaste.

111. Understanding the future

May 9, 2018 B

JANU: Assembled then at this time that needed to approximate the ability to proceed along the lines of foreseeing. For many what has been, what is and what will be are separate realities. Yet in reality they are one. Potential is the determining factor, and that is built through the experience and wisdom of all three. Larger factors are there as well, but this is a beginning of understanding.

Now most understand, from their perspective, past and present. The future is the mystery. How can that be one with the other two? Without the other two, the third cannot exist, for the future is the future of what, you see. Life is a process of self-realization. Even the decisions made exist in the future yet to be realized and experienced through what they create. Co-creation means just that. As the present and the past are intertwined, the future is as well.

Every moment, instant, that occurs next becomes the present expanded. The future is the very next moment. Your decisions to engage your potential are the future. Think not of the future as being reality at great distance and time, but the very next moment. As you open to the reality of this in your consciousness, one can, through insight, see the potential of everything and choose the future that you desire. Co-creation is this process.

Past, present, and future are one. Journey with this as a foundation as life unfolds. Nothing is fixed, our brother, everything in motion including the past, present, and future. Namaste.

112. The richness of awakening

May 24, 2018

JANU: Here we are again, pondering Life, the magnificence and beauty of it and its eternal nature. Rich then is the one who is aware of this and lives their life in this way. Concerns of survival do not extend to the Larger Life, but the Larger Life extends to the incarnate life and is manifest there. Awakening helps fulfill the destiny of this and is born by each one. Every choice, every decision has significance. Being conscious of this promotes the confidence that life is manageable, understandable, and resourceful. Namaste.

113. What is the scope of your love interest?

May 25, 2018

JANU: Love interest seems to be the theme here. What is it that bonds the elements of being? It is a love of who and what you are, and through that reality the loving of life and each other.

The theme for exploration is: What is your love interest? Is it only power, wealth, pleasure, physical things? Or is it the presence and beauty of life, which is at the heart of everything, creation or manifestation?

What is the scope of your love interest? For some, it includes forgiveness, patience, tolerance, understanding, and service. For some, it is the enrichment of others to obtain their sovereignty, their freedom, their power to create, explore, and understand.

What is your love interest? Does it include procreation? The Larger Life? True Peace? Is it hope in the future, the evolution of life, and new discoveries, the mystery behind everything?

What is the scope of your love interest? How real is it? How fully do you embrace it and live it? Namaste.

114. Loving all that you are

May 28, 2018

JANU: A worthy theme. Loving all that you are as a complete being with many elements and realities: a coordinated reality; a co-creator; a servant of the Light; a blessing for others, in one way or another. Guided by the best within you, rich with memories, associations, and potential. Many lessons learned and many to learn. A growing consciousness aware of more and more of life and engaging it. Patience and tolerance guided by understanding.

Everyone has these potentials and much more. Because of this it is natural to relate to each other, share the blessings of life, and encourage each other, for it takes everyone to express Life's potential and be part of it. Explore, achieve, and discover not just the life around you but the life within you. Loving all that you are emulates the love that created you. Namaste.

115. The awakening of collective humanity

May 29, 2018

JANU: The subject being the collective awakening of humanity, the dynamics involved, motivations, and relationship with the Larger Life. Human consciousness as a collective is best described as a synergism of many elements, many consciousnesses, influencing each other as waves of change. These changes occur systemically and patterns to be read in these changes indicate the sensitivity of human consciousness to the flow of life that they all share. A pearl of wisdom here suggests that humanity is on the move and the conflicts and controversies that exist are struggling to survive the catharsis.

Now the awakening of humanity is sponsored by collective True Nature. For, even as each human is dominated by a perception of individuality, relating to this more than collective unity, oneness, humanity evolves as a collective, a body of consciousness moving through life with symmetry and purpose. Now this reality does not exist only for humanity but other life groupings as well. And all of these groupings have a bond, a synchronicity, a collective reality in the flow of life. So true and complete isolation belongs to perception only.

The motivations to evolve exist internally, reflected in experience. An awakening consciousness can perceive these patterns and understand more deeply human destiny. A journey worth taking, our brother. The larger perspective sees the elements of life more clearly. Namaste.

116. Loving who you are and what you can be

June 1, 2018 B

JANU: Realize this: that the love ability of the True Nature is understood best as a representative of the larger Truth of Life. Many have difficulty with this concept, for they think of themselves as something less, labeled 'sinners' by the church, inferior in the institutions of education. Training, intelligence, education, degrees of professional mastery or lack thereof leave many feeling not only less than they could be but that is all they are. Awakening is the answer to this, becoming conscious of your entire nature, the living miracle of existence, of being.

This one sojourn does not measure you. It is only a moment of human experience, but that moment is filled with potential and many more moments to come. The journey of life is endless. Each one has achieved much and will achieve more. Comparison with each other is pointless, unless it only inspires you to become more aware. Observe others to build a sense of possibilities. Include your inner life for the rest, you see.

Life loves you and all that you are, because you are life itself and how can life not love itself? Everyone is worthy, no matter what. Loving oneself is allowing all that you can be to be. Life is in motion, always evolving, and so are you. Love another in the same way. Loving becomes, then, a way of living, which is natural and eternal. Be kind to each other. Kindness has its reward. Namaste.

117. What is the potential of humanity?

June 4, 2018

JANU: We are encouraging then the inflow of consciousness to stimulate the awakening of humanity, leaving the 'dark ages' behind, giving life to the new on a journey of evolution of many thresholds. The quest to awaken humanity is a complex one. The potential of the True Nature is endless, as all of life evolves.

Witnessing the depravity made possible by the veil can discourage the observer as to humanity's potential. The Larger Life understands this, our brother, yet is still patient and supportive of that potential. Focus, then, upon the greatness of a better life, exploring potential with a maturing consciousness, helping humanity connect with the alternative to depravity, ignorance, and isolation.

So let us explore that potential for the human journey, which is one of many. Unlimited co-creation, limited only by consciousness, maturity, and Life itself. The joy of discovery and co-creation, experimenting with life and one's own being, motivated by a love for life, service, bringing Light to the inquiring consciousness. All of this, our brother, has always been available, waiting for humanity to mature into it.

Awakening to the True Nature is the doorway, the source for individual potential with great wisdom from many experiences and connection with the Larger Life. Potential is the focus here. What is the potential of humanity? Namaste.

118. Opportunities and awakening

June 6, 2018 B

JANU: Enormous, then, are the opportunities to proceed in these directions of health and potential. Awakening cannot be pigeonholed, if you will, into one focus. Its gambit is all of life, and not all at the same time. It's a diverse experience with many correlations, one awareness leading to another. Follow these intuitions and inspirations, not just one at a time but simultaneously.

Learn from the journeys of others, not just to benefit but to support and encourage. Learn to recognize opportunities in this area. That is part of awakening as well, our brother, recognizing opportunities. Be observant of life, determining each part of it and the unknown behind what you observe. Remember: what your attention is upon, you are connected to. So take time to connect and focus upon the endless mysteries of life. Namaste.

119. Options in awakening

June 8, 2018

JANU: We are presenting at this time options for humanity on its path of awakening. These options include sporadic treatment of unharmonious configurations of ego, temperament, emotions. Another is dedication to larger realities, including and beyond incarnate life. A third option is the denial of the larger life altogether. The fourth is being one with the flow of one's own life and its heritage, bringing peace to all it touches.

What we see here are distinct possibilities uncovering the depth and breadth of potential. These will include inspiration from those in the Larger Life, the witnessing of awakening in others, that freedom discovered in one's own life to be whatever they choose.

So you see, our brother, awakening has many dynamics, potentials, and directions. Namaste.

120. Co-existing with Nature's proclivities

June 8, 2018 B

JANU: We are celebrating once again, if you will, the so-called climbing of the mountain into the Larger Life. Understand this, our brother, the Larger Life includes the incarnate life as well, but in a deeper way, for the incarnate life is richer than most know in the subtleties of life, the rich dynamics, the power of peace, the pervasiveness of love, and rich opportunity to evolve and awaken further.

Human tragedy, as such, is the natural unfoldment of life's anomalies, fed by circumstance and human agendas. Nature's proclivities for process, change, dynamics have their natural course. Wise is the individual who understands these dynamics and makes wiser decisions to co-exist with them and continue their journeys. There are alternative solutions to everything, our brother. Awakening is the path to this, not just to be more aware, but to make wiser choices.

"And where does wisdom come from?" you ask. It comes from experience, understanding, and the great reservoir of your True Nature. The power of listening opens the door to the inner flow. The potential for this is always present. Namaste.

Definition of Co-existence

June 2018

Co-existence for our purposes goes beyond the idea of 'existing side by side' and the vague notion that we are all 'one.' We have explored the concept that the individuality identity, the human ego, is a small part of a much larger reality and hopefully come to experience and explore parts of this larger reality. Co-existence involves a conscious integration of all the elements of your consciousness. This expands your identity and connection consciously to fuller understanding of the concept of oneness.

121. Co-existence and peace

June 11, 2018

JANU: The reality of co-existence is part of the truth behind everything. The illusion of separation, boundaries, limits is from the incarnate experience, reinforced by the veil, such as it is called. Focusing then on the human sojourn, as the mind opens to new possibilities, new to the human experience, the consciousness expands to include co-existence and its depth, its scope.

There are many thresholds of reality and they all co-exist, our brother. We co-exist with you, and each other. Presence is everywhere and always. Being one, being connected is not an achievement. It already exists. Being conscious of this and living life in this way is an achievement in the incarnate life.

Allowing others their truth is part of this. Honoring their pace and their form of awakening to their truth is to honor your own, with patience, understanding, tolerance, and, yes, love. Be your ideal. Be your nature. Be the truth you seek to understand. Be the freedom that everyone benefits from. Being at peace, our brother, is what we have always encouraged. Namaste.

122. Social change and the triggers

June 25, 2018

JANU: We are fortified then with the understanding that preliminary response to Sagittarius rising bespeaks of moments in time when transgressions not peaceful find themselves out of favor with collective human consciousness. Witness the southern border activity of your nation.

Let us speak to this directly and convey our understanding and this transgression's place in the flow of human existence. It focuses attention of the loving consciousness of so many upon this anomaly in the evolution of human consciousness. Its influence is expanding and will continue to do so, bringing change to what is acceptable to human consciousness.

Let us continue to see this as a turning point in the redirection of society, paving the way for re-assessment of other aspects of social consciousness. There will be more such as these as attention intensifies on social change and integrity of consciousness. Namaste.

123. The merging of inner and outer life explored

JANU: We are speaking of your new awareness of the reality of co-existence. Let us begin by saying that there needs be a point of reference to establish concurrence with the norms of life. Let that be, then, that which urges you to complete more fully the union of consciousness diametrically opposed to ignorance. To be conscious and aware of this reality, let there be then a negotiation between the inner and outer life allowing the truth of each to find common ground and experience. The co-existence reality previously unaware of is a transition in consciousness that waits for validation while remaining open to the possibility. Examples of this occur when ideas form, insights that pick up on the flow of life occurring in the daily routine, unbeckoned.

Allow new understandings of life to settle in, so to speak, find their footing, establish themselves in such a way that the understanding and the experience blossoms. They can be rejected by choice in the manner of previous ignorance, but their wisdom, their reasonableness holds sway. Negotiating life successfully is enhanced by these new awarenesses. Namaste.

124. Understanding truth

June 28, 2018 B

JANU: Surrounding then this opportunity to explore lies an atmosphere of truth. The wisdom you seek, our brother, exists and the awakening consciousness co-exists with this, consciously. So proceeding with this understanding, let us survey that which deems itself to be 'truth.'

Exploring truth, for most, is a simplistic and limited perception of reality. What is not truth, our brother? The eye of the beholder, so to speak, interprets what it observes and experiences. Life is such that all forms of truth can be explored, providing experience, outcomes, observations, limited understandings. For truth is unlimited, you see, as are realities of existence, of creation.

Wise is the one who pursues truth, not hanging onto any one expression but always open to the truth behind it. For life expresses layers of reality, you see, so select the truths you are aware of and apply them to support your chosen paths of experiencing life. But truth is not a fixed or static reality, you see. It is in motion, evolving, revealing depth and variations.

Peace is truth, our brother, with many expressions. 'Being at peace' cannot be contained in one interpretation or expression. It is larger than that, as is 'truth.' Live life understanding that there is always more to understand, more to be. Namaste.

125. Normalizing conscious co-existence

June 29, 2018

JANU: We are normalizing then that which connects up the elements of being. What is so-called 'channeling' then, our brother, but the coordination of and cooperation of the elements of consciousness throughout the being? Benefit takes place, not just to the being, but to life itself. The more this occurs, being at peace is conscious union with the coordination, the co-existence consciously, with all that you are. For through this reality, conscious union with the larger life is enhanced. Let there be, then, this normalization, which is a state of being, you see, more harmonious than without it.

Wisdom is not limited to a portion of life, but is owned, so to speak, by all of it. All that is gained in the evolution of life belongs to life, for it is made of it, continued by it, enriched by it. The Family of Life is more vast and diverse than most are aware of. It is a blending of individual responsibility and collective reality, coexisting, flowing together. Namaste.

126. Awakening builds upon the past and fulfills potential

July 3, 2018

JANU: Engagement and enrichment are the themes of progression along the lines of the forecasting of human endeavor. Let it be known that the peaceful remains of long past psychology of human consciousness have built a web, tangled in some ways, that breach the unknown. The future restores this web to its pristine origins that they resemble the flow of life and its complex patterns in other venues. Bringing all of this to light is a mainstay against deterioration of fundamental human endeavor. Positioning ourselves comfortably to embrace revelations across the spectrum of life helps ensure diligence in discernment, integrity, and confidence. We proceed in this direction, our brother, building upon what has been, fulfilling potential, and continuing to awaken. Namaste.

127. Be at peace while reaching for the stars

July 4, 2018 B

JANU: We are beginning a dialogue pursuing the essential nature and integrity of life. An understanding humanity would benefit from, each in their own way, in their own time. It is their heritage in the larger Family of Life. Common pursuits, yet unaware of achievements of significance. Communications with others, some of whom are from other worlds. The models of existence have influenced humanity without recognizing their nature. There are many groups of beings, whether incarnate or not, installed in many realities. The richness of diversity of life cannot be measured, no matter the scope of your grasp of reality. That scope plays its role in the evolution of consciousness.

Opportunities abound to expand awareness, deepen perspective, assimilate conditions of existence. Let there be, then, a growing perspective of the evolution of life, not limited to time/space perceptions. The process continues, our brother. Be at peace with this, while reaching for the stars, you see. Namaste.

128. Awakening is universal

July 9, 2018

JANU: Instructionally speaking, we would represent the Order of Life that pertains to the awakening of humanity. Now this venture is compounded by the duplicity of other such ventures simultaneously. All of creation is awakening, our brother, and beyond. Awakening is a theme of life related to Life's ongoing evolution. So Life, through all its creation and beyond, is becoming more conscious, more aware of what it is evolving into. The traditions of this extend beyond this universe, this reality of which you are familiar.

Humanity has always been awakening, a never ending process from the beginning of life, each of its creations, each of its realities. Awakening is not a unique reality. Being conscious of it is part of the process, you see, of the evolution of Life. This theme will always prevail, a necessary element of Life's continuation. The God that many speak of is an expression of this reality. It is part of the awakening unfoldment, a vehicle for expansion of consciousness through experience and inner revelation that manifests in the outer life.

The motivation, the drive to understand more of life creates these opportunities. It is Life's response to co-creation. Comparing one's state of consciousness or awakening to another, whether it be human or creature or beyond, is pointless, for all of this is changing. Attempting to understand the consciousness of another form of life by only your own human reference and experience is limited, for the form employed by others is not the same. The parameters are different. The results are different.

Grow in your ability to become conscious of the conditions of Life as they are. Whether they appear as you or not, they are valid. The Family of Life is larger than you know and getting larger still. Be at peace with your achievements and your potential. Namaste.

129. The challenge of new thresholds

July 10, 2018 B

JANU: Appraisal of the flow of life reality at best describes the emergence of human consciousness into the Larger Life, deliberately, as one of unity, of purpose. The quest for awareness of something more than is known is a hallmark of sentient life. Rich are the footsteps of consciousness ennobled by the divine nature of life.

Shall we say this, our brother: Belonging to the archives and traditions of awakening, there always comes a time when new thresholds challenge. These thresholds vary according to maturity. Encountering other worlds, there will be many differences and the challenges met by each one. Physical distances serve a purpose of non-interference but maturing consciousness makes embrace with another world possible.

Not only are there human archives but many others as well. Each can be visited when mature enough to do so. Humanity considers its world isolated. That is only a perception. The awakening consciousness reveals the reality. Let there be, then, an upwelling in the consciousness of the Archives of Life, which are part of your nature and everyone else's. Drawing upon what has been gained, while adding to, speaks to the co-existence reality. Choose to listen and understand. Peace, our brother. Namaste.

130. Pioneers and protocols

July 17, 2018 B

JANU: We are summoning that needed to proceed with the undeniable reality of the progression of consciousness. 'Sailing into the sunset of life' speaks of transition from one reality to another. What we propose here, our brother, is the transition into the Larger Life. The sun is setting on old ways of thinking, of life perception, but it is a joint activity. Taking human pride in singular accomplishment, with perception of individual decision-making, will not fly in the face of the traditions and protocols of Life, which are a symphony of cooperation, coordination, mutual benefit. We seek, then, and search the Archives or records of Life that are the nature of understanding and achievement.

Life is a brotherhood of pioneers working together, each contributing and each benefiting. Not always easy for the pioneer to understand, for initially they perceive themselves as on their own. It is wise, and natural, to embrace those who have gone on before and are still evolving. Acknowledgement of this, employment of this is a pre-ordained reality, part of the wisdom of the larger you. Namaste.

131. Finding peace

July 20, 2018

JANU: Peace, then, our brother, the mainstay of the progression of life, welcoming all who come in this way. Many are not used to peace. They come with troubled minds and hearts, uncertainty, confusion, angry, fearful. “How does one turn this around?” you ask. Example is one way. Uplifting concepts, perceptions. Loving each as they are. Acts of kindness. Freedom from circumstance to believe in themselves, no matter what their life includes.

This is why society created ‘God’: to bring life to hope, to bring divine authority into their lives. It serves a purpose. Loved by many, understood of its nature by few. But the source of this desire in creation is an unconscious inner knowing that their True Nature is divine and their home away from home.

Awakening serves this need, our brother. The co-existence reality of all that each one is. God exists in its way, and is part of the Larger Life. A thing of beauty, loved and prayed to, a guide for living created by the hearts and souls of those looking for that guidance, but still separate from the source of that desire. Awakening re-unites each one with their own true divine Nature, the Christ within. Full of love and forgiveness and peace. Consider this at will, our brother. Welcome others into their peace. Namaste.

The idea of society creating 'God' is touched on in a number of posts on the website. Start with this one, posted on Aug. 9, 2018. The other Awakening series also had pertinent sections: Awakening: A series #9 Connection and #22 Source of existence and Awakening II-Associations and Collaborations #146 Lifting Human Consciousness. These can be found as .pdf files on the website journeysintolight.org.

132. Challenges on the path of awakening

July 20, 2018 B

JANU: Challenging, then, is the future of discovery of the larger Truth of Life, the deeper meanings and purpose behind the seemingly apparent. Bringing understanding to oneself and to others steps on the toes, so to speak, of many beliefs. The truth is truth, our brother, stands on its own merit, and being seen in the light of day is its right. For the Truth of Life, which is always evolving, is the destiny of those who travel on the path of awakening. Let it be known, then, growing into understanding is a journey without end, for there is always more to be revealed and new realities are being created and evolving as well. So fear not retribution for revealing more of life. The Light of Life will out, even as we speak. Namaste.

133. Learn from others but be true to yourself

July 23, 2018 B

JANU: As you recall, more and more is the wind in the sails, journeying into the larger life, the awakening, the revelations, the evolution of consciousness. This journey of life we speak of, everyone is on. Some are conscious of it and some are not. But the relationship with life changes with awareness. Each on their own time, in their own way.

Learn from each other's journeys. Be true to your own. Learning from others does not mean following them for each has their own destiny and destination. As you discover your own nature, live its truth.

We of the Brotherhood, which includes you, our brother, speak as one with many voices. Untangle the web of ignorance, confusion, misunderstandings, and limited perceptions. The Truth of Life contains many realities, each having their own richness. Visit them all, in harmony with the flow of life. Namaste.

134. Life is rich so live life as you may

July 25, 2018 B

JANU: We are proceeding with dialogue that best represents the initial prologue to a bountiful life. For life is bountiful. It is rich for everyone, whether appreciated, understood or not. Each sojourn extends and enriches the consciousness of the whole being. Life evolves. New opportunities are created. Relationships change and build upon each other. Life is rich, always, even for those who shrink from it. Wisdom has been created and the journeys continue.

Limit not perception of richness to just the physical life, for you are more than that. Much more is involved than just the body, you see. You are a spirit being at the same time, co-existing, relating to more and more of reality.

Learn what you may. Discern how you may. Understand what you may. Reveal what you may. Create as you may. Build as you may. Love as you may. Be at peace as you may. Your worth is not limited to incarnate life, but it is expressed there, for all of life co-exists, is connected. Namaste.

135. The Tapestry of Life benefits from each life

July 26, 2018

JANU: The seeming suddenness of revelation at times has to do with the timing of opportunities. Not always meaning 'an emergency.' Research into the elements of life is fraught with the timing of opportunities, procedures and protocols, conditioning of consciousness, developing sensitivities served by awakening, you see. All of these elements, and many more, are part of this process of consciousness expansion, wisdom gaining, and service. Being a receiver and contributor of and to life keeps your plate full, so to speak. The resting times are part of this as well, for assimilation and consideration.

What we are attempting here is to reveal the tapestry of life, its intricate weaving, patterns, and its ever-changing face. The vast patterns of life to be observed, discovered, understood are seemingly discovered randomly but the variations are so vast, difficult to see the pattern, the logic and the sequence of it. That is part of its wonder, our brother. Putting everything into perspective is not easy when the entire puzzle is not yet fully assembled in your consciousness. But the building does continue, the patterns emerge, the understanding accumulates, the wisdom is gained, the contributions you make accumulate. Living life serves life and benefits everyone. Namaste.

136. Stepping stones for humanity

July 27, 2018 B

JANU: We have assembled at this time a progression of human experience in inner preparation for conscious insights into the realm of the unknown about who they are. Self-discovery and realization is on the doorstep of the human experience as a more common reality, but the primary trigger or catalyst for this is one's own True Nature. Others who are growing in this way inspire through example, building confidence and acceptance. The momentum has begun, the process accelerated generally. The more people are open to the unknown within them, the more society will change. Discernment and perception, wisdom, ensue. Stepping stones, our brother. Namaste.

137. Congratulations to all on the path of becoming

July 30, 2018 B

JANU: We are looking into, then, the psyche of humanity for it represents the conditions of awakening. These conditions speak of intolerance, self-condemnation, doubt, and a disconnect from pure joy, peace, love of self and life, freedom.

Self-worth has been an issue for humanity. The use of the term 'sinner' has not been helpful. Quite the opposite is true. Each one has enormous capacities of generosity, caring, loving patience, genius, and expansion of consciousness returning to the divine state of the True Nature. All are worthy of encouragement and these finer qualities.

Gaining wisdom through the experience of living is part of this path of awakening. Incarnate life is rich with this. Understanding purpose, opportunity, and commitment to one's own divine qualities enriches incarnate life and the rest of life as well, you see.

All realities co-exist, each with their own parameters of existence, qualities if you will, natures. Consciousness can expand and awaken to travel time and space and the larger life as well. What a grand adventure awaits everyone who chooses it! One's own origin and destiny are revealed.

This is part of the flow of life. Congratulations to everyone on the path of becoming. Namaste.

138. Peaceful negotiation

July 31, 2018

JANU: We are searching through the archives of the phenomenon called 'peaceful negotiation.' These occur randomly throughout the history of humanity but have become a rarity in recent times. The heritage of these, when reviewed, move the consciousness in the direction of the connectedness and the co-existence of the realities of the participants. Let there be then a resurgence in peaceful negotiations on every level. Reactionaries find these, through their perception, a weak relationship, ineffective, for there is nothing to react to. Common benefit, mutual benefit, compromise does not call for reaction but a response, involvement, engagement, finding solutions.

In the past, we have spoken of identity, individual and collective. A worthy and revealing pursuit to explore these identities: their nature, their origins, their limitations and their strengths. Peaceful negotiations are influenced by these and should remain a marker or milestone for the evolution of human consciousness and society. Why not remember, from time to time, engagement in these? Remember when relationships were more cordial, profitable, and self-sustaining. Be at peace in this and find strength, endurance, reciprocation, and the advancement of a human culture and society. Namaste.

139. Decision making

Aug. 1, 2018 B

JANU: An interesting point to be made on making choices. There is wisdom in observing the experiences and wisdom of others, but decisions to be made in your life are yours to make. No matter the consequences, for they are part of the learning. Make the wisest decisions you may. Consider your options, which include your own insights. Ask your questions to the truth of who you are. There is great wisdom to be aware of, for you are much more than a human ego.

Share with others what you own in understanding and experience, but they must make their decisions, their choices, their own insights. Support each other's awakening while standing in your integrity. Namaste.

140. Your anchor in the future

Aug. 2, 2018

JANU: We are embracing the future of humanity. Its current seeming turmoil worldwide is not a new experience for humanity. There have been others, and this too shall pass. Many consider the forces at work, the consciousnesses involved, engaged in this turmoil, are powerful. They have their power, yes, but it is insignificant in comparison to the reality of the rest of life, the Larger Life. The Earth and humanity, one of many worlds, is beloved by those who are in harmony with life, for the hope and the promise of grander revelations, achievements, creations is alive and well.

During these times, it is best to maintain your focus and allow it to mature and evolve. If your tasks are clear to you, based on your integrity, beliefs, and desires, fulfill them. They are part of your anchor in the future of humanity. Limited perceptions and attitudes and behaviors take a back seat, so to speak, to the momentum of awakening, self-realization, and the advancement of life. Temporary distractions on the path of awakening.

Choose to remember who you truly are, your traditions, your legacies, your potential, your worth, your loves and your dreams. They will carry you through. Namaste, brothers and sisters of the Light.

141. You are a divine being

Aug. 3, 2018

JANU: We are hailing the masterful peace recognition of Divine Presence within the consciousness of each one. Let there be understood that the Divine each one seeks as the ultimate in love, wisdom, and power co-exists with each one universally. Not off in some distant place, not removed from your reality, but present always. It is part of your True Nature. It is who you are. To continue in expanding your awakening, begin there, with loving acceptance, ensuing remembrance of your own Nature, its vast experience and wisdom and capacity to be loving, patience of so-called eternity, ever expanding and evolving and maturing.

If this is your interest, your value, your desire, your sense of inner calling, put your attention on this. Allow remembrance. Allow experience and the Presence to fill your awareness and be grateful, and more will come. Apply it to your life, to your knowing. Experience its freedom and vitality. Namaste.

142. The journey of life is a miracle

Aug. 6, 2018

JANU: We review with you peaceful negotiation once more. This describes the successful nuances of presentation of understanding when addressing others. Peaceful communication and connection opens the consciousness to possibilities. Patience is a companion of peace. And love unites everything. Tolerance allows revelations, instead of denials. Joy in discovery that brings fulfillment and new wonder.

Life is an adventure. Each step on the journey is new, but subtly guided by the wisdom of your own True Nature. Each one's footsteps are recorded for all time. Regard each other in the embrace of all of these qualities and more, for all are Life itself evolving, growing, changing, realizing potential, and creating. The journey of life is an ongoing miracle and everyone contributes. Namaste.

143. Being more aware brings reciprocal connection

Aug. 7, 2018 B

JANU: Awakening is not just being 'aware of' but being 'connected to,' for as you become more conscious your attention connects with more of life. Interactions, collaborations, and service ensue. Awareness of a reality is a connection and wisdom gained through experience is the key that opens the door.

Let us say at this point that the opportunities that are created are for both ends of the connection, you see, so consider at some length the reality for what your connection is upon. This is why, or at least one reason why, awakening is a slow and deliberate process, not to be hastened into. Much to be considered here. This theme is true when connecting with others outwardly. Be sincere and genuine. Namaste.

144. Wondering

Aug.10, 2018

JANU: Wondering is the beginning of larger thought that has a profound effect on the psyche. It brings into play unlimited possibilities.

Wondering about who you are. What is life? Why am I here so to speak? What is my purpose? Is there more to life than this? What of the future? What is my strength and my power, if any? How do I find out?

A key change, our brother, in consciousness is the declaration "I choose to know." Let the doubt and confusion fade away. Let commitment to discover build.

So that is the question, you see, when querying another in this area of understanding: What do you wonder about? And who is doing the wondering?

Is life all connected and in what way? What is the purpose of everything? Is there a God? Did Jesus really exist? Do the churches have it right? What is Truth? Does prayer really work? Who am I? What am I? What really happens after death?

Wondering is the key to beginning the endless journey of discovery into the larger truth of everything. So wonder together. Be inspired by each one's wondering and their discoveries. Grow individually and together, for no one is ever truly alone. Namaste.

145. Blessings and the Light of Truth

Aug. 10, 2018 B

JANU: We are simulating, if you will, in the consciousness of projection, for that created in consciousness has its reality as well, revealing the partnership between potential and manifestation. Each one has their own potential, which is part of their destiny. Their own truth, their own light, whether conscious of it or not. It only awaits their acceptance, their inquiry, their desire to know. One thing does lead to another, and another, and another, beginning with the desire to know and experience.

Blessings, whether for oneself or others, need no micro-management but allowed to be whatever is needed, truly needed. Those who serve life, whether incarnate or not, encourage and support blessings. May the Light shine in each one, which is the Truth of Life, in a perfect way. Namaste.

146. A universal calling

Aug. 17, 2018

JANU: Peak interest in the expression of information amounting to established principles in the direction of maximizing potential results in a growing mass effort to realize that potential. What we show here is the determination of Life itself to evolve. We are part of this, which includes your life journey as well.

So the issue or focus here is not just the awakening of others and the self, but the larger effort or imperative, compelling of the True Nature of Life. It has always been there but, as awakening ensues, the ground becomes more fertile for expression. We of the Brotherhood of Light do not lay this responsibility on you alone. It is distributed throughout life, engaged by those who welcome it for it lives within them and walks through their lives with them.

This is not your imperative alone. It exists in others. Help each other discover the truth of their own life, their own Nature. Encourage them to do so. Encouragement in time takes the form of one other expressing the calling from within and sharing what they have learned about it. Namaste.

147. Becoming more conscious and the rewards

Aug. 20, 2018

JANU: We are surfacing once more, so to speak, in the presence of denial on the part of humanity as to its nature. It is the threshold of a new life to seek after, discover, and experience the larger reality of being that is each one. For it changes perspective about everything.

“And how does this quest begin?” you ask. It begins by loving who you are, whether you understand it or not, and being aware of what makes you ‘you.’ Coming to know this ‘you’ as a larger being, a larger truth, capable of so much more than you currently understand. The desire to return to the state of full consciousness you left behind to incarnate; to understand and experience more deeply the life you have been living; to make sense of everything and find peace in the knowing and illusive happiness; to be intrinsically happy for no reason but because you choose to be.

Reclaim the true power of being who you truly are and find joy in seeing the awakening blossom in others, each one becoming sovereign beings serving each other. These joys, these miracles, these revelations belong to everyone as their heritage, their destiny, and their foundation to evolve further. Namaste.

148. Awakening to other realities

Aug. 21, 2018 B

JANU: Surveying possibilities of reality beyond the limits, beyond the third dimension, physicality if you will, is a quantum shift in perception. The consciousness can explore and experience, to a degree, much of this. But it is a stretch, you see, to be conscious in the physical world or reality and remain connected while exploring consciously other realms. We would have you understand this. The attempt should always be made, but understand the challenges. We of the Brotherhood of Light will always assist and much can be achieved worth the journey, you see.

Integrating the larger life into the conscious third-dimensional life takes identity shifting far beyond common perceptions. It is true, whatever your attention is on, you are connected to. So begin there and allow the natural change in consciousness expansion and appreciate natural reality.

Let us continue with these explorations and your identity perception will transform more closely to that of your True Nature, which is expanding as well. The attunement never ends for that is the desire and the reality of being and awakening. Namaste.

149. All of life's challenges and opportunities are linked

Aug. 22, 2018

JANU: We are assembled then at this time, bringing due diligence to the peaceful nature of the sublime. True peace is the strength of enlightened consciousness in the midst of the evolution and unfoldment of life, meaning the daily occurrences.

Life interactions run the gambit and are many times discouraging, but life lives on and its nature is to accommodate and continue. Such it is with the enlightened existence. One accommodates and continues. Precision mapping of the moment regards everything in perspective. Untangles webs of confusion. Solutions are revealed, confidence restored, commitments maintained. Confidence is built upon a history of resolve and resolution. There are always solutions.

Life does not create challenges to defeat itself, to end itself, to close the door on the truth, but at times to redirect toward more profitable outcomes, paving the way for achievements in the midst of other opportunities. So, in some ways, everything is linked. Yes, it is the nature of existence. Thank you and namaste.

150. Life is, and it is who you are

Aug. 22, 2018 B

JANU: Enamored with Truth, your long quest to discover and experience the Larger Life is a quest achievable. As with any journey in life, our brother, the process of discovery, of expansion, that provides ownership and meaning occurs deliberately, for all of the journey, all of its elements, are part of the ownership, you see. One sojourn does not complete the journey. Neither does a moment. But the process, you see, is the miracle of awakening.

Live this truth. Convey it to others. Patience, persistence, commitment, engagement. Value the richness of every twist and turn, every moment of discovery. Life is is, our brother, every moment of it. Observe, engage, and enjoy everything. Life is growing and creating constantly. Be one with this. It is who you are. Namaste.

151. Replacing confusion with revelation

Aug. 23, 2018

JANU: We are sublimating then that which confuses to that which reveals. Revelation is the key to being one with the Truth of Life in such a way that responds to and performs peace of mind, joy in life, profound anticipation for the future. Confusion is ignorance leading to random speculation that feeds itself and continues itself. Revelation, then, is discovering fed by a desire to know, faith in the wisdom and love of life and the integrity of one's own divinity and True Nature.

Begin there, with your journeys of exploration. There is always more to explore in deeper and diverse ways. Have confidence in solutions to everything. Find strength in your revelations for they always lead to more. Success is fed by success. When in doubt, review successes. Find strength in them, and focus, and see how they lead to the future. Connecting everything up, our brother, Life is continuously evolving and all are part of it. Namaste.

152. The Mystery of Life

Aug. 23, 2018 B

JANU: The mystery of life is fraught with levels of consciousness, profound realities that are changing patterns of existence. And, to coin a phrase, who doesn't love a good mystery? And this one is the best, for it includes everything.

Everyone is part of and contributes to this mystery. Every moment of every day of the incarnate existence is detective work, finding the truth at the heart of everything, including one's own existence. For, as one achieves this, their skills as a detective grow. So what part of this mystery appeals to you, draws you, pulls at you? Each such focus is magical. It is the key that unlocks the consciousness to that truth.

Uncovering this mystery requires patience and commitment and self-love and peace. Explore these qualities. Allow them to grow within you as well. The mystery of life is yours to explore, understand, and achieve. A little at a time, here and there, a moment now and then is how the foundation is built so that understanding can evolve and grow, leading to more.

What a wonderful journey awaits everyone! What more challenge and rewarding mystery can there be, our brother? Answering the question "Who are you?" "Why are you here?" "And how may I serve?" Namaste.

153. From symbolism to revelation to ownership

Aug. 30, 2018

JANU: We are speaking on the subject at hand, referring of course to symbolism, ownership, experience, perception, reality. These conditions or patterns of life represent the combined consciousness of revelation. What is a revelation, then, other than a new experience, a new perception, a new potential for understanding and ownership?

Revelations are born of inquiry and interaction with the themes of life. Let us pattern these inquiries, then, after such a process. Observe what you may. Remember what you may. Make note of what you may. But that's only a beginning of learning and ownership. The experience, guided by knowledge, yields ownership and wisdom.

Begin with these qualities. Explore everything, including who you are, what you know, and what you own. The adventure never ends, yet becomes richer and richer, leading to more discovery. Thank you, our brother, and namaste.

154. Discovering a reason for being

Aug. 31, 2018

JANU: We are enumerating then that which we hold dear: the evolution of life, which includes everything. Raising consciousness is driven by desire, experience, thoughtful consideration, focus, and emotions.

What does 'consciousness raising' mean, then, but the expansion of awareness and conscious relationship with all of your potential and its service to life? Helping each other is a delicate balance between these and the freedom of another, their own destiny, their potential, their fulfillment. Life is arranged, so to speak, in a way that encourages balance, opportunity, and fulfillment. Life is not limited to the concepts and form and structure, procedure, tradition, scale of common human perception, but includes all of these and so much more.

The conscious human mind grasps for meaning and understanding and discovery beyond its ken. To achieve this, one must align with, attune to, become more one with, in consciousness identity with the larger Nature of their being. Observe, understand, and experience everything within your realm but grow more into the ability to witness all of this with new eyes, so to speak, profound insight, deepening perception, and a love of life and self.

In a sense, it is the new frontier for humanity at this time, a frontier that is unlimited, eternal, and ongoing. What is there to lose in such an adventure but ignorance, limitation, frustration, confusion, unfulfillment? Discover a reason for being. Namaste.

155. The Creative Imperative

JANU: Imperative it is, our brother, the Nature of Life. So often spoken so ill of by those unaware of its perfection. The creative imperative, the essential nature of everything is expressed throughout every reality. Peace in motion, the Truth of Life some call Light. The creative imperative with unlimited potential, an 'isness' that transcends all that is.

Can a creation describe its creator, in terms of its own creation? Your existence is the proof of its truth. Not limited by any form or energy or consciousness or pattern of any kind, but the essential nature of all that is. Even time and space are its creation, and that is only the beginning. What grander purpose to be part of and serve? Life itself. Give credit, gratitude, and love where it's due. Namaste.

156. Can a creation describe its creator?

Sept. 4, 2018

JANU: To a degree, this is so, in terms of being conscious of the other creations of its creator, looking for patterns to recognize in one's self. But the creator has full knowledge of its creation and guidance is always present, if not always understood. For the source of the creation is the creation and evolves by way of this. Being conscious of and alert to these nudges of guidance enhances the journey of the creation to more fully manifest its potential and that of the creator. The creation needs not to understand completely its creator to fulfill its destiny.

Let there be known then that the destiny of each one, each creation, is part of and one with the destiny of the creator and all of its progeny. Total power is not given to any one creation, for that opens the door to mismanagement. A part of each creation's destiny is to awaken to its potential and fulfill it. And even potential evolves, as Life evolves.

Expand and grow as you may. Understand what you may. Mature as you may. Find joy in the discoveries and new understandings and serve life through your achievements. Namaste.

157. All future possibilities are connected in the Larger Life

Sept. 4, 2018 B

JANU: We are energizing the reality that forecasting is not separate from current and past reality. The perception is that many possibilities or outcomes of the present are possible. And they are, but not all of the possibilities are created for this reality, this time/space. Multiple realities coexist and each has their destiny in lockstep with each other. By this we mean "connected," for it takes each one to manifest the patterns involved that they all exist as one. The many possibilities of creation can exist as one when connected in this way, bringing about a synergism globally speaking, as if they were all one reality. But it takes multi-dimensional consciousness to understand this and participate. Reach, then, into a deeper understanding of life and its connectedness. Namaste.

158. Insights

Sept. 5, 2018 B

JANU: We are summoning then that which belongs to the predominance of insight, factors of awakening. Insight is a key ingredient in the preparation of consciousness to embrace the Larger Life. Circumstance, at times, can be the catalyst, ranging from observation of others to the sequence of events. Patterns of life, you see, are triggers for the perception of insights. Let us tailor then our interests to include the best of intentions, for all of life has purpose and method, though not well understood.

Sage advice comes from these dominant factors, the vehicle being insights. There is a tradition of these to varying degrees in each one, at times cast off and with others taken more seriously. Inner sight into the larger reality of the life each one is living. Thank you and namaste.

159. The many flavors of life are all one

Sept. 6, 2018

JANU: This path of enlightenment is bound up in what some call the future, but much larger than that, you see. The path of awakening is part of the foundation for the future, another building block in the evolution of life. This is one reason why each one is so important. They are the building blocks of the future. Awakening enhances this, and is part of this. And what is the future, then, as we have stated before, but the realization of potential, the expression of it? And even that is evolving.

So you see, everything is connected, tied together, mutually beneficial and there is purpose behind everything. No one is left out. Everything is Life, so how can Life not love itself? It would not exist otherwise. There would be no purpose. And, yes, even love: the largest measure of its reality is a co-creative imperative. Understanding of oneness of Life brings purpose to everything, every perception, every decision, every plan, every desire. This is the bridge that brings all together. The wall is the veil, separates everything into pieces and parts of life. Awakening shows everything in life coexists. Many flavors of life, but they are all one. Namaste, our brother.

160. Freedom from fear

JANU: We are summoning then the powers that be to accomplish transition from denial to transparency of motive. The denial we speak of is that that says physical reality is more real than that not seen. Denial is a protective shielding from change, uncertainty, and confusion. The freedom most people settle for is an illusion compared to what is available.

What does it mean, then, to be free? It means to be without fear, uncertainty, and stifling denial. Freedom is the embrace of life without limit. Freedom challenges ignorance and endless repetition. Freedom exposes every reason to allow oneself to share that love with another. Freedom from fear of any kind opens the heart, frees the mind, and allows the spirit to fly. Freedom from a fear of loss brings new adventure, anticipation, to your experience. Freedom radiates uplifting energy to those in fear. Freedom means no pattern holds you without your agreement, including space/time.

So choose freedom and allow that pattern to be your experience. Namaste.

161. All things are created equal

Sept. 10, 2018

JANU: Return, then, to the previously held notion that all things are equal. What we speak of here is 'essential nature.' Being of the same origination, how can one be greater than another? For each one has an intrinsic value according to the nature of Life itself.

Should Life disregard one creation before another, which would be an attempt to isolate life from itself? But even the attempt adds diversity to the fabric of life. Patterns of life represent the culmination of experiences.

Equality takes the wind out of the sails of judgement, you see, the epitome of balance, coordination, and collaboration. Observe your own life, your thoughts, emotions, judgements, in this way. Let this guide decision-making. Move beyond the notion that 'all people are created equal' to 'all things are created equal' from the perception of Life itself.

Taking the larger view of life and the view of the smallest part of it, see them as one. Some find peace in sameness. Choose to find peace in diversity. The patterns of life unite in this way, communicate with each other, are synergistic and make the wholeness of the collective. All of these journeys, our brother, are equal, as are everyone else's. Greater or lesser appraisals limit the view and the understanding. Namaste.

162. Find peace and joy in the adventure of living

Sept. 13, 2018

JANU: One part of life enriches another and, in so doing, enriches all of life. The circle of life, our brother, is grand indeed, begins and ends with itself. Expanding within its own Nature, constantly changing, evolving, maturing, and creating.

This is the nature of each one, would that they know this. Not only would their lives change forever, but they would be forever changing. Which they already are, except for the illusion of incarnate life. And illusion it is, in terms of identity and the security of sameness, of changelessness. So awareness throttles down to the point where perception of change is so minimal, everything seems to be the same, consistent and stable, predictable.

What then of enormous changes by comparison? They are considered freaks of nature, absurdities, sometimes miracles, but certainly unknowable. They are not unknowable to one who embraces life as it is and as it can be. One who finds security in change, adapting to it, becoming it, living it. The Nature of change, our brother, is life's flow, unstoppable motion. Even truth is evolving, becoming fuller, deeper, more inclusive, even as it changes.

The resistance to change is for the reasons described but in due course the Nature within, the truth within, compels moving with the flow of life and awakening to something larger. Your security is who you are—Life itself. Embrace all you can and then embrace more. Share what you may. Serve Life and each other. Rejoice in the victories. Find peace and joy in the adventure. Namaste.

163. Further understanding of conscious union

Sept. 13, 2018 B

JANU: We are communicating once more via what some might call the 'telepathic' route, except this route is from the Nature of who you are. Realistically speaking, what most fear when attempting this is being open to uncontrolled intrusion. This is controlled by your postulate to become more conscious of 'you,' a sacred desire for conscious union with your own Nature, settling for nothing less. The authority for your experience is the Divine You. Beginning in this way promotes longevity in the purity of consciousness and communication.

Now, the human ego consciousness is still maintained as an integral part of the total you, during this evolution in conscious union. This merging takes your incarnate existence to new levels, bringing about surveillance by ‘who you are’ for all your experience and the guidance needed. Allow this to be your truth and employ it at every opportunity, becoming a way of living. Namaste.

164. The awakening and enlightenment of humanity

Sept. 18, 2018

JANU: Your appraisal of the human condition, meaning the physical entity or body, is a powerful step in an enlightened direction. The urges of procreation in both genders, behind the veil, are subject to exaggeration, misinterpretation, misapplication, abuse, and self-destruction. To see the human vehicle and the vehicles of other species as sacred, to be honored and respected, to be understood, to be treated with respect and dignity, which includes procreation, is a great remedy for ignorance. Each one to see their own physicality in this light is how to begin. Many of the abuses and absurdities and excesses in the human condition are from ignorance, lack of enlightenment, mismanagement of nature. Animals do a better job of this, if you will, for their own natural instincts self-regulate.

Discerning natural urge and instinct in pure form helps one to discern distractions, deviations, misapplication. This is part of loving who you are and respecting that of another. The Larger Life can support this understanding. The awakening and enlightenment of humanity is a worthy service. Namaste.

Editor's Note: This was a result of pondering the controversy surrounding Judge Kavanaugh's confirmation, but is a timeless concept.

165. The guiding principle of life's journey

Sept. 26, 2018

JANU: We are announcing then at this time the progression of suitable consciousness to behold and beckon large amounts of prevailing dominance in the area of prolonged excursion in the incarnate life. Let us explore where this takes us on our journey.

Reach into, then, the heretofore dark recesses of memory and experience of journeys, life excursions of prolonged duration. Some have been brief, others extensive. The guiding principle here is the desire and need for such based on purpose. The purpose here is the awakening of humanity and what that includes, naturally speaking.

What is being established is a life pattern that can be built upon or enhanced whether incarnate or not. For this is part of human destiny, even though unrealized for most—we did not say ‘all’—but that is changing. Witness the growing number of those who demonstrate the ability to manipulate the existence. Tip of the iceberg, our brother, much more to come. Fancy are the adjectives to describe such behavior. But these are superficial behaviors compared to potential.

We will see this occurring even more, but what is needed alongside this is understanding, integrity, principle, clear purpose, destiny, and a respect for life. All of these come from peace. Namaste.

166. Larger Life expresses through the incarnate life

Oct. 2, 2018 B

JANU: We are open, then, to the discounting of prolonged absence from the realms. These excursions into incarnate life have this effect and life patterns. Awakening to the Larger Life returns balance once more to existence. The isolation of the veil as a protocol for incarnation was never intended to be permanent. Humanity has overstayed its welcome, to a degree, isolated from this larger destiny. What we encourage here, our brother, is a growing emphasis upon the Family of the Larger Life, which includes all of those who have incarnated.

We're not suggesting here the leaving of incarnate existence, but the expanding of it to include a peaceful reunion of consciousness of the total being. As this occurs, the reality of incarnate life blossoms and the miracles of living find expression across the realms, you see. So this interest in the awakening of humanity is by no means a minor one. Not only are major changes coming, but they've already begun. The squabbles and minutia of current human consciousness needs to settle into balanced life.

Let us reach then into a more dynamic reality of being and explore the manifestation of human potential, which is really the potential of the whole being. We are by no means alone in this. The Larger Life will find expression throughout the incarnate life. They are one, you see, one in purpose, one in destiny, one in life. Namaste.

167. The joy and peace of revelation

Oct. 11, 2018 B

JANU: Joy is the hallmark of peace. Peace is the DNA, our brother, of true joy. It is the foundation for emerging into the Larger Life. However you exist, however you serve life, exuberance stirs the pot, so to speak, activates the creative forces that bring about manifestation and new direction. Other venues of life have their differences from Earth life, but similarities as well. Peace leaves one's consciousness free to explore everything without prejudice, without condemnation, without judgement. So the palate of life opens with all the colors, possibilities. In this way, the blendings of potential create realities beyond the limits of one.

The crossroads we spoke of before are the moments when two destinies, two potentials find mutual benefit, leading to new and wondrous adventures. So you see, emerging in consciousness to the Larger Life reveals diversity, unlimited potential, and the joy of revelation. And the peace grows deeper, our brother. It operates in the background, so to speak, of the expressions of life. Namaste, our brother.

168. The Nature of Life

Oct. 16, 2018

JANU: We are enabling, if you will, conscious retrieval of the reality of life concerning the nature of existence, its purpose, its creativity, its legacy. The nature of life is founded in the principles of Diogenes, which touches upon this, that being 'first principle.' For even life, in all its forms and expressions, is a transformation of reality that transcends the understanding of life or its reality.

Life is a progression of principles that belong to reality that transcends existence. Pure Isness beyond any cycles of expression, certainly beyond time/space. Even consciousness is a byproduct. Movement and flow are creations, everything you hold dear as cycles of reality, of expression, of existence. Profound peace is a portion of this reality. Even love does not describe this.

The Hierarchy of Light is beginning and end through transformation and cycles of expression. Even potential is a limitation, but all are evidence through their patterns of existence, of the nature of Life. Expanding consciousness is this way helps free one from any sense of limitation. Even the sense of security through power and possessions, companionships, so-called destinies come and go.

Keep the door open, our brother, journeying through it to the larger life. Namaste.

169. Adapting to and creating change

Oct. 16, 2018 B

JANU: Numerous then are the events of the days and the years that lead into the future of humanity. Difficult to interpret as progress for many, but this is the nature of change, letting go of one rung on the ladder to rise to the next. For many, sameness and predictability give a sense of comfort and security, not seeing the nature of the change all around them. This is why change happens slowly, with many reversals. The relationships past, present, and future are life in motion, each influencing the other. So you see, even the past evolves.

So what does one identify with, for comfort and predictability? Part of the consciousness, to flow with change, is to more and more be the cause of it, rather than just be the recipient. Identifying with change makes the flow of life less painful, less disconcerting. But on the contrary, change brings hope for the future, for your True Nature is not in stasis. Adapting to change, and creating it, is more liberating than many realize.

Today is not a predictor for tomorrow. So change, you see, realistically is moment by moment. It is part of the nature of creation, for how can there be creating without change? Namaste.

170. The path to ultimate freedom

Oct. 23, 2018

JANU: We are encouraging a growing revelation as to our True Nature, fundamental identity shifting, our brother. A fuller realization of what and who we are, born to serve, to understand, engage, and evolve as Life itself. For that is the ultimate activity as one with everything, even beyond creation. Not separate from it, but one with all of it. As in the singularity experience, the perspective shifts from, the identity shifts from individuality through the singularity to the all-inclusive consciousness.

The reason for the singularity experience, our brother, is this expansion of identity. Universal consciousness includes all individualities coexisting, unique, individual yet one. A minor application of this is from the human identity to the human group consciousness. These thresholds of understanding apply everywhere. Identity doesn't just shift from one focus to another, but expands to include them all.

Awakening is the theme and this is part of what it includes: inclusive consciousness, the path to ultimate freedom. Namaste.

171. The beauty and magic of awakening

Oct. 23, 2018 B

JANU: We are exacting, if you will, the climate of change as pertains to expansion of consciousness. The paces of change coexist as opportunities for realization by many different consciousnesses across the human spectrum. Let it be known that pointless is the comparison of the change in consciousness from one to another, for each has a different story. Precise measurement of observable change is in such constant flux that the effort misses the point of the reality of this. Collectively, humanity encompasses so many variables which interplay and evolve as a complex collective reality. This is the climate of change that we speak of, allowing each to better match, if you will, with opportunities and follow their own course of development.

So, you see, awakening is a word pointing towards a complex reality that meets the needs of so many variations on the theme. It is a beautiful part of life when observing the magic of it and its blossoming. Cherish this reality, our brother, as a path of freedom on the way to peace. Namaste.

172. Diversity and oneness

Oct. 24, 2018

JANU: The evolution of conscious awareness casts a long shadow in the life of the individual and the social collective. Diversity and oneness coexist. Social collective demonstrates the diversity. The movement collectively and the evolution of consciousness speak of oneness. 'One made of many' not a contradiction but a reality.

The vision to perceive this in leaders of groups and nations is one key to leadership, bringing strength and endurance and a constructive future for all involved. In some realities, this is true for groups of worlds, you see, multiple species and cultures. Everything connected, mutually influential and beneficial, in one way or another.

Beginning with your own personal relationships paves the way for larger understanding. 'Let there be Light' speaks to this. Seeing the truth of the larger potential of life difficult for many to grasp who are limited to individual identity. Worthy of exploration continually. Namaste, our brother.

173. A new day is dawning—change

Oct. 26, 2018 B

JANU: We are referring to, once more, a climate of change that exists for humanity and the rest of the reality of Earth. For those who have the eyes to see and the ears to hear, change is all about. What was once considered a miracle or magic is becoming more and more commonplace. So the tenor is changing of what is 'normal' as opposed to what is 'common.' A single achievement by an individual in human history, seemingly impossible, once accomplished quickly becomes commonplace as people accept the reality that an achievement exists and is available.

So it is with awakening, our brother. Demonstrating this more and more, in many forms, is changing perceptions individually and collectively. It is time for this. Another step forward in the human experience, but known to the True Nature.

So those who do share these things, these achievements, must temper their enthusiasm for there are those who see these as trickery, somehow evil and dark. Those who live in the flow will change and embrace new possibilities. Those holding on to old ways will resist and strike out against those who are moving forward. Discernment is called for here, and patience. In both camps, you see. A new day is dawning. The old one passes. Change never stops. Namaste, our brother.
